

WALL STREET BEAR DRIVE DEPRESSES STOCK LIST AT THE CLOSE

Gains Made in Middle of Day Are Lost When Week-End Adjustment Brings Out Retirement of Long Accounts.

FAVORITES DECLINE UP TO 4 POINTS

Weekly Mercantile Reviews Continue to Show Moderate Business Improvement—Grain Markets
Again Are Weak.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—If bulls were planning to give the bear crowd the week-end squeeze, they had become a fixture of the current campaign, they received a check late in today's stock market, as bulls turned the tables.

The market has displayed considerable weariness of bull stimulation this week, and efforts to give it an upturn toward the close of the week, for the possible salutary effect upon speculative confidence, failed decisively.

The initial position had probably been considerably weakened by the early short covering of the past few weeks, and it is possible the bull leaders finally decided to let the market drop to attract a larger lot of interest. Whether any such maneuver was planned may be gauged from the success bulls have had in driving shorts to cover in tomorrow's brief session.

News Miss the Bears.
Bears were aided by a particularly disappointing sales report by Rohrbaugh, for the ninth percent of his 13-month calendar, which ended Sept. 10. Sales for this period showed a decline of 34.3 per cent from the like period of last year, making the poorest performance since the seventh percent, when the drop was 14.9.

A usual gain of 10 per cent over the preceding period, however, was shown. This tended to counteract particularly cheerful August sales report by Great Atlantic & Pacific Stores, and halted an upward movement in several of the merchandise issues.

The week-end mercantile reviews are again moderately cheerful, as reported improvement in both retail and retail trade for the third successive week. Dun's said, after two weeks of September, it is possible to take a more hopeful view of the outlook. Bradstreet's making favorable comparisons with the same time a year ago, although the average was naturally lower.

After some unsettledness during the morning, bulls succeeded in winning the day, and under the leadership of the utilities, several merchandise issues were also sent higher. Early gains were less, however, and closing quotations disclosed many losses of 2 to 3 points in important issues.
Real sales of 1,900,000 shares showed some quickening from yesterday.

Favorites Drift Lower.

Issues losing 2 to 4 points included American Telephone, Western Union, Electric, American Can, Fidelity, Ashland, Foster Wheeler, Coca-Cola, and Northern Pacific.
Case dropped 5, but closed
1 1/2 up.

Industrial fund lost 6 in a small range. Issues closing off a point were General Electric, Sears-Robuck, Woolworth, North American, National Biscuit, Union Carbide, National Petroleum, and Stone & Webster. U. S. Steel was off 1/2 at the close.

The grain markets were mostly weak, in further reflection of the government crop reports, and South Nebraska crop advices.
Wheat lost about a cent, in symphony with Liverpool. Cotton futures closed about $1 to $1.50 higher.

Foreign exchanges were also weak. Sterling cables dropped 1/2 to 44.86, and the German mark at 24.81 1/2 cents, cables, showed a new low for the year.

Closing stock prices will be found on pages 210, 220 and 230.

INCOME TAX DODGER PENALIZED $10,600

J. W. Cohn Pays $24,000 in All, Including Fine, to Settle Case.

Julius W. Cohn, president of the National Feed Co., with offices in the Merchants' Exchange Building, was fined $250 by Federal Judge Davis today for income tax evasion, after a showing that he had paid the Government $24,537.05, representing $14,147.32 Federal income tax and $10,389.71 in penalties and interest for the year 1928.

The fine was imposed after Cohn had admitted a plan of complicity, or "no contest," to an indictment charging evasion of income tax. A second indictment charging perjury was dismissed by the government.

Assistant United States Attorney
Claude M. Crooks told the Court that Cohn had agreed on a settlement of the tax assessment and that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington had recommended dismissal of the charges, adding that Attorney-General Mitchell had directed that the case be disposed of in court.

"In view of the fact that the Government has compromised the case on the civil side, the court will fine you $250," Judge Davis said.
The maximum penalty for income tax evasion is five years' imprisonment, a $10,000 fine or both.

Cohn had been under $10,000 bond since last January when the charges were made against him. It was alleged that in his return for 1928 he listed income as $17,500, less $1396 taxes paid and $13,000 loss in "worthless" stock of the National Feed Co. After claiming tax exemption as head of a family, and other exemptions, no taxable income remained.

On the other hand, the Government held that his net income was $12,575, and that the stock was worth more than he paid for it in 1913. The Government claimed a tax of $14,147, which was increased by penalties and interest to the amount of the settlement.

The disposition of the case was in line with the practice of the Government which has consistently dropped such prosecutions after effecting a civil settlement. There has been only one trial here for income tax evasion and that resulted in a conviction.

Cohn resides at the Senate Apartments, 285 Union boulevard.

GROUP OF ARKANSAS FARMERS DECLINES DROUTH RELIEF

Declare in Meeting at Helena Conditions Were Exaggerated to Get Help.

HELENA, Ark., Sept. 12.—
Twenty leading farmers of Phillips County, in conference with county Commissioner, declined Federal aid in the form of drouth relief and asserted in a resolution that "drouth conditions everywhere have been exaggerated, including our own county."

Judge John C. Sheffield, a member of the State drouth relief committee, said instances had been found where conditions have been deliberately exaggerated in order to obtain outside aid.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Sept. 12.—The League of Nations council today decided the last remaining defense force of French and Belgian troops should be withdrawn from the Saar district within the next three months.

The action was taken on recommendation of Senator Scialoja of Italy, head of the Italian delegation since the departure of foreign Minister Grandi. Scialoja conferred with Foreign Minister Briand of France and Curtius of Germany on the matter.

The contention of France has been that a force of 250 men was necessary to guarantee security of railway transportation in the Saar district. Curtius insisted the troops were no longer needed. When the Saar commission agreed to guarantee the security of the railways Briand yielded to the German request.

The council also voted to increase the number of World Court Judges from 11 to 15, to increase the salaries of the judges, and to allow pensions to the personnel of the Court after next January.

These three provisions are in accordance with the new World Court statute, but were enacted by the Assembly today. It was said that the absence of the Italian Foreign Minister Grandi, who took his departure suddenly on Wednesday, had something to do with the bartering over the Tunis and Tripoli questions that have been engaging attention here. It was understood on good authority that some sort of definite offer had been made by either France or Italy and that a definite reply could be expected shortly. That a long naval holiday may be the accepted solution was the opinion put forth.

Naval Holiday Predicted.

LION IN THE DARK SITS IN GRANDSTAND WITH CROWD AT FAIR

Small Boy Calls "Look at the Dog" and Scramble for Exits Starts.

By the Associated Press.

PORT ROYAL, Pa., Sept. 12.—
A circus lion escaped from its cage during a fireworks celebration last night at the Port Royal Fair, and for 20 minutes sat in the unlighted grandstand unnoticed.

Then the shout of a small boy,
"Look at the dog," disclosed the animal to the crowd, and several thousand persons rushed for the exits. Several women fainted in the crush. A few persons who remained in the stands fled in confusion when the animal roared.

State troopers with drawn revolvers formed a circle about the lion until circus attendants located it and dragged it back to its cage.
The fireworks exhibition and circus performance, which was to follow, were called off.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH OFFICES IN STANDARD OIL STATIONS

Service, Starting in October, to Increase Filing Places
By 3500.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Extension of telegraph facilities to motorists on the nation's highways by establishment of offices in service stations of the Standard Oil group is announced by the Postal Telegraph-Cable Co.

The service will be inaugurated the first week in October at 500 stations and will increase the number of Postal telegraph offices in the United States to 11,000 from 7500. A. H. Griswold, executive vice-president of the company, said the service had possibilities of eventually adding 35,000 to 40,000 stations to the Post's list.

Griswold said the new arrangement would make it possible for a motorist to drive to a Standard service station, write a telegram while his automobile was being serviced and file it with the station attendant. From the station the attendant either will telephone the message to the nearest wire point or ring for a messenger.

CUBAN DIVORCE COURTS RIVAL THOSE OF PARIS AND RENO

Decrees Already Granted to 20 Americans Since Passage of New Laws.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 12.—Paris and Reno, mecca of divorce-seeking Americans, now are experiencing Latin-American competition.

Six months ago Congress passed a new code of divorce laws. News of the ease of obtaining a Cuban divorce then started going the rounds and already, court records show that 20 Americans have obtained decrees.

The code of the divorce, including attorney's fees and other minor expenses, is estimated at $300.
A review of the case is not absolutely necessary. Americans need only to present the clerk with letters from their Cuban attorneys do the rest.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—An increase of $2,200,000 in the appropriation for the Prohibition Bureau was asked today by Director

The prohibition director asked for the additional funds principally for the employment of 500 additional agents. He has 1478

"He could 'dry up' the nation with the increased staff," Woodcock replied. "I don't know."
The total appropriation for prohibition enforcement, including funds for the coast guard and De-activities is now $15,000,000.

freight train, loaded with casing-head gasoline, went into the ditch and caught fire at Kremlin, 12 miles northwest of here, today.

Three of the men burned to death tank exploded.

All members of the train crew were accounted for. They were unhurt.

One of the men killed suffered

ERUPTION PARTLY DESTROYS TOWNS NEAR STROMBOLI

Lava From Volcano Spreads Over City and Surrounding Vineyards, Destroying Grape Crops.

4 PERSONS KILLED AND NINE INJURED

Inhabitants of Island Spend Night in Open Fearing Another Outburst From Mountain.

By the Associated Press. MESSINA, Italy, Sept. 12.—The people of Messina, Stromboli and Lipari today turned anxious eyes toward the Stromboli volcano.

The 3000 residents of Stromboli Island slept last night in the open under tents provided by Government ships sent to them after yesterday's eruption and violent earthquake shock. Three thousand feet above them was the volcano. All of the Aeolian Islands were affected by the earthquake, but only the circular island of Stromboli suffered from the volcanic disturbance.

Two torpedo boats came from Stromboli shortly before midnight, bringing one badly injured person, reporting four dead at Ginestra, one woman missing and nine residents injured.

Many fires started by the volcano were extinguished by firemen landed from the warships.

Stromboli was the heaviest loser from the eruption. Aside from the fatalities, three villages were partly destroyed and acres of fertile land laid waste. That more lives were not lost was due to the warning which the volcano gave to the inhabitants.

The double catastrophe came at a bad time for the Stromboli grape growers, who have been nursing their choicest product for National Grape day, on Sept. 28. The lava, instead of going down to the sea, spread over the city of Stromboli and surrounding countryside until there was little left of the grape crop.

The lesson which the authorities learned on July 23 in the Apennines was applied promptly to Stromboli at the first warning. The speedy dispatch of four destroyers and two torpedo boats, together with mine layers and the coast steamer Boland, with ten other vessels, averted serious inconvenience and possible suffering to the inhabitants.

Investigators found that the volcano opened at its base. While the cone was blown off and burning rocks were shot from the crater an opening forced through the earth at the base poured out lava and burning stones which reached the villages before the lava from the cone.

Japanese Volcano Throws Ashes on Resort Town.

By the Associated Press. TOKIO, Sept. 12.—Asama, Japan's most active volcano, erupted violently today, sending a shower of ashes and small stones on Karuizawa, the small town nearby noted as a summer resort and meeting place of missionaries.

Villages nearer the mountain were subjected to a hail of falling stones which damaged roofs. Ashes damaged crops. Flying fire ignited the woods near the mountain base. One Japanese mountain climber was seriously injured. Asama has been unusually active this summer, erupting frequently.

be $54,444,804 on June 30, 1929, exclusive of allowances for materials and supplies, working capital and going value. This included $39,559,145 for the property used in serving St. Louis. The remaining operating property is in five other operating districts in Franklin, St. Charles, Jefferson, St. Francois and St. Louis Counties.

These costs were not depreciated. The accountants stated they used the depreciation amounts charged by the company in the absence of any other definite figures as to annual depreciation of the property, but said this should not be construed as approval of the company's depreciation charges. Public utilities are permitted to set aside fixed allowances from revenues to replace wear and tear and preserve the property. The Union Electric has been setting up approximately 2.5 per cent of the value of the depreciable property annually for a depreciation reserve. The commis-

Boonville School Board Appeals to Governor Following Chancery Murder.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 12.—A resolution requesting the next General Assembly of Missouri to abolish the system of permitting inmates of State penal institutions unguarded liberties as trustees has been received by Gov. Caulfield from the Boonville Board of Education.

The resolution is an aftermath of the murder near Boonville Tuesday of C. E. Chancery, Superintendent of Schools at Boonville, by Tony Vrieki, 22-year-old reformatory inmate, in an attempt to escape.

Condemning what it termed an "inexcusable policy," the resolution said the Missouri reformatory system was apparently based on a policy of letting unguarded liberty within our midst to inmates whose past records of atrocities indicated them to be potential murderers.

The resolution asked Gov. Caulfield to issue instructions that no "unguarded liberties whatever" be allowed Missouri reformatory inmates.

Frank B. Jones, chairman of the State penitentiary board, said Vrieki's past record was such that he should have been confined in the penitentiary.

Vrieki was back in the penitentiary here after being secretly taken to the Missouri reformatory for arraignment. He waived a preliminary hearing and was held without bond under a first degree murder charge.

The resolution under which Vrieki will be tried will be filed Monday in Howard County by A. B. Lovan, Assistant Attorney-General assigned to the prosecution.

But Judge A. M. Walker, who set the trial for an early date, said Vrieki does not remember any details of his escape or the murder. He has not seen any attorney or members of his family but prison officials have orally permitted to see him if they wish.

535 ENROLLED AT CONCORDIA This is 60 More Than Last Year's Record Number.

An enrollment of 535 students at Concordia Seminary, 60 in excess of last year's record number, was announced yesterday by Dean J. H. C. Fritz. Of the number, 445 will reside at the school and the remainder from St. Louis, will live at home.

Two new professors, the Rev. E. J. Friedrich of the chair of homiletics and Theodore H. Buehler of the chair of systematic theology, began work yesterday.

There will be a day of reckoning for a procedure of that character, and we intend to lend the aid of our resources and our experience to assist the city in protecting itself from action of this kind.

Egan made the statement in discussion of a controversy over validity of a perpetual franchise claimed by the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis. Mayor Miller had asked Attorney-General Gentry to file a suit in the Supreme Court to test the Laclede franchise, acting on an opinion by Union Electric attorneys that the franchise was not perpetual. Gentry refused to file the suit. The controversy arose after Charles A. Munroe of Chicago and his associates had persuaded the commission to give the Laclede a valuation approximately $10,000,000 greater than its book value, then sold their holdings for profits of several million dollars.

Later, in March, 1928, after the commission had called upon Union Electric executives for a rate reduction, Egan declared his company would not seek a valuation from the Public Service Commission on the reproduction new theory, in any rate proceeding arising from the commission's action.

In June, 1927, Louis H. Egan, president of the Union Electric, in a formal statement to the Post-Dispatch, said: "We distinctly do not believe in making valuations of public utilities and demanding compensation rates thereon, and we are not making such valuations."

Where the Revenue Went. For the year ending June 30, 1929, the operating revenues of the Missouri plant totaled $20,110,815. Deduction of $11,931,142 for operating expenses and $1,545,500 for depreciation reserve left a net operating revenue of $6,784,215 available for return.

For St. Louis only, operating revenues totaled $14,414,499, from which was deducted $8,503,365 in operating expenses and $1,869,074 for depreciation, leaving $5,142,045 available for return on the St. Louis property.

The accountants did not make an allowance for going value, which is fixed by the commission. The allowances in such cases usually vary from 5 to 10 per cent of the physical property. Using the larger allowance the investment theory valuation of the St. Louis property would be about $45,846,000, which the net income available amounted to a return of 11.2 per cent. The valuation of the entire Missouri operating property would be about $52,511,000, on which the net income available for the year ending June 30, 1929, would be about 10.8 per cent.

The company's annual report for 1929 placed the rate base value of its property at $70,068,000, which included about $4,800,000 expended in 1929 on the Osage River hydroelectric project, under construction near Bagnell, Mo. The commission does not permit inclusion of proposed improvements in the rate base until they are completed and in service.

Subsidiary Companies. The company's assets included $31,442,718 in investments in securities of 16 subsidiary and affiliated companies on June 30, 1929, which are not in the investment cost value found for the Union Electric operating property by the accountants. Some of these subsidiaries in turn control other utilities. The Union Electric is controlled by the North American Co., through an intermediate holding company, the North American Edison Co. Union Electric securities outstanding on June 30, 1929, totaled $75,680,030.

Principal among the Union Electric subsidiaries are the Mississippi River Power Co., which owns the Keokuk hydro-electric plant, and the Union Electric Light & Power Co. of Illinois, which owns steam plants at Cahokia and Venice, Ill.

In the year ending June 30, 1929, the Union Electric Co. purchased 91 per cent of the electric stock of Illinois, which owns steam plants at Cahokia and Venice, Ill.

During the year ending June 30, 1929, the Union Electric received a non-operating profit of $1,954,484 derived chiefly from dividends from the various subsidiary companies. During that period earnings of the Keokuk plant were estimated by the accountants as equivalent to a return of 10.35 per cent. Union of Missouri owns 99 per cent of the Mississippi River Power Co. stock.

(Copyright, 1930.) SARANAC INN, N. Y., Sept. 12.

FROM the time when President Washington negotiated the May treaty with England, up to the present hour, almost every important agreement ratified with a foreign power has been accompanied in this country by bitter criticism of our own government and wholesale assaults upon the other contracting country. Yet, in the light of history, it would be hard to find such an agreement that has not been fairly justified by results. After the bad temper of the period has been dissipated by time and reason, the mutual advantages have been apparent. Our diplomacy has not been inferior. Our statesmen have been able to be just to ourselves and fair to others.

Rancor of such nature not only does not pay, but it is not right. We want to live on friendly terms with all the world. Instead of catering to the instinct of the barbarian, who considers every stranger an enemy, we shall make more progress if we follow the dictates of religious enlightenment, which teaches that all men are brothers. The breadth of our civilization is measured in no small part by the attitude of our people toward foreign people.

Munch also submitted to the Assembly, on behalf of Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Holland and Switzerland, a resolution calling for regulation of "most favored nation principles" in its application.

"The Assembly, considering the uncertainty which now exists concerning the interpretation and application of the most favored nation clause, asks the Council to study the means of expediting the work undertaken some time ago by the League of Nations with a view to international regulation of the problem of the cause of the most favored nation," the resolution says.

The representatives of Holland and Denmark also expressed their concern over Europe's economic anarchy. They urged that the work of disarmament be hastened in the hope that a general disarmament conference might be called next year.

Beauregard van Blockland, of Holland, referring to the project of Brand, French foreign minister, for a federation of European states van Blockland told the assembly that in any scheme of international co-operation participation of the League of Nations would be essential.

He expressed the view of his country that results of the last year in organization of the movement for eliminating customs barriers had been disappointing, and that his Government was dissatisfied with progress toward disarmament although the value of the London treaty must be recognized.

Van Blockland, who represents a free trade country, warned the assembly that if the growing tendency to strengthen systems of

About half of the loot was recovered from the clothing of the robber, from the automobile used by the holdup men and in the swamp where they dropped it after their flight.

BOGUS CHECK WRITER

MRS. RUTH CUNNINGHAM

WOMAN CHECK FORGER

ARRESTED THIRD TIME

Mrs. Ruth Cunningham Admits Writing $600 Drafts—Sentenced Twice.

Mrs. Ruth Cunningham, who was sentenced to the City Workhouse last year for passing worthless checks, told reporters today that she had lived on worthless checks for the past several months.

Arrested last night at the Windermere Hotel, 5601 Delmar boulevard, where she had registered the day before under one of her many names, Mrs. Cunningham was identified by three persons who had been defrauded by checks. "There are about 20 more checks that should come back," she said, estimating that she had obtained about $600.

Mrs. Cunningham, who says she is 25 years old, a divorcee, stenographer and mother of a 5-year-old boy, was arrested on the complaint of Joseph Cheswick, auditor of the Park Manor Hotel, 5560 Pershing avenue, who said he gave him a worthless check for $50 Sept. 5 to pay a $30 hotel bill, receiving $20 in cash.

Mrs. Millie Aussicker, who runs an apparel shop at 715 Euclid avenue, said she cashed a $10 check for Mrs. Cunningham on July 19, and then left the woman in charge of the store while she ran an errand. When she returned, Mrs. Aussicker said, her volume clerk was gone with $38 in cash, an $18 dress and a $2.50 hat box.

Mrs. Anna Fagan, operating the Anne Lustig Shoppe, 4939 Delmar boulevard, identified Mrs. Cunningham as the woman who, on July 22, cashed a bad check for $50, after buying two suits and a hat. Mrs. Cunningham admitted these three charges, but refused to name victims who had not come forward.

Mrs. Cunningham was arrested in March and June of last year. In July she was sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse and in August to six months. She served her sentence in the city jail and was released last February.

"I got myself a job as an office girl and tried to keep my record a secret," she said. "But there are goosies everywhere and I was fired when my boss heard that I had been in jail. It was easy to cash checks so I went back to it."

CHIMPANZEES RESUME SHOW

Back on Job at Zoo With Regular Trainer.

Trained chimpanzees at Forest Park Zoo have resumed their daily performance with the return of their trainer, Max Mall, who has been on leave of absence for two months because of illness.

Henry and Duffy, star performers of the troupe, go through their paces each afternoon at 3 o'clock. On Sunday afternoons there are two performances, at 2:30 and 3:30 o'clock.

During Mall's absence the chimpanzees refused to go through with their full performance for an assistant trainer.

Atlantic City. She moved to Washington recently.

Detective Fitzgerald reported from Racquette Lake last night that two men, one of them answering the description of the missing Justice, passed through that region either Sept. 1 or 2.

The men were reported by the manager of a public hunting lodge at Racquette Lake as having stopped at the lodge Aug. 30 and part of Aug. 31. The manager informed New York police he was "positive" one of the men was the missing Justice after pictures had been shown to him here.

The men were traveling in a Packard car, Fitzgerald said. Justice Crater did not own such a machine.

Another New York night club was injected into the mystery when Sally Ritz and Alice Woods, now with the Artists and Models company in Chicago, informed police in that city that the missing Justice had entertained them here at "some club on Forty-seventh street."

Justice Crater, the girls said, escorted them from the Shubert Theater to the club in the portance of this information lay in the fact that Crater was last seen going west on Forty-sixth street the night of Aug. 6. The only night club Crater was known previously to have been in the habit of frequenting was the Abbey, West Fifty-fourth street, where he met Elaine Dawn, dancer, now in Polytechnic Hospital.

ENDS LIFE AFTER SHOOTING MAN OVER WOMAN

D. L. Nicholson, East St. Louis Engineer, Wounds Arthur Page He Accused of Courting Her.

After seriously wounding Arthur Page, 20 years old, of 15 South Main street, East St. Louis, whom he accused of attentions to a woman known as his wife, David L. Nicholson, 45 years old, a railroad engineer, living at the same address, killed himself there last yesterday. One of the shots fired by Nicholson at the young man struck a Negro bystander.

According to Page, whose mother, Mrs. Mary Page, operates the rooming-house, he and two other men had driven up in front of the house in an automobile, when Nicholson came out of the house and asked, "Where's my wife?"

Forcing Page from the car, he compelled him to help search the house to find the woman known as Mrs. Ida Nicholson.

When they returned to a front hall, Page ran to the front door, followed by Nicholson who fired five shots at him, four of which hit Charles Lamar, 45-year-old Negro of 106 North Second street, who was passing the house, in the left shoulder. Page, with one bullet over the heart and three in the back, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

Patrolman Patrick Ryan, hearing the shots, arrived at Page's home, where he found Nicholson, who had gone to his room on the second floor. Nicholson obeyed his orders to come out and appeared with a revolver in his hand. When Ryan ordered him to drop the weapon, Nicholson shot himself in the right temple, killing himself instantly.

On the first floor, the policeman found the woman known as Mrs. Nicholson, who had meanwhile entered the house. She said that she had come in during the quarrel and had run from the second floor as Nicholson came upstairs after shooting Page, and threatening that "somebody was going to be killed."

She said her name is Mrs. Ida Deane, 23 years old, and that she was not married to Nicholson. She denied Page had ever manifested any affection for her, and explained that Nicholson was apparently crazed by drink. She met Nicholson about a year ago, she said, and had temporarily left him last month when she learned that he had a wife and family at Illinois. She later returned at his request.

Nicholson, who was employed by the Cotton Belt Railroad, and Mrs. Deane were preparing to move from the rooming house when the shooting occurred.

REFEREE WOULD DISMISS SODINI BANKRUPTCY ACTION

Schedules Not Filed and It Is Obstructing Other Suits, He Reports.

A report recommending that the voluntary bankruptcy petition of Harry A. Sodini, former hotel operator, be dismissed for failure to file schedules of assets and liabilities within the time prescribed by law, was filed in Federal Court by Referee in Bankruptcy Coles today.

The report states that the referee has been informed that several suits pending against Sodini in Circuit Court are being obstructed by the pendency of the bankruptcy action.

Sodini, part owner and manager of the Maryland Hotel from 1926 until last February when he sold his interest after an audit of his accounts, filed the bankruptcy petition May 9, but did not include schedules.

In opposing the motion of his wife for temporary alimony pending disposition of a divorce suit which was later dismissed, Sodini testified recently that he was hard pressed financially and was defendant in suits to collect debts exceeding $100,000. He said he owed $50,000 in addition. He formerly lived at 5 Washington terrace. At the time of bankruptcy his address was given as 2748 Accomac street.

IDENTIFIES SKELETON FOUND AT TWELFTH-BIDDLE SITE

Woman Says Dental Work Is That of Brother James J. Duddy, Who Disappeared in 1925.

The parts of a human skeleton, unearthed Monday by a steam shovel at the site of the new Illinois Terminal building, Twelfth and Biddle streets, were claimed today by Mrs. Katherine Pairin, 2410 Coleman street, who identified the dental work as that of her brother, James J. Duddy, who disappeared in May, 1925.

Duddy, a janitor, 47 years old, lived alone in the rear of 914 High street, two blocks from the place where the bones were unearthed. He disappeared suddenly, leaving his personal property and a small amount of money in his room.

Mrs. Pairin and a friend, Mrs. Jennie Drewes, said they identified the remains by the fact that three of Duddy's upper teeth were missing and his false teeth and bridge work were the same as that of the skull. Coroner's physicians have been unable to determine from the bones how the man met his death.

50-Year Study of Women In Gainful Occupations

In 1920 Members of Sex Comprised Fifth of Total Working Population, United States Census Bureau Reports.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A 50-year study of women in gainful occupations, from 1870 to 1920, was published today by the United States Census Bureau as a background for 1930 census observations on women's status. Dr. Joseph A. Hill, a student at the Census Director, is author of the monograph.

A foreword by Seymour L. Andrews sets forth: "Whatever opinions may be held as to the proper sphere of women, the fact is that, to a considerable extent, woman's place today is no longer in the home." Andrews commends Dr. Hill for "refraining from excursions into realms of speculation" and making "no moralizations as to the presumed effect on home life of the participation of women in gainful occupations."

In 1920, Dr. Hill found 24 per cent of all women were engaged in gainful occupations and women comprised 20 per cent of the total working population. One married woman in 11 was working for a wage and two of every nine women at work were married. Of unmarried women, 48.6 per cent were earning money.

A special study of married women in 11 cities is included in the monograph to answer the question, "Do gainfully employed married women have a normal home life?"

It found that in these cities, Fall River, Mass., Providence, R. I., Rochester, N. Y., Paterson, N. J., Cincinnati, O., Indianapolis, Ind., St. Paul, Minn., Kansas City, Mo., Atlanta, Ga., Louisville, Ky., and New Orleans, La., 37.6 per cent of the married women engaged in gainful occupations were not living with their husbands in homes or their own, but were either boarders or lodgers.

"If the normal home life for a married woman be defined as living with her husband in a home of her own, then somewhat more than one-third of these married women gainfully employed did not have a normal home life," is Dr. Hill's conclusion.

In the 50-year period, Dr. Hill finds, women school teachers increased from $7,047 to $62,500, partly accounted for by replacement of men by women. He notes decided decreases in the number of women employed as servants, dressmakers, laundresses, milliners, tailors and boarding and lodging house keepers.

"Women are not leaving the occupation as much as the occupation is leaving them," he says of this category.

OWNER RECOVERS $400 BANJO STOLEN FROM HIM YEAR AGO

Left in Street Car—Dealer Recognizes It When It Is Offered for Sale.

A $400 banjo, which had gathered dust on a shelf in the lost and found Department of the Public Service Co. for a year, found its way back today to the musician from whom it was stolen in August, 1929.

B. C. Bell, a Pace line conductor, found the instrument in his car in September, 1929, and turned it in. Unclaimed at the end of a year, it was given to Bell, who decided to sell it, having no need for a banjo inlaid with mother of pearl.

Bell offered the banjo at the Rudolph Wurlitzer Co., 1006 Olive street, where a salesman recognized it as one he had sold to A. G. Bradford, 2530 Sheridan avenue, Granite City. The record showed that Bradford had faithfully met time-payment notes although the banjo was taken by burglars shortly after he bought it.

Bell, Bradford and a Wurlitzer representative met at Police Headquarters today and the musician went home with the banjo.

PAROLED YOUTH SLAIN WHEN HE RESISTS DEPUTY

Officer and Perry Dees, 17, Exchange Shots Following Two-Mile Chase Near Pacific, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PACIFIC, Mo., Sept. 12.—After being threatened by two men with shotguns when he sought to search a farmhouse near here for stolen property yesterday, Deputy Sheriff Lee Reed of St. Clair, Franklin County, returned with a search warrant and killed one of the men in an exchange of shots.

The victim was Perry Dees, 17 years old, who had been living at the farmhouse with his brother-in-law, Frank Sida. He was paroled recently from Booneville reformatory. Sida escaped after the shooting. Deputy Reed was exonerated in a verdict of justifiable homicide by a Coroner's jury last night.

Reed and Constable Michael Casey of Labadie had gone to the farmhouse to search for a concrete mixer stolen from a construction company employing Dees and Sida. The pair, each armed with a shotgun and three revolvers, met the officers and refused to permit them to enter. When the officers returned with a search warrant, the pair fled, Dees running through a wood to a road leading to Pacific.

Following in an automobile, the officers overtook Dees after he had run nearly two miles on foot. Deputy Reed, seeing Dees running through the woods, leaped from the car and commanded him to halt. Instead, Dees, about 50 feet away, whirled discharged his shotgun at the deputy but missed.

Reed returned the fire, a pellet striking Dees in the right eye.

The concrete mixer was found in a barn near the farmhouse. Its tracks had led the officers to the farm on their first visit. The farm is about four miles east of Pacific on United States Highway No. 66.

While the inquest was being held in Pacific last night, Sida drove through the town waving a shotgun. Officers pursued him to Washington where they lost sight of him.

LEEVE JURY CUTS VIEWERS' AWARD NEARLY ONE-THIRD

Returns Verdict of $6555 Compensation on Tract of Land Taken for Set-Back Levee.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Sept. 12.—A Federal Court jury of which about half the members were farmers returned a verdict of $6555 compensation yesterday after two hours and 20 minutes of deliberation, slicing nearly a third from the viewers' award of $9307 in the first jury trial of Judge Farris flood control "field day."

Selection of another jury began before the verdict was returned, for trial of exceptions to the viewers' award of $21,562 for an 87-acre slice taken from a 640-acre tract five miles south of East Prairie, belonging to the Missouri State Life Insurance Co.

More significant than the verdict in the minor case completed was the inevitable conclusion that a great part of the two days of expert testimony had been wasted. Much of it concerned a drainage ditch being constructed by the Government to care for drainage blocked by the Southeast Missouri set-back levee. Right of way for the levee is being acquired in these Government condemnation suits, and right of way for the drainage ditch is to be covered by separate suits.

Testimony Balances.

Rebuttal testimony by Government experts balanced testimony by expert witnesses for the land owner attacking the adequacy of the evidence. Judge Farris instructed the jury. The jury, it was learned after the verdict was rendered, had arrived individually at the conclusion before the instructions were delivered and thereafter attached little, if any, weight to the ditch testimony.

A Government witness Judge Farris had pointed out, testified that an existing ditch would carry 600 to 700 cubic feet of water a second and the proposed ditch would carry $10. A defense witness said the new ditch ought to carry 1124 cubic feet a second but the judge said that had nothing to do with the case. He explained that all the Government was required to do was to equal present drainage. He gave the usual instructions on opinion evidence, that one man's opinion, given equal knowledge of the facts on which to form it, is as good as another. This, it transpired, had considerable bearing on a chief perplexity of the jury.

Estimates Vary $9000.

Estimates of value had varied as much as $9000 between Government and land owners' expert witness on real estate. While the jury attached full weight to engineering testimony to physical facts of the damage due directly and indirectly to construction and future use of the set-back levee, members keenly felt the evidence to assist in reconciling the contradictory estimates of value.

No detailed testimony was presented covering how the experts arrived at their estimates—what elements they had considered or how they appraised each element. The jury attitude was remarkably close to Judge Farris' prescription given months ago but so far unfulfilled for proper trial of these cases. He suggested engineering testimony to physical facts of damage plus factual testimony to known market values, accessibility to schools and markets, and facts of production and income as the basis for juryment to arrive at their own estimates of compensation.

TEXTILE WORKERS DEMAND 6-HOUR DAY, 30-HOUR WEEK

Union Also Votes for Repeal of Eighteenth Amendment to Aid Unemployed.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Repeal of the eighteenth amendment and adoption of the six-hour day and the five-day week were advocated as steps to relieve unemployment in resolutions adopted today by the United Textile Workers of America.

Speakers contended repeal would give 100,000 men employment in breweries and would "directly or indirectly give employment to 2,000,000 workers."

A campaign to organize silk mill workers in Pennsylvania was authorized by the delegates after speakers had denounced working conditions in Allentown, Pa., as "a menace to the entire industry."

YOUNG FARMER ADMITS KILLING WOMAN NEAR HARRISBURG, MO. Suspect Caught in Oklahoma Incident Shooting at Cabin Door Was Accidental.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 12.—Willard Bruce, 22-year-old farmer, after more than seven hours of questioning, has admitted the killing of Mrs. Nannie Lemaster, 63, but maintained it was an accident, and said: "I don't remember anything until my father told me what happened the next day."

Bruce, who killed the woman at her home near Harrisburg, north of here, is under indictment for first degree murder and assault with intent to kill. Mrs. Lemaster's daughter, Mrs. Henrietta Riley, 32, was blinded by a shot fired by a man whom she said was Bruce. She never saw the assailant.

Bruce, who disappeared after the killing, was found at Mannford, Ok., and brought here. His whereabouts was learned by tracing letters sent his family at Harrisburg under aliases. Mrs. Lemaster and Mrs. Riley were shot as they stood in the doorway of their cabin. Bruce said the rifle was accidentally discharged when he placed his leg over the rifle which was tied to his saddle. He had been hunting.

IRIGOYEN UNDER ARREST ON BOARD ARGENTINE SHIP

Minister of Interior Says Deposed President Will Not Be Landed at Montevideo, Uruguay.

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 12.—Sanchez Sorondo, Minister of the Interior, today informed the Associated Press that former President Irigoyen is under arrest on board the cruiser Belgrano and has not been permitted to leave Argentine jurisdiction.

The Interior Minister denied reports that Irigoyen would be transferred to a steamer from the Belgrano or landed at Montevideo.
The Minister said the cruiser is still in Argentine waters, about two hours from La Plata awaiting orders.

No News of Irigoyen at Uruguayan Capital.

By the Associated Press.
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept.
12.—The British steamship Highland Princess arrived here today bringing Horacio B. Oyhanarte, Foreign Minister in the Irigoyen Government at Buenos Aires. He embarked at La Plata just before his deposed chief went into exile on the cruiser Belgrano.
The steamship Corrales, which plies between Montevideo and Buenos Aires, arrived this forenoon, but its captain reported he had not sighted the Belgrano.

TO KEEP U. S. AMBASSADORSHIP
H. F. Guggenheim Will Not Resign, Official Report Says.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Reports that Harry F. Guggenheim would not return to Cuba as United States Ambassador brought an announcement from the State Department officials today that he would sail or fly to Havana at the end of his present vacation. The Ambassador has been at Port Washington, Long Island, after his first winter in Havana.

Unofficial reports received in Washington have indicated the political unrest manifested in recent revolutions in the Argentine, Peru, and Bolivia might possibly become apparent in Cuba. State Department officials said today, however, no official cables indicated unrest in the island.

Three Illinois Bankers Indicted.
By the Associated Press.
QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 12.—Failure of the First National Bank at Mount Sterling, Ill., was reflected today in the indictment of three of the bank's former officers before Judge Louis FitzHenry in Federal Court. Those named are Elias P. Crane, president; Robert
R. Turner, cashier, and Homer G.
Vanderventer, vice president. The indictment charges false entries in reports on the bank's condition.
District Attorney Walter Provine said that Department of Justice accountants are still investigating.

as fractured ribs and a fractured left arm. He was then taken home at his own request. Murphy said Carroll was not to blame, and told relatives he did not wish to prosecute. Carroll said Murphy stepped from behind another machine into the path of his car.

This death brings the total of motor vehicle fatalities in St. Louis since Jan. 1 to 104, compared with 110 during the corresponding period last year.

Boy Hit by Auto in Alley: Driver Frees, Suspect Caught.

Oscar Hoff, 14 years old, 3224
Williams place, suffered fractures of the skull and hip yesterday afternoon when struck in an alley in the rear of his home by an automobile, the driver of which failed to stop.

A description of the machine, a roadster, was broadcast over the police radio and a short time later detectives riding in a police machine saw a car answering the description given by witnesses. The driver, who said he is Paul Falkner, 22, of 6908 Natural Bridge avenue, admitted, police say, that he drove through the alley in the rear of the Hoff home, but denied that his machine struck anyone.

Mrs. Elizabeth Henke, 64 years old, 1826 Lami street, suffered a fractured skull when struck by a truck driven by Edgar Muskopf, 4541 Arco avenue, while crossing Market street at Twelfth boulevard.

Thelma Conlee, 7, 1520 Warren street, suffered a fractured skull when struck by a machine in front of her home. Onnie Runnels, 1811 Wash street, the driver, swerved his machine against a parked car in an effort to avoid striking the girl.

ESTIMATES CITY'S SOOT FALL
AT 400 TONS A SQUARE MILE
This is in a Year and Is Reduction
From 800 Previously, Says
J. L. Hamilton.

Efforts in recent years to eliminate smoke have reduced the soot fall in St. Louis from 800 to 400 tons per square mile annually, J. L.
Hamilton, a director of the Citizens'
Smoke Abatement League, said over radio station WIL last night. A still greater reduction must be obtained, he declared.

Estimating expenses incurred chiefly because of smoke by a family of five living in an eight-room house, Hamilton asserted the total for laundry, cleaning rugs and draperies, redecorating walls, painting, housecleaning and fuel was $1275 a year in the city, where smoke is bad, but only $499 in a comparatively smoke-free suburban district.
He figured $125 a year for soft coal for the city family and $150 a year for smokeless fuel for the suburban home. The difference is $475 a year.

Owners of domestic heating plants, which are the greatest smoke offenders, must co-operate if there is to be a further appreciable reduction of smoke, Hamilton said.
He cited large reductions in the last four years among industrial plants, railroads and apartments housing six or more families.

COMMERCE CHAMBER DUES DEDUCTED FROM FIRMS' TAXES
Federal Board of Appeals Permits Action by Kansas City
Dry Goods Store.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Federal Board of Tax Appeals today gave a decision permitting a Kansas City firm to deduct from its taxable income subscriptions and membership dues paid to the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce.

The decision permits the Emery, Bird, Thayer Dry Goods Co. of Kansas City, to deduct payments of $497 made in 1927 to the Chamber, thus saving a tax of $550, for that year. The Board held "the evidence is persuasive and convincing that such memberships and the subscriptions and dues paid on account thereof were intended to and did materially increase the volume of the petitioner's business."

Tax refunds of more than $350, 000 were announced by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. They follow:
Remington Paper and Power Co.,
New York City, $234,946; The Torrington Co., Torrington, Conn., $95,820; The George M. Jones Co., Toledo, O., $22,951.

TIRES ORDERED FROM SHOP STOLEN FROM DELIVERY MAN
Motorist With Revolver Greets Employee at Skinker and Delmar.

The Johnson Bros. Tire & Service Co., 2145 Washington boulevard, received a telephone order for two tires, valued at $20, to be delivered to Skinker and Delmar boulevards yesterday afternoon.
When an employee, Jerry Crafton, arrived with the tires, a man with a revolver forced him to drive to Skinker and Olive boulevard, and put the tires in a machine bearing an Ohio license plate. The robber then drove away.

Percy Tresidder was putting his automobile in a garage at the rear of his home, 5065 Maple avenue, when he was held up by an armed man who took $17 and the machine. Police found the automobile later on Page boulevard near Kingshighway.

ECLIPSE OBSERVERS SAIL
They Take Candy and Breads to Pay Islanders.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—
Scientists equipped with lollipops and telescopes, glass beads and astronomical cameras, set sail for Niuafoou, or Tinian Island, aboard the liner Ventura yesterday.

They hope to acquire and compile data on the total solar eclipse, which will be visible from that island of the Tonga group Oct. 21.
The candy, beads, tobacco and other trinkets will be used to pay the natives who help set up the equipment.

FIVE HURT IN PLANE ACCIDENT
Air Transport Forced Down in Ball Park at Mullin, Idaho.

By the Associated Press.
MILLAN, Idaho, Sept. 12.—Four passengers and a pilot were hurt slightly last night when an air transport, St. Paul-Spokane plane, cracked up in a ditch after a forced landing in a ball park here.

Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson Dies.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson, widow of the second president of the University of Chicago, died today after a several months' illness. She was 60 years old. Mrs. Judson went abroad to live and travel after her husband's death several years ago. Last spring she became ill in Paris and returned to Chicago to enter the Billings Memorial Hospital, at the university. Death was caused by intestinal and cerebral complications.
A daughter, Mrs. Gordon Laird, wife of the graduate dean of arts and literature at the university, survives.

Ford Increases Workers at Atlanta.
ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 12.—The Atlanta Ford Motor Co. plant, according to announcement today, will start Monday on an increased production schedule with 150 additional employees. The new schedule calls for 25 additional car units a day in the plant, bringing the total to 125 cars a day.

GUATEMALA LIFTS "SIEGE" Modified Martial Law Has Been in Force a Year.

GUATEMALA CITY, Sept. 12.—
The state of siege which was applied a year ago this month was lifted yesterday by presidential decree. Constitutional guarantees, suspended at the same time, also were restored.

When the state of siege (which is a modified form of martial law) was declared, the Government announced it was only a precautionary measure to permit development of certain projects for betterment of the economic situation. A similar decree had been put into effect two years ago this month, the Government alleging seditious activities by the opposition. This was followed in January, 1929, by armed outbreaks in several provinces.

HARRISON LAYS TRADE SLUMP TO HOOVER

Mississippi Senator Says Administration Has Inaugurated Selfish Policies.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Unemployment and business depression were pictured as the twin offspring of the Hoover administration last night in a nation-wide radio speech by Senator Harrison of Mississippi.

"The present administration through its record of broken promises and its inauguration of narrow, selfish and unwise policies is responsible in large part for the deplorable state of affairs in this country as reflected in long and crowded bread lines, closed factories, deserted farms and lost fortunes," he said.

"Every administration official who has contributed to such a condition should be held to strict accountability and repudiated at the polls in November."

"Two years ago the Republican National Committee, in every conceivable way, pledged Republican prosperity in case of success and prophesied depression in event of defeat."

"Will they say that prosperity is still here? No. Whatever else may be said of them, they are not so foolish as to make that assertion."

"Who is to be blamed if not the Republican party? Is it not in control of the presidency, the Congress and every branch of the national Government?"

Quotes Hoover's Speeches.

Harrison recited excerpts from campaign speeches of President Hoover saying the Republicans had decreased the fear of poverty. The Senator said this year had already seen 13 more national and state bank failures than last, more losses from foreclosures than any similar period in the history of the country and that estimates of unemployment had run as high as 7,000,000 with 63 wage reductions reported during August.

July exports, he said, were $133,000,000 below the same month last year; imports $124,000,000 under, and the balance of trade the first four months of this year was placed $337,000,000 below the same period last year.

Credit for Tree Sitting.

"We cheerfully give credit to the present administration for the tremendous development and popularity of miniature golf and the tree sitting craze which had done so much to help solve the unemployment problem and add to the prosperity of the country," he said. As a result of the tariff, Harrison added, 24 countries "that formerly bought from us in large part organized cartels and actually imposed countervailing and retaliatory rates against us," thus depriving American plants of the markets in which they formerly disposed of their surplus.

"Those industries are now languishing and confronted with a new economic condition," he continued.

Harrison said the policy of the Democrats was to be found in the proposals submitted in Congress during consideration of farm relief, veterans' and tariff legislation.

They would make tariff rates apply on the difference of cost of production at home and abroad; eliminate trading over rates such as was so freely indulged in in the enactment of the Grundy tariff law; and restore to business, agriculture and labor confidence in the wise enactment of legislation, he said.

HABEAS WRIT DENIED NEGRO IN MURDER 33 YEARS AGO

Charles Allen to Be Returned to Louisiana From Missouri; Sheriff Never Gave Up Search.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 12.—The Missouri Supreme Court en banc yesterday refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus to prevent extradition of Charles Allen, alias "The Rev." Charles B. Guenahine, Negro, from St. Louis, to Pointe Coupee Parish, La., on a 23-year-old murder charge. An extradition warrant was issued by Gov. Caulfield last month.

Allen is charged with the murder of Dr. James A. Rigney and wounding of a deputy sheriff on Nov. 27, 1897. Dr. Rigney and the officer had gone to Allen's home to collect a bill. The Negro escaped. Sheriff Lamartine Bouanchaud, who has held the office in the parish for 41 years, kept the search for Allen alive and recently learned he was in St. Louis, where he was known as the Rev. Charles B. Guenahine.

SHOT FOR INVADING HOME

J. H. Elliott Wounded After Threatening Man at Springfield.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 12.—J. H. Elliott, 28 years old, son of Sup't Otto Elliott of St. Charles (Ill.) Home for Boys, was shot and seriously wounded last night when he wandered into the home of Henry Benedict, 70.

According to the officers, Elliott, suffering from a mental disorder resulting from injuries suffered in an automobile accident last spring, came to Springfield in the care of William Temple. He eluded Temple early in the evening and went first to the grocery store of Leslie Mackey, where he engaged in an argument with Mackey and was ejected. Elliott then, officers were told, went to the home of Benedict, a miner, and made threats and Benedict shot him. Benedict was not held.

URGES G. O. P. TO ELECT JUDGES ON MERIT

O. T. Remmers Favors Dropping Party Lines in These and Kindred Offices.

Republicans were urged to disregard party lines in voting for nominees for judicial and kindred offices, such as those of prosecutors, by Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the Election Board and a party leader, in an address before the Republican Women's Club at Hotel Statler yesterday.

He argued that it was better to give strict consideration to qualifications than to party labels in electing men to these posts, and that the Republican party would benefit from such a policy by the resultant tendency to nominate only candidates who are above criticism. For this reason he insisted that he was not preaching political heresy. He made no individual references, but it was plain that he had in mind certain occasions when Republicans had been nominated who were open to public criticism.

Remmers also advocated, inferentially, a return to the convention system of nominating judicial candidates. Afterwards he told a reporter that he thought a modified convention plan for such nominations desirable, permitting the convention to nominate a ticket but giving the people a chance to make other nominations if there was objection to anyone chosen.

"The primary has placed a responsibility on us to nominate good candidates," he said in his address, and because the citizenship has not measured up to the responsibility we sometimes find men and women in office of whom we are not proud. Cannot we seek the true character of candidates? If we indulge in factional quarrels within the party we ought to be good sports enough to support the winners if they are good persons. But if a person is nominated whom we believe to be unfit we have a greater duty to the republic and the State to oppose him. It may be said we are disloyal to the party by not shutting our eyes and nostrils, but to do so is not patriotism.

"There is an opportunity in the primary system, because of the neglect of the average voter, for the counterfactual to get into office."

"Turning to judicial candidates—and I do not limit this term to judges—it is better for us to look on them not as party candidates but as individuals. It is a mistake to vote for a judicial candidate because he is a friend or belongs to the same lodge or church, as the voter, or because he is a neighbor or a nice fellow. In selecting judicial candidates we must seek their qualifications and not their social activities."

"Because we do happen to have a number of men on the Republican ticket who are excellent candidates is no sign that we must take the whole ticket as it is. You may say that is heresy. It isn't. If people find that we put up only men to be proud of it will be easier to get votes for the party. That may be unorthodox, but until we purge the party we will have a fight on our hands. We should not care about the political ambitions of any man."

Democratic leaders think they can elect the Prosecuting Attorney and at least one Circuit Judge in November. Consequently they are preparing to center their fight on Police Judge Roseman, Republican nominee for Prosecuting Attorney, and Police Judge Beck, one of the Republican nominees for Circuit Judge. They may try hard for a second place on the Circuit bench, depending partly on the number of Democrats who may win endorsement of the Bar Association.

MAN AND WOMAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN SAN FRANCISCO

Bodies of R. L. Castle, Denver, and Apparently That of His Wife Discovered in Apartment.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—The bodies of R. L. Castle, 25 years old, Denver salesman, and a young woman said to be his 22-year-old wife, were found in their apartment here yesterday. Both were shot in the temple. A pistol lay beside Castle's body. Mrs. Castle's Boston Bull Terrier stood whimpering beside her body.

Police said Castle apparently had shot his wife and killed himself. The killing was discovered when an unidentified man was seen climbing down the fire escape which passed the Castle's apartment. Intercepted by the manager he said he was a friend of Castle's and when they did not answer the telephone he investigated. The man departed.

A few minutes later a man's voice over the telephone told the manager he thought someone had been killed in the apartment and an investigation was started.

The $1,000,000 for the city's unemployed will be in addition to the regular appropriation to the public welfare department. SAYS ELECTRICAL UNION WAS RULED
BY GANGSTERS

O. E. Jennings, International Agent, Tells Court He Made a Labor Organization Out of It.

Orville E. Jennings, international representative of the Electrical Workers' Union, testified in Circuit Court yesterday that he was forced to take the management of Electrical Workers' Local Union No. 1 "out of the hands of gangsters and extortionists, and make a labor union out of it."

Jennings took the stand in Judge Fitzsimmons' court as a defendant in an injunction suit filed by Barnes & Barnes, electrical contractors, 3306 Park avenue, who asked to have Jennings and Henry Koenig, business agent for Local No. 1, restrained from taking union electricians away from jobs on which the firm holds contracts. Jennings took away 15 electricians from the Melbourne Hotel addition, an important project of Barnes & Barnes, with the result that the contract was awarded to another firm, according to testimony brought out at the hearing. Jennings testified that he was ordered to take over the direction of Local No. 1 in January, 1929, relieving Arthur Schading. "The union was in the hands of gangsters and extortionists and the international president ordered me to straighten things out and see that the contractors of St. Louis received a square deal," Jennings testified.

"Irregular" With Union.

The union leader said that Barnes & Barnes was friendly to Schading, and that Emmett L. Barnes, head of the firm, made an affidavit in behalf of the deposed business agent.

"I began having trouble with Barnes & Barnes as soon as I took charge," Jennings testified. "They were irregular in their dealings on union matters. On one occasion they took up a grievance with an individual member of the executive board of the union, instead of with the board."

The member of the executive board who heard the complaint was fired off the board, and two electricians involved were fined $100 each by the union, Jennings said.

"Barnes & Barnes hired two non-union electricians on a job at the city stables, on Forest Park avenue," Jennings continued. "Then when we started our insurance feature they were always slow in paying the premium. The insurance must be paid weekly, just like the men's wages, and they were always late. I warned the concern that they would have to do better, but they have not changed, and I feel that the union is justified in making a nonunion firm out of them."

"Mixed Up" in Strikes.

On cross-examination, Jennings admitted that in a speech at a luncheon on Aug. 27, attended by general contractors, he stated that Barnes & Barnes were partly responsible for the antitrust charges brought by the Attorney-General against electrical contractors in St. Louis.

"I said that, but their part in the complaint to the Attorney-General has no connection with the removal of union men from their jobs," Jennings explained. Under further cross-examination by W. J. Becker, attorney for Barnes & Barnes, Jennings admitted he had been "mixed up" in strikes in St. Louis, and that he served five months in jail at Springfield, Mo., in 1917, as the result of a strike disturbance.

"I was sentenced to six months for civil contempt in a street car strike when I beat up a nonunion man who spit on me," Jennings said. "I was released after five months and applied for a pardon from President Wilson but the Attorney-General blocked it. Coming to St. Louis following the Springfield incident, Jennings directed strikes against the Kinloch Telephone Co., the St. Louis Sewer Co. and the Union Electric Light & Power Co."

"I tried to organize the Union Electric Co.'s employees several times, but never succeeded," he explained.

Says Plans Weren't Filed.

Miss Mable Peck, secretary of the Electrical Approval Bureau, one of four organizations cited in the anti-trust proceedings instituted by Attorney-General Shartel, testified in support of Jennings' allegation of irregular methods on the part of Barnes & Barnes, that the firm failed to file plans at the bureau for the work at the city stables. All firms subscribing to the bureau are required to file plans, Miss Peck said.

John J. O'Meara, a member of the union, called as a witness for the petitioner, quoted Jennings as stating, "Barnes & Barnes are going to be wrecked for taking that matter up with the Attorney-General." O'Meara, formerly a member of the union executive board, testified he understood that by "wrecked," Jennings meant that the firm would be made "skates," or non-union operators.

Roy J. Adams, secretary of the Electrical Protective Association, the organization through which the employees' insurance is handled, of which Jennings is president, was called on to produce records showing that Barnes & Barnes have paid the insurance in full to date. The insurance, charged to the contractor at the rate of $2.50 a day for each union man, provides a $3000 death benefit and disability and old age payments, Adams said. The witness was questioned by Judge Fitzsimmons concerning the basis for the $2.50 a day premium, which is added to the $13.20 a day pay received by union electricians. Ward assured the Court that the premium was not expensive, considering the hazards of electrical work. Richmond C. Coburn, Special Assistant Attorney-General, appointed to assist with the prosecution of the anti-trust charges in the State Supreme Court, was present at the hearing, which was resumed today.

The anti-trust suit, to be taken up by the Supreme Court probably this month, charges the Electrical Employers' Association, Electrical Approval Bureau, Electrical Protective Association, and the Electrical Listing Bureau with practices in restraint of trade, resulting in an exorbitant increase in prices of electrical installation in St. Louis.

Robert I. Goldsmith found unconscious; Is Revived.
Firemen using an inhalator revived Robert I. Goldsmith, a salesman, 5715 Enright avenue, who was overcome by carbon monoxide gas in a garage in the rear of his home yesterday at 7:00.
Goldsmith was found unconscious at 3:40 p. m. by his son, Robert Jr., who returned home from school. The engine of an automobile was running. Firemen revived Goldsmith after working half an hour with the inhalator. Goldsmith said he had put new spark plugs in his machine and was testing the engine when over-

RADIO BOARD ACTS TO AVERT SPECULATION IN LICENSES

U. S. Commission Announces All Requests Are Being Carefully Scrutinized.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Describing a new form of speculation—trafficking in radio licenses—the Radio Commission today announced formally that requests for broadcasting licenses were being carefully scrutinized.

The statement said "so many applications for change of ownership of stations have been filed recently that it appears trafficking in radio licenses is a new form of speculation developing in this country."

The commission also cited "another apparent effort to take advantage of the commission"—in the fact that "a few stations licensed to conduct charitable and altruistic work have been commercialized and now insist upon more time to take care of advertisers."

"It is likely that the commission, in many cases, will find it advisable to cancel these licenses, rather than to add to the overloaded channels," the statement added.

OHIO G. O. P. PLATFORM MAKES NO MENTION OF PROHIBITION

Committee to Be Appointed to Arrange Dedication of Harding Tomb.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 12.—The Republican State platform convention today adopted the platform as submitted by its Resolutions Committee. The platform did not mention specifically the liquor question, but called for "enforcement of all laws."

A special committee of the Republican party will be appointed to fix a date for the dedication of the Harding memorial tomb at Marion, under terms of a resolution adopted by the convention. Leaders said efforts would be made to have President Hoover deliver the dedicatory address.

SERVICE CAR ASSOCIATION WARNED ABOUT INSURANCE

Must Get New Policies if Central Mutual Is Not Licensed in Missouri.

By the Associated Press.

Unless the Central Mutual Insurance Co. of Chicago obtains a license to do business in Missouri, 26 members of the St. Louis Service Car Association, who now carry its liability insurance, will have to take policies from some other company.

Associate City Counselor Septi said a reasonable time would be given them to comply with the ordinance requiring insurance.

The Street Department, which has jurisdiction over service car operation, was advised by the Chicago company that it had received a temporary permit to sell insurance in Missouri and that its application for a license had been made.

Most of the service car drivers are members of the United Service Car Co., a union organization, which carries liability insurance with another company. The Service Car Association is a nonunion group.

20 COMMUNISTS EXECUTED BY TROOPS AT HANKOW

Included Are Two Women School Teachers; Reds Take Another City.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, Sept. 12.—Twenty communists, including two women school teachers, were executed by the Hankow military today in its attempt to check the spread of red propaganda throughout this district.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, Sept. 12.—Red forces today occupied Slangtan, important Hunanese city, 35 miles south of Changsha. The British gunboat Tern left Changsha for the occupied city, hoping to evacuate foreign missionaries stranded there.

The Reds established a soviet government at Slangtan. There have been no reports of disorders thus far.

PRELIMINARY HEARING FOR PAIR IN ALLEGED MURDER PLOT

Mrs. Ella Bartell and Robert Hahn Held Under $5000 Bonds for Circuit Attorney.

By the Associated Press.

Mrs. Ella Bartell, 2528 Elliott avenue, and Robert Hahn, who lives upstairs, charged with conspiracy to murder Mrs. Bartell's husband, Albert, were held for further action by the Circuit Attorney after a preliminary hearing before Judge Weinbrenner in Court of Criminal Correction today.

Hahn and Mrs. Bartell were arrested Aug. 23 last after Mrs. Bartell had offered a policeman, posing in plain clothes as a gunman, $750 to kill Bartell on his way home from work, according to police. Their bonds were set at $5000 each.

Texas Executes Negro Slayer. By the Associated Press. ERICK, Ok., Sept. 12.—Jessie Lee Washington, Negro, Shamrock, Tex., was electrocuted today at Texas State penitentiary, Huntsville, for a murder which precipitated racial trouble in this part of western Oklahoma. The Negro's victim was Mrs. Henry Vaughan, formerly Miss Ruth Tackett, of Erick. Incensed over the slaying near Shamrock last July, night riders drove Negroes from Erick.

150,000 men* can't be wrong!

To be real accurate it's 150,420 respectable citizens who have found Bond Ten Payment Budget Service the ideal way to purchase Fine Clothes—and who are backing their first good impression with second and third visits. And all in less than 2 short years!

What is responsible for such immediate acceptance?

How do we account for such phenomenal growth?

The answer is simple! When we invite a man to "charge it" we do not ask him to pay anything extra for this convenience. We refuse to add to our prices those rather mysterious "overhead expenses" so long a part of old-fashioned charge account and credit methods.

Our cash prices of yesterday are our Ten Payment prices of today! And the economy of cash prices certainly needs no introduction to thrifty men.

We figured such a sensible plan would win enough friends to pay for itself. It has!

And it has done more! The added business of 150,000 men has worked like a charm! It has put finer wools into Bond Clothes. It has brought over the master fashions of London's most distinguished tailors. It makes possible the luxury of faultless hand needlework.

Naturally, we are eager for you to enjoy all these advantages of Bond Ten Payment Budget Service. And we cannot think of a more opportune time to extend this invitation—with all our new Fall Suits and Topcoats in handsome array. Prices? $25, $35, $45, and every suit has two pairs of trousers.

Bond Ten Payment Budget Service asks you to pay only $10 at purchase, the balance in ten equal weekly payments. Use it, when you buy your Fall Clothes!

Rickenbacker Hurt, Walks in Sleep.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Col. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War flyer and automobile racer, suffered several injured vertebrae last Sunday morning as the result of a 25-foot fall while walking in his sleep it became known today.

Rickenbacker said that while he was tightly bandaged, the injury was not serious. He said he had fallen from a balcony of his home at Riverdale-on-Hudson to the lawn. These attacks of somnambulism have been frequent since the war, he said.

REASONS FOR SURVEY OF HAMILTON-BROWN

W. R. Gentry Convinced Company Can Be Put on Profitable Basis.

William R. Gentry, receiver for the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., today made a statement as to his reasons for asking authority, from Federal Judge Davis, to engage a firm of business engineers to make a survey of the company's business.
As has been told, the Court granted the desired authority Monday, and the New York firm of Miller, Franklin & Co. is to make the examination.

"My examination of the company's business," Gentry said, "has made me thoroughly familiar with it in all its branches since I took charge May 26. I am convinced beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Hamilton-Brown Co. can and should be continued, that it can be put on a profitable basis, that all creditors will be paid 100 cents on the dollar, and that the company can be refinanced and continue as a successful business in the future as it has been until recently in the past.

"The reasons for which I asked authority to have the survey made were: (1) That while I am running the business I may have the advantage of the opinion of expert business engineers as to needed changes, if any, in various branches of the business and in methods of operation under me as receiver; (2) that certain financial institutions may have before them a full statement of facts as to the nature of the company's business and its possibilities, being sure as I am that the report will show such a state of affairs as will make the financial institutions feel fully justified in extending further credit; and (3) in order that the officers and managers who take active charge, when the receivership shall end, may have the benefit of the suggestions from these business engineers.

"Such a survey of the affairs of big corporations is nothing new or uncommon. It is a daily practice, which results many times in great improvements in the business and saving for the corporations.

"In the charging before Judge Davis, attended only by lawyers representing various interests, I made no statement indicating any doubt on my part as to the possibility of continuing the business successfully. On the contrary, I told the Judge that the further I went into the affairs of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., the more thoroughly I became convinced that it could be successfully continued on a profitable basis. I explained to the Judge my reasons for applying for the order, as I have just stated them.

"Some of the lawyers present, who opposed the making of the order because their clients have always insisted that immediate liquidation should be had, and some of whom were doubtful as to the propriety of the order when the discussion began, finally remarked in substance that the survey would at least show whether or not the business ought to continue or be liquidated."

Gentry said his application for the survey was based entirely on the reasons set forth by him, and not on the idea that it was made necessary by any question of liquidation. Talk about liquidation came from other lawyers, he said.

TWO FAMILIES DESTITUTE; MOTHER OF THREE IN HOSPITAL

Police Find Two Women and Four Children Without Food at 1932 Wright Street.

The case of two families in want was taken in charge today by police of the North Market Street District after it was found that they had neither food nor adequate clothing.

The police were led to the house, at 1932 Wright street, by two barefooted boys who had been stopped on the street and asked why they were not at school and who had replied that they had no other clothes except overalls and the tattered shirts they wore.

Police found Mrs. Grace Yelton, in charge of a family group consisting of her daughter, Bessie, 12, and three children of Mrs. Bessie Sanders, Buford, 10; Earl, 11, and Anna, 5.

Mrs. Yelton told police that she had been trying to support the Sanders children while their mother was under treatment at City Hospital. Mrs. Yelton said she had not seen her husband since June.
The family has been ordered to move next Monday, but police were hopeful of raising enough money to pay the back rent and provide some of the necessities of life.

OPERATORS WANT LOWER RATE ON EXPORT COAL

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Reduction of freight rates on export coal so American operators could better meet foreign competition was proposed yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission as a means of increasing exports and providing employment for thousands of men now idle.

The proposals were made in testimony and arguments at a hearing on complaints of Pennsylvania coal producer associations and traffic bureaus that rates on bituminous coal from Pennsylvania and Northwestern West Virginia eastward for seaboard and export consumption were out of line with rates on other commodities.

Arthur Hale, general counsel for the Coal Export Association, called the commission's attention to a rate of 14 cents per 100 pounds recently granted shippers of export grain.

DENIES MERGER WOULD INCREASE COUNTY TAX

Prof. Thomas Reed Replies to Opponents' Charge Rate Might Be Doubled.

Taxes in St. Louis County cannot be increased to any great extent under the proposed consolidation of St. Louis and the county, Prof. Thomas H. Reed, municipal expert who directed drafting of the Greater St. Louis plan, told the Lions' Club of Webster Groves at luncheon yesterday.
An enabling amendment to the Constitution will be Proposition No. 5 on the Missouri ballot in November and, if this carries, a metropolitan charter will be submitted locally early next year.
The county tax rate would be abolished, he explained, and instead of it there would be a metropolitan tax rate, which also will apply to the city. This year the county rate is 82 cents on the $100 valuation, but Reed said it was estimated a 50-cent metropolitan rate would suffice in the rearrangement of functions, with the support of city taxation included. That would mean a decrease of 32 cents in the rate paid by the county, there being no change in local town and school taxes.
Opponents have argued that assessments in the county might be increased radically and possibly doubled, to yield a greater tax revenue. The plan provides for an equalization of assessment between city and county areas for metropolitan, not local, taxes. Even if the assessment were doubled in the county for metropolitan purposes the rate would only be equivalent to $1.16 compared with the present 82 cents, Reed pointed out.
He insisted that the plan of retaining separate assessors for the city and county would obviate any unusual increase in the county for local taxes, and that a study of assessments in city and county had shown that it is scarcely likely that the assessment in the county area for metropolitan taxes only would be increased more than 50 per cent.

If the metropolitan tax rate is 50 cents, a 50 per cent increase in the assessment equalization would make this rate the equivalent of 75 cents on the local assessment basis, Reed continued, and the tax bill would be lower than with the present 82-cent county rate. Should the limit of the metropolitan tax rate, 60 cents, be levied, he added, the equivalent on the local basis would be 90 cents, compared with the present 82 cents, and the difference in an individual tax bill would be small.

In support of his statement Reed related that a study had shown that the average proportion of assessed valuation to sale value of residential property in the western portions of the city was 47.8 per cent, while the corresponding figure in Clayton, University City, Webster Groves, Richmond Heights and Maplewood was 34.7 per cent. In other words, he said, there is a ratio of 30 to 45, or a difference of 50 per cent to be met in the equalization.
Furthermore, Reed declared, taxpayers of the county towns would be relieved of maintaining thorough streets, parks, sewers, libraries, etc., which would be taken care of by the greater city. This might enable a reduction of suburban town taxes. The unincorporated area of the county, which would be governed as a district with a rudimentary municipal government, would be financed by a payment from Greater St. Louis of an amount equal to 20 cents on the $100 valuation of property in this district.
While the present City of St. Louis would be charged with the metropolitan rate, Reed said, the local city rate would be reduced.

FORD DELAYS TRIP TO PARIS TO INSPECT OLD MACHINE

He Was Told That Mower Had Been Used for 100 Years.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Henry Ford's interest in mechanics caused him to reach Paris after 8 o'clock last night, several hours late on his automobile trip from Cherbourg.
The motor journey consumed practically the entire day. Just before reaching Rouen, Ford was informed that a machine 100 years old was still at work on a farm in Normandy, 25 miles away.
He immediately decided he must inspect the machine. He postponed luncheon, proceeded to the village and examined the old mower for nearly two hours.

Girl Ill After Eating Soap Chips.
Kilgryn, 13-year-old daughter of Howard Morrow, 4140 McRee avenue, became ill at Bryan Mullinphy School yesterday after eating soap chips given to her by a girl classmate who said they were candy. She was treated at a doctor's office and taken home.

It is now the maximum, $1.35, but estimates were that it could operate with 90 cents after various metropolitan functions were transferred to the greater city. This rate and the anticipated metropolitan rate of 50 cents would make the total municipal rate in St. Louis $1.40.
The maximum for the city rate would be reduced to $1.05, Reed explained that the people of the city could vote to increase the local limit to $1.35 for short periods and the people of the greater city could vote to increase the metropolitan rate to $1 for short periods. He asserted that it seemed sure all present functions could be performed with a 50-cent city rate and a 50-cent metropolitan rate.

JESSE JAMES' GRANDDAUGHTER OBJECTS TO PUBLICITY STUNT

In Suit Against Film Company, She Says Producers Wanted Her to Draw Weapon on Policeman.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 12.—The family claim to banditry fame must rest on the record achieved by Jesse James as far as his granddaughter is concerned, she testified in her $55,000 breach of contract suit against a film company here. Willing to help enact episodes of her grandfather's life on the screen, Miss Jesse Estelle James testified she balked at emulating him in actual life.

"They suggested I stick up a policeman for publicity," she testified. "They wanted me to get arrested for speeding, resist the officer and draw a gun on him so they could broadcast the story. Jesse James' Granddaughter Stuck Up a Policeman."

Miss James testified she refused because she had never been arrested and didn't crave the experience.
Miss James brought the suit against Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation and the estate of Paul C. Thomas, actor, complaining another had been given a part in the film "Jesse James," which had been promised to her.

OPPOSITION TO EXCESS CONDEMNATION PLAN

Realty Exchange Directors to Fight Proposition No. 6 on November Ballot.

The excess condemnation plan for financing public improvement enterprises, which is to be offered to the voters of the State Nov. 4 as a constitutional amendment, is opposed by the board of directors of the Real Estate Exchange. Charles J. Daly, president of the Exchange, has issued a statement of his views and those of the directors as to the plan.

The proposed amendment, which will appear on the ballot as Proposition No. 6, extends the present authority of the State, counties and cities in condemning ground for public improvements. It would authorize the State, county or city to condemn property in addition to that actually required for the proposed improvement. The State, county or city would have the right to resell the excess land at the increased prices brought by the improvement. This would give the public, rather than adjoining property owners, the benefit of increased values, and would help to pay for the improvement.

Another purpose of the excess condemnation plan is to give authority to dispose of land remnants, such as irregularly shaped bits of ground left after the making of new streets. These remnants are of little value for either public or private use, except in connection with adjoining property. The proposed amendment would permit them to be sold to the adjoining property owners.

Statement by Daly.
President Daly of the Real Estate Exchange, in his discussion of the excess condemnation plan, said the measure from an interested point of view, opposed it on principle.

"We believe in the right of the State to take private property for public improvements," he said, "but property taken under this law would not be taken for public use. This amendment would permit the State, or one of its cities or counties, to take private property and convey, lease or otherwise dispose of any such real estate thus acquired, and not necessary for such improvements." In other words, this measure puts the State or any of its cities or counties into the real estate business on a preferred basis.

"From the practical viewpoint, it is purely a matter of speculation as to whether the property taken would enhance in value, or just when the rise in value would take place, if at all. Of course, whether or not there was an enhancement in value could not be determined until the property was finally sold, and while the property is being held for the enhancement, the city and State are losing taxes."

Daly said he thought that with the proposed charter amendments in effect, public works could be completed as quickly as by the proposed excess condemnation system. He said the city of Cincinnati tried the plan, but was enjoined by a Federal Court from placing it in operation. The constitutional point involved, he said, has not been decided.

Projects undertaken under this plan, Daly argued, might extend over several city or state administrations, and much time would be lost by the unfamiliarity of new officials with plan. He also raised the point that the proposed amendment would apply to the whole state, and said that voters throughout Missouri should make sure, before voting for it, that they wish their county and municipal governments to make use of the plan.

EXECUTED FOR KILLING WOMAN WITH HATCHET

Archie F. Mook Was Convicted of Luring Victim to Spokane by Promise of Marriage.

By the Associated Press.
WALLA WALLA, Wash., Sept. 12.—Archie F. Mook of Spokane was executed at the State penitentiary here this morning for the murder, two years ago, of Mrs. Catherine Clark, who came here from Boston in response to letters promising marriage.

Mrs. Clark was killed in the woods near Spokane with a hatchet two years ago. Evidence at Mook's trial showed she was induced to come West through several letters signed "Murphy."

Letters, clothing and money found at Mook's home provided the principal evidence. Mook claimed "Murphy" actually existed and that he himself was a victim of circumstances.

Mrs. Tenna Mook, the condemned man's wife, was with him in the death cell.

TORPEDO FIRES TARGET SHIP

German Vessel 20 Years Old Burns in Kiel Harbor.

By the Associated Press.
KIEL, Germany, Sept. 12.—The naval target ship Zaeheringen was set afire when struck by a torpedo yesterday and six fire boats were unable to extinguish the flames after the vessel was towed into the harbor. Authorities thought that only the hull could be saved.

The Zaeheringen was constructed as a ship of the line about 20 years ago and after the World War was converted into a target ship directed by wireless.

RADIO BOARD REFUSES TO RULE ON DRY AND WET BROADCAST

Commission Declares Barring of Such Speeches Is Privilege of Each Station.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Radio Commission does not feel obligated to pass on whether wet or dry speakers shall be barred from the air by individual stations. Commissioner La Fount, in discussing the refusal of a Rochester (N. Y.) station to permit the broadcasting of wet speeches by former Senator James Wadsworth of New York, and several others, said such decisions were entirely in the hands of the broadcaster.

The radio law provides for equality of broadcasting privileges by opposing political candidates—no equality for causes," he said. "What goes out is clearly up to the broadcaster."

He added that a station permitting anti-prohibition speeches to be broadcast may not be penalized on the ground that they are directed against a Federal law.

EXHIBITS FOR CHICAGO FAIR

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Plans for participation in Chicago's Exposition in 1933 have been unofficially approved by Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland. It is announced. Returning from a trip to the four countries, Charles S. Peterson, vice president of the exposition, said the Industrial Art Association of Sweden had raised $6000 toward preliminary expenses of a complete industrial, painting and sculptural exhibit. He announced, too, that the Finnish Minister of commerce had appointed a committee to arrange for participation of that country, and that general newspaper support had been given in Norway and Denmark.

Baseball's New Home Run King

JOE HAUSER.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 12.—Joe Hauser, Baltimore Orioles' first baseman, who last night in a game with Newark in the International League, hit his sixty-first homer and broke the record set in 1927 by Babe Ruth, is to be formally crowned home run king on Sunday.

A committee of admirers has been formed and made plans today to present him with a substantial gift at the ball park when the Orioles meet Reading in a double-header.

Hauser is confident he will get several more in the nine games that remain before the season ends. Ruth made his record against American League pitchers in a 154-game season and Hauser in the 15th of a 148-game series but in the International League he has only seven innings.

Last night's game was the first regularly scheduled league game played under artificial light here.

SARAZEN AND ARMOUR TO PLAY FOR PRO GOLF CROWN

By the Associated Press.
FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Gene Sarazen won his way to the final of the Professional Golfers' Association championship by defeating Joe Kirkwood, 5 up and 4 to play, in a 36-hole match today. Sarazen will play Tommy Armour, Detroit, tomorrow in the final. Armour defeated Charles Lacey in a semi-final match 1 up.

The end of the Sarazen-Kirkwood came at the fourteenth hole of the afternoon round, 299 yards, where Sarazen's tee shot was on the green, 30 feet from the cup, while Kirkwood pulled his drive into woods. Kirkwood could do no better than four on the whole while it was a simple matter for Sarazen to roll his putt close and get a par three.

Sarazen played consistent golf. He was a stroke under even four for his morning round and was two shots better than "four" in the afternoon. Kirkwood held the former champion all level in the morning but slipped in the afternoon.

Although at one time he was 4 up, Armour was unable to shake Lacey off and their match was finished finally with a half at the home hole.

Armour seemed to have the match sewed up with a short putt for a half at the sixteenth when he was 3 up but he missed and lost the hole and was then down. Lacey won the seventeenth also when Armour again took three putts but the Scot pulled out a half at the home hole to win by the narrow margin.

M'LARNIN KNOCKS OUT AL SINGER IN THIRteenth ROUND OF SLASHING FIGHT

COAST FIGHTER TOO STRONG FOR NEW YORKER IN NON-TITLE BOUT

McLarnin Has Won From 7 Champions; Never Held Title

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—JIMMY McLARNIN is pulling up some sort of a record for whipping champions in the world of fistfighting.

In every division from the flyweights to the welters, 23-year-old Jimmy has bowled over seven champions, either before or during their reign, but never has he won a championship, in any of his victories being over-weight affairs.

Champion No. 7 fell before Jimmy's cannoning last night in the Yankee Stadium when Al Singer, baby king of the lightweights, followed in the ways of Pancho Villa, Fidel LaBarba, Kid Kaplan, Jackie Fields, Young Jack Thompson and Sammy Mandell.

By Leased Wire to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver knocked out Al Singer of the Bronx in the third round at the Yankee stadium last night. The time of the round was 2 minutes and 20 seconds.

It was as thrilling a battle as it promised to be, and the end was most dramatic. Right from the start the boys shook dice with fate, gambling all on the power of their punches.

The fight drew an attendance of about 25,000 and gate receipts were estimated at $175,000. Singer's title was not at stake for he had fought only catch-weights, the champion scaling 155½ to McLarnin's 140.

Singer outboxed, outfought and outmaneuvered McLarnin in the first two rounds. He battered Jimmy with his granite jaw until a left and right and he kept up the bombardment at every opportunity.

But Lady Luck sat grandly in Jimmy's corner and after many futile attempts he finally rolled the die that started Singer hurtling into the abyss of defeat. It was a left hook to the chin that turned the tide in the third round.

Jimmy Goes for Body.
Singer had been doing very well in this round until McLarnin began driving his punches for the head. At the change of his tactics and began a refreshing, meanwhile sharpshoot at McLarnin's face.

Suddenly Jimmy lashed Al with a left hook that exploded like a breaker on Singer's jaw and the light-weight champion staggered back and wavered like a reed in the wind.

For a second or two he laid there motionless, then he began bending his legs upward from the floor at the knees as if to try to lift himself from the ground, but it was no use. His hands were behind his head and his nose flattened in the canvas ring.

At the count of six or seven he began to realize where he was, and with a startled look like a slumberer just aroused from a sound sleep he started to look up.

The voice of the referee boomed in his ears, as Johnny McManis, the referee, drowning him, Singer sprang violently to his feet.

At the frame.
McLarnin, apparently believing he had won by a knockout, turned a hammering in the center of the ring. Mayo shouted to him that the fight was still on and Singer began desperately forcing his head back in a lying attempt to turn the tide. It was too late.

The die was cast and Lady Luck had turned a natural for McLarnin. With a flash Jimmy was in the back of the fray and once he had landed a punch on the back of the head, he was on his feet.

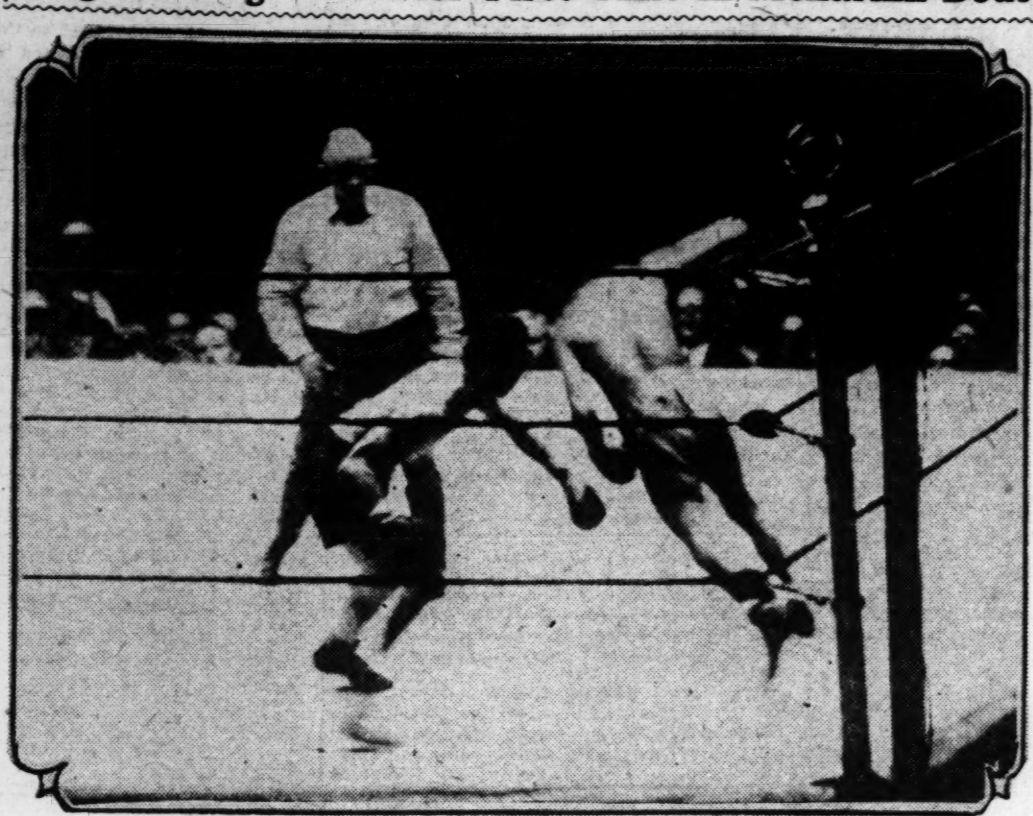

A good flurry of blows winding up with a whizzing left hook to the chin slammed Singer to the floor.

Once more he lay face downward on the canvas. At the count "Seemed steady" he lay toward 10, Singer's right hand sought the back of the neck and spasmodically patted it as if trying to rub it. At the count of four he rolled over on his back, raised for an instant there, then continued to roll over until he was flat on his stomach. His head rolled slowly like a wheel on a little blinking upward at the sun.

He opened his eyes, gazed wildly at the crowd now yelling madly. His mouth opened and he gaped like a dying man begging for water. He still rubbed the back of his head as if trying to adjust a displaced vertebrae. In this position he was counted out.

Handspring of Victory.
This time McLarnin, assured of victory, effed the crowd with another of his acrobatic exhibitions, and when he had finished his hand-spring Joe Humphries seized his right hand and lifted that gloved

Singer Going Down for First Time in McLarnin Bout

The lightweight champion (right) is shown falling face down following a left smash to the jaw in the third round of his scheduled 10-round battle with the Coast welter left. Singer arose, but fell an easy prey to a smashing right, which ended the fight.

JAMESTOWN IS EXPECTED TO RULE FAVORITE IN $100,000 FUTURITY

EQUIPOISE AND EPITHEM LIKELY TO BE LEADING RIVALS IN RACE

Futurity Field

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Entries for the Futurity stakes, at Belmont Park, from the $100,000, commencing with jockey and probable odds:

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—America's richest turf award dangled in front of 15 of the country's best juveniles today as they went through the final stages of preparation for the forty-first running of the futurity at Belmont Park tomorrow.

Although the winner's share of the purse probably will not equal the $105,730 won by Harry Payne Whitney's Whirlwind last year, it is sure to exceed $100,000, several thousand dollars above the amount paid in any other race on the American continent this year. Seventeen youngsters battled down the Widener straightaway in 1929.

Looks Like Three If He Race.
With Griffin Watkins' inco, brilliant son of Sir Gallahad third and ranking seventh hope for 2-year-old honors, definitely out of the race, the seven furlong dash shapes up as strictly a contest between George D. Widener's Jamestown, Harry Payne Whitney's Equipoise and Gifford A. Cochran's Epithem, each of which will pack 130 pounds. Inco was shipped here especially for the Belmont feature but a wrenched ankle has forced his retirement for the remainder of the season.

On the basis of the pre-race betting, Jamestown probably will face the barrier the favorite at odds of 13 to 5 or even shorter. The big son of St. James swept through all of the Saratoga two-year-old prizes with the exception of the Hopeful, in which he was beaten by Epithem, and on Wednesday turned the futurity course in 1:26, an impressive trial.

Equipoise, which also has given evidence that he can carry weight, covered the seven-eighths in 1:25 2-5, the first six furlongs in 1:15 2-5, exactly the same as Jamestown's six-furlong time. The Whitney ace was beaten by a nose in the Champagne last Saturday, but he was conceding laps of weight to his mate, the winner, and was further handicapped by a 17-minute delay at the post.

Epithem Picks Up Weight.
Beating Jamestown in the Hopeful and leading him to the wire in the Futurity will be an entirely different matter for Epithem, as the Cochran speedster had a 13-pound pull in weights at Saratoga, while tomorrow he will meet the Widener flash at even pounds. Epithem has been out only twice this season, winning an over-night affair with lengths to spare in addition to the Spa feature.

If there is a long delay at the post the lightweights will have a royal chance of winning. When considering these outsiders, one cannot forget a pair of flashy fillies, E. R. Bradley's Raba Kenny and Mrs. John D. Hertz's Rique. Raba Kenny had a seven-furlong trial Wednesday and stepped along in 1:25, well in hand. Rique, with two stakes already to her credit, will attempt to repeat for Mrs. Hertz, who won the 1929 renewal with Anna Probert. Because of their stake victories, Raba Kenny and Rique will carry 124 and 127 pounds, respectively, much more than has been assigned to many of the colts.

Dolans and Andys To Be Rivals in Twilight Game

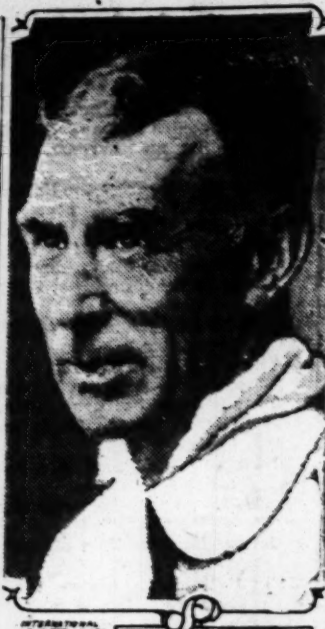

Teams of the Twilight Soccer League will enter the second week of their fall season when the Dolans oppose the Andys Sunday morning at Sherman Park. The German Sports Club and Geraghty's are not scheduled.

Last Sunday, the Dolans came from behind to gain a 2-2 draw with the Geraghtys. The Germans were booked to meet the Andys, but no league match was played because of inadequate field conditions.

With the substitution of the Andy Club for the Cook A. C., the Twilight League presents a changed personnel as compared with that of last spring when the teams played five weeks of twilight football. John Seully, who managed the Cooks, withdrew from the organization and Andy Fredrick has taken his place with a new club. All are amateurs, and, in accordance with the league plan, all are young players, with their habitat in the vicinity of Grand boulevard and North Market street, a famous hotbed of soccer.

Young Mack's Salary Rises to $125 Mark for Season of 1885

Meriden Fans Present Him With Watch and He Loafs All Winter on Savings From $90 Stipend.

CONNIE MACK

THIS is the fifth of a series of articles by Connie Mack, manager of the world champion Athletics, telling of his 50 years in baseball. The articles will appear daily in the Post-Dispatch.

No. 5 By Connie Mack.

THE busy little city of Meriden was well pleased with the efforts of its representative ball team in 1884, which marked the first year of the Connecticut State League. We all hustled and pleased Meriden fans with our wholehearted efforts. We had a tense fight with Waterbury for the pennant, but had to content with second place. Waterbury had for its leading pair, Lovett and Con Daley who became conspicuous in the major leagues afterward. The Connecticut State League was a feeding station for the fast set right from its infancy and continued to advance players as long as it existed.

My first year on the professional field was rosy. We drew up to all expectations and every player received his salary in full, which was by no means always the case at that time. In those days baseball was a risk and many a trusting young man left his home in high hopes after signing a contract calling for a good salary only to have the league split on the rocks after the July 4 double-header and he often had to send for carfare to get back home for salaries would not be paid.

On the last day of the Meriden season, which ran nearly to Oct. 1, I was presented with a gold watch that was my most prized possession for many years. Unfortunately it was stolen out of my locker in the clubhouse after I advanced to the National League. I would give 10 times its value to get it back.

Signs With Hartford.

IN the Connecticut State League at the time there was no reserve clause in contracts and a player was free to sign where he pleased after finishing the term in his contract. In the last weeks of the league race, I received several offers for 1885 but eventually signed to play with the Hartford (Conn.) team of the same league at a salary of $125 a month, which was $15 more than Meriden paid me. I thought that was quite a promotion and it certainly was.

The off-season following the 1884 race was the first in my baseball career that I did not work. The big shoe factory had closed down and there was no employment available except the rankest drudgery, so I decided to indulge myself in the luxury of a workless winter.

I had full use of my money and as my father had prospered in his small way, there was no necessity for me to send anything regularly home. So out of my $90 a month at Meriden I was able to put enough aside to make a winter loaf possible.

Nevertheless it was a quiet winter. There was no Great White Way in a New England town of 500 in the winter of 1884-85. I skated on Lake Lashaway, attended our rural little affairs and played whist. Once or twice that off season I visited Boston, the Paris of every New Englander's eye.

This reminded me of an experience two or three years before when I made my first trip to St. Botolph's town. I was then working in a shoe factory and playing for East Brookfield. For a long time I had been waiting for a chance to be a member of the small and exclusive set among the younger element of East Brookfield who could boast of having pushed his way through the thronged thoroughfares of this roaring metropolis located fully 50 long miles away. George M. Co-han was scrupulously correct in his geography when he called his East Brookfield play "Fifty Miles from Boston."

The Gay "Drummer."

WHAT quickened my desire to escape from the hinterland to see the magnificence of the great city was innocently caused by a traveling man or "drummer" as he was more often called then. One came in East Brookfield a short time before which was my idea of Berry Wall of the day. He wore a checked suit of many horse-power rating, judges from the blink created a high linen collar and a red radder than many noses I have seen in my day.

Early Ambition Was for High-Crowned "Derby" but Reason Defeats Style After One Look in Mirror

But the clean-up wallop of his sartorial display was a derby with a high crown. I had never seen one before. We had derbies in those days, but the crowns were low, very low and almost could kiss the forehead. The high crown derbies wore these dachshund derbies on the stage many years after and they were always good for laughs on their entrance.

I wore a typical "Joe Weber" but silently vowed that as soon as I reached Boston I would seek out a presentable looking hat shop and leave some Meriden money for a high crown derby that would elevate my social status in East Brookfield over night.

So to Boston. I rambled through the twisting thoroughfares, finding in the sights and keeping a part of an eye open for the proper kind of hat shop. I spotted one that answered my qualifications for that particular village of herbs and flowers on a stand in the window. I walked inside and a man with mutton chop whiskers approached me washing his hands before him without soap or water. You know what I mean. I have seen such a type in plays since but I saw him in real life then.

Reason Wins.

REASON finally overthrew style. I began to reflect that my appearance in front of the East Brookfield postoffice with such a daring derby, that accentuated my height, would draw the banter of the town wits. My sharp eyes, too, detected a smile over the face of mutton chops that he vainly tried to strangle. That was enough.

"I don't believe that suits," I averred with all the dignity I could muster, "and I wish you would show me something in a low crown."

I had a most delightful time in Boston and when I jumped off the train at East Brookfield the next evening, my head was crowned with a new derby of the most distinctive "Joe Weber" model.

BUILDING LINE IS CHIEF TASK AT KIRKWOOD

Coach Ernie Lyons of Kirkwood High has a squad of 50 aspiring and perspiring young men on his Kirkwood High football squad. Among them are eight letter men and a number of last year's second team members. The Kirkwood team captured second place last year, with a record of three games won and one lost, with one game tied. The backfield prospects are excellent this year, but the line is a source of worry to Coach Lyons, for, of the letter men returning, but one is a regular lineman, while three of last year's backfield return.

Last season's captain and full-back, William Harsh, is again reporting for duty. Though he played at full last year, his weight and experience may be required in the forward wall, where experienced candidates are lacking. Donald Parks, quarterback and co-captain, a high crown derby that would elevate my social status in East Brookfield over night.

So to Boston. I rambled through the twisting thoroughfares, finding in the sights and keeping a part of an eye open for the proper kind of hat shop. I spotted one that answered my qualifications for that particular village of herbs and flowers on a stand in the window. ## CHINESE START THEIR ANNUAL ROW ON DOG TRACKS IN COUNTRY

SHANGHAI, Sept. 12.—The Chinese Government has started its third annual attack to drive dog racing from the international settlement.

Dog racing, with its gambling element, Chinese officials maintain, has been responsible for a large share of crime and poverty in the city.

This year the Government threatens measures will be adopted to prevent Chinese from attending the meetings unless the tracks are closed.

If such a law is adopted, and Chinese officials have instructed the Ministry of Justice to draft the measure, the dispute likely to follow will be of more importance to the foreign settlement than an argument over dog tracks.

Under the present law, Chinese residents of the settlement are subject to arrest only by foreign police.

... the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency... join it. smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Over 7,500 cigar factories are registered by the U. S. Government. Over 7,400 of these hand-roll cigars, producing 50 percent of the output. Every hand-rolled cigar—made by American Cigar Co. or anyone else—is subject to the possible danger of "spit-tipping." Certified Cremo is absolutely free from spit-tipping—No Cremo is made by hand.

Certified Cremo is a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that bind, roll, wrap and tip the cigars!

The team, under the direction of Head Coach Leo C. Schultz and Fred Ester, assistant coach, is facing one of the hardest schedules that a Cairo team has tackled in years. The only team of importance missing from this year's schedule is Central High of Cape Girardeau, Mo., which didn't have a place on its schedule for the Cairo team.

ARTICLE V.

Major Maurice Campbell, 157th Infantry, was suspended and dismissed for laxity in New York after the season of 1929, when a river of beer flowed from the city of New York.

But two of the are back in service now, reinstated last by peremptory orders, of Assistant Secretary of Treasury Lowman, over my protest.

I wouldn't have them back in district. Three of them were sent to Detroit, some to Albany and Newark, and some, I think, to Washington. Washington's assumption is, apparently, that they have given to give conscientious enforcement from their lessons in New York.

Honest, effective prohibition enforcement presupposes a vigilant, active force of dry agents. Laxity causes for dismissal. Laxity, then, gives opportunity for lawbreaking, and is sufficient cause for dismissal.

These 15 men had been set to work in breweries which had permits to make real beer, to be destroyed into near beer. They are supposed to prevent shipment of real beer.

As I have related, the method of supervision inside the breweries has been successful in 1925, so successful that Mr. Lowman had ordered to withdraw my men and Alaska voters' thirst. Strangely enough, all the objection that had been made about this system on March 1929, Commissioner Doran wrote that "in my judgment it is important that they (the breweries) be guarded internally."

But in 1929 the system was ineffective, and the city had plenty of beer. The reason was that the sale of my brewery force had been completely shattered, largely because of the troubles with Washington.

New Inspector O. K. Pipe. I believe their morale was broken mostly by an incident at the Phoenix Cereal Beverage Co., a large brewery at Twenty-fifth street and Tenth avenue, in the spring of 1929. Two of my men discovered mysterious pipes behind the boiler room there, and we thought we had last discovered the means by which beer was coming out of the brewery.

At this time a brewery inspector was detailed to me from Washington to help in the investigation, and I told him of this pipe. After an inspection he reported to me that the pipe in question was at all as my inspectors had reported it, and there could be nothing out of the way with it. I then sent my own men to look at it. He reported that they reported that since the advent of the inspector from Washington it had been completely changed.

You could hardly expect my men to remain conscientious under such conditions.

After the very wet beer season of 1929, on the morning of Saturday, Sept. 28, I sent special investigators to each of the cereal beverage plants where guards were maintained to pick up and bring direct to me without any intermediation every guard as he came out of the brewery.

I personally interviewed every one of the men, but was unable to prove anything on which I could make a definite charge of corruption.

At any rate, I had sufficient evidence of laxity. I transferred the men to other work, and called Special Inspector Conwell from Washington to investigate. He recommended the suspension of 15 men, including the chief of my brewery section, and later recommended their dismissal.

The evidence was that the agents had failed to report the disappearance of empty beer kegs during the night, and that the company did not report shipments of near beer in these kegs. One agent did report disappearance of kegs, which showed the others up. One night in September agents watching the Phoenix Cereal Beverage Co. in Brooklyn saw nine heavily loaded trucks drive out of the warehouse yard adjoining it. Two guards were supposed to be inside the brewery at this time.

Also they were supposed to take samples of each shipment of near beer, to be sent to our headquarters. They had neglected to bring samples to headquarters, and in some cases had let the samples remain in the breweries for a month. After the 15 were dismissed, they

Not Permitted to Weed Out Dry Agents Regarded as Lax In Watching the Breweries

Commissioner Doran, Appealed to in Washington, Withdrew Order Dropping Fifteen Men From the Government Payroll.

ARTICLE V.
By Maj. Maurice Campbell.
FIFTEEN brewery guards were suspended and dismissed for being lax in New York after the dry season of 1929, when a river of beer flowed from the agents of New York.

All but two of the are back in the active row, reinstated last year by peremptory orders of Commissioner Doran, approved by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, ever my friend.

I wouldn't have them back in my district. Three of them were sent to Detroit, some to Albany and New York, and some, I think, to Washington. Washington's assumption is apparently, that they have earned to give conscientious enforcement from their lessons in New York.

Honest, effective prohibition enforcement presupposes a vigilant, active force of dry agents.

Laxty Cause for Dismissal.
Surely, then, laxty gives opportunity for lawbreaking, and is sufficient cause for dismissal.

These 15 men had been set to watch breweries which had permits to make real beer, to be distributed into near beer. They were supposed to prevent shipment of real beer.

As I have related, the method of supervision inside the breweries had been successful in 1928, so successful that Mr. Lowman had ordered me to withdraw my men and shake brewers' thirst. Strangely enough, after all the objection that had been made about this system on March 15th, Commissioner Doran wrote me that "in my judgment it is important that they (the breweries) be guarded internally."

But in 1929 the system was ineffective and the city had plenty of beer. The reason was that the state of my brewery force had been completely shattered, largely because of the troubles with Washington.

New Inspector O. K'd Pipe.
I believe their morale was broken down by an incident at the Phoenix Cereal Beverage Co., a brewery at Twenty-fifth street and Tenth avenue, in the spring of 1929. Two of my men discovered a pipe in the wall behind the beer.

At this time a brewery inspector was sent to me from Washington, to help in the investigation, and suddenly I told him of this pipe. After an inspection he reported to me that the pipe in question was not at all as my inspectors had reported it, and there could be nothing out of the way with it. I then sent my own men to look at this pipe, and they reported that since the advent of the inspector from Washington it had been completely changed.

You could hardly expect my men to remain conscientious under such conditions.

At the very wet beer season of 1929, on the morning of Saturday, Sept. 15, I sent special investigators to each of the cereal beverage plants where guards were maintained to pick up and bring direct to me without any intercommunication every guard as he came out of the brewery.

I personally interviewed every one of the men, but was unable to prove anything on which I could base a definite charge of corruption.

At any rate, I had sufficient evidence of laxty. I transferred the men to other work, and called Inspector Conwell from Washington to investigate. He recommended the suspension of 15 men, including the chief of my brewery section, and later recommended their dismissal.

The evidence was that the agents had failed to report the disappearance of empty beer kegs during the time, and that the company did not report shipments of near beer in those kegs. Also they were supposed to take samples of each shipment of near beer to be sent to our headquarters. They had neglected to bring samples to headquarters, and in some cases had let the samples remain in the breweries for a month.

After the 15 were dismissed, they all employed counsel, and on one occasion 10 of them went to Washington to plead their case.

By direction of the Secretary of the Treasury:

J. M. Doran, United States Prohibition Commissioner in 1929, author of letter reproduced on this page.

think that Washington would support strenuously any surveillance of such a place.

On Feb. 27, 1929, just after I had put internal guards back in this brewery, William F. Donnelly, president of the brewery and warehouse companies, came to my office and protested. He said he thought the guards might have been placed there at the instance of some of his competitors to embarrass him.

I told him it was because he had made structural changes in his plant without consulting me, and that I was thinking of revoking the permit.

A week later Dr. Doran telephoned me from Washington. "Have you agents inside the Interboro Brewery in Brooklyn?" he asked.

"No, I have not," I answered. "You have them in the Phoenix plant, haven't you?"

"Well," said Dr. Doran, "unless you put agents inside the Interboro there will be a hell of a row up there in two weeks."

Doran's Hint Accepted.
I took this conversation as a hint that the Phoenix people, after their talk with me, had gone to Mr. Lowman and had charged me with protecting the Interboro, as against them.

Of course charges of this nature are continually being made against officials who have a limited force at their command. If you can't catch all offenders you ought not to catch any or you are discriminating. In other words, if I could not place six agents in each of my 22 breweries, I should not place them in any, because that would be discrimination; and if I did place men in all my breweries, I would have none left for any other phase of prohibition enforcement.

However, I decided to take the hint and immediately placed agents inside the Interboro and also the State Cereal Beverage plant at Yonkers.

And on the day of this conversation, March 6, Dr. Doran wrote me that the Phoenix had complained and that he did not think any legal objection could be raised. But "unless these principal plants can be covered simultaneously, you are open to very grave charges. In my judgment it is important that they all be guarded internally."

I refused to renew the Phoenix permit last January, and recently they brought an action in equity against me to get it back. In preparing my answer to the action, Mr. S. Grant, an assistant United States Attorney, made the answer specifically charge the diversion of illegal beer, which I had carefully left out of my findings. Such a charge, clearly without proof, would materially weaken the Government's case. Consequently I refused to sign the answer as written in the United States Attorney's office and changed it to read in accordance with the testimony. I believe, especially after the August raid, that my action will be upheld.

I refused to renew the permit of the Interboro also. In my findings on this case, which are now a part of the Federal Court records, I stated it as my belief that beer had was put before Judge Byers.

On July 3, three days after my resignation, Judge Byers handed down a decision in which he disapproved my action and ordered the permit to the Interboro issued.

Out of hundreds of cases in which the Federal courts reviewed my decisions in permit matters, this was one of two in which I was reversed. I await with intense interest the outcome of an appeal.

ELEPHANT THEFTS INCREASE

Animals in Great Demand for Farm Work in Ceylon.

By the Associated Press.
COLOMBO, Ceylon, Sept. 12.—Elephant stealing is on the increase in Ceylon. The animals are in great demand here on the farm and in the forest, where they are used for dragging timber down the hills. Of late many have been stolen, and one owner appeared in the Matala Court urging that more severe sentences be imposed upon Mahouts who made a practice of running away with the elephants in their trust.

Finding their loot difficult to sell because of the necessity of giving bills of sale, these fellows take the stolen elephants to remote parts of the state and hire them out.

"Yes," I said.

"Well," said Dr. Doran, "unless you put agents inside the Interboro there will be a hell of a row up there in two weeks."

Doran's Hint Accepted.

Good Year Follows Season of Heavy Losses Due to Frost on Pacific Coast.

WHEAT BALANCES DECREASE IN CORN

Estimated Yield of Latter Just 17,000,000 Bushels Less Than That Expected of Former Grain.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The West has a heavy fruit production this year, after a season of losses due to frost damage.

California's peach crop led, with an increase of 15,000,000 bushels over last year. The production of table grapes increased 110,000 tons; raisin grapes, 95,000 tons; and wine grapes, 48,000 tons.

California pears increased almost 2,000,000 bushels, apples 976,000 bushels and grapefruit 238,000 boxes. California oranges decreased 12,000,000 boxes and lemons 2,000,000 boxes.

The Washington apple crop increased 1,327,000 bushels, but the peach crop fell off 529,000 bushels and the grape crop declined 108,000 tons.

The Washington yield of both peaches and grapes, however, was larger than for the five-year average.

Oregon's apple crop decreased 855,000 bushels over last year, the peach crop 550,000 bushels and the grape crop 48,000 bushels.

For the United States as a whole, the peach crop increased about 3,000,000 bushels, the apple crop about 1,773,000 bushels, the pear crop about 2,000,000 bushels and the grape crop about 236,000 tons.

13 SLAIN WHEN KURDS RIOT AGAINST ANGLO-IRAK PACT

35 Persons Injured in Fighting at Government Offices at Sulaimani.

By the Associated Press.
BAGDAD, Sept. 12.—Dissatisfaction of Kurds with the new Anglo-Iraq treaty led yesterday to rioting outside the Government offices at Sulaimani in which 13 persons were killed and 35 injured.

Kurds armed with revolvers, daggers and sticks blockaded the Government offices and attacked police and soldiers called to drive them away. The dead included one Iraq soldier.

The Kurds have been prominent in opposition to the treaty since it was negotiated last August. Last month they refused to vote at a general election.

Nov. 13, 1927, Sir Abdul Muhsin Es-Saidin, Iraq Prime Minister, killed himself because, he said, his people blamed him for his relations with the British. "They have thought me a traitor to my country and a servant of the British," a letter left by him ended.

Great Britain exercises a mandate over Iraq which is supposed to end with acceptance of the country as a member of the League of Nations. Some citizens of the country say the treaty does not afford Iraq a sufficient degree of independence.

RUINS OF ANCIENT CITY
FOUND IN MACEDONIA

Names of Seat Owners on Theater Benches; Town Mentioned in Livy.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—A Belgrade dispatch to the New York Times says that excavations in Serbian Macedonia, near the village of Gradsko, have unearthed an ancient city which archeologists are calling the "Balkan Pompeii."

The excavations were begun in 1924, but it is only now that the Grecian city of Stobi is being uncovered. An ancient theater with seats of white marble, many containing names of their last owners, are among the finds.

The date of the founding of Stobi is unknown, but Livy mentions it as being captured by Philip V. of Macedonia in 197 B. C. Its ruins are said to be remarkably well preserved.

Montana Democrat Opposes Bootlegger Is Worse Than Old-Time Saloonkeeper.

U. S. PROHIBITION FAILURE, HE SAYS

Reluctantly Forced to This Opinion, He Declares, by Government's Helplessness in Enforcement.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, raked among the dregs in Congress, issued a statement today saying he had come to the opinion "that national prohibition is a failure and that each State should be left to regulate the liquor traffic as a majority of its citizens deem advisable."

The statement follows: "I voted for prohibition in Montana because I felt that the old saloon was a curse to the American people and I wanted to do away with it. In the old days the breweries in many instances owned the fixtures, the buildings and the license and in many instances controlled local politics."

"I am no more in favor of the saloon, no more in favor of the saloon liquor today than I was before, but under prohibition you have in many cities more dives and speakeasies where they are openly selling rotten whiskey than you had in the old days. Today in many communities, the bootlegger is becoming a greater political power and has more influence than the old-time saloonkeeper as evidenced by the fact that he is able to reach many of our higher officials. He is generally a much lower type of

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the public welfare, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory privilege, or by predatory poverty.

The Law on Street Advertising.

FROM time to time in this column, I find the question raised pertaining to using light poles, etc., for advertising purposes. The question of legality is frequently asked but it seems that this point of law has never been answered. I am pleased to give some information that will probably answer these questions. One is a United States Supreme Court decision and the other a State of Missouri Supreme Court decision. It is very doubtful if the street car company has the right to carry advertising on the outside of its cars or the bus company to carry advertising on the outside of its buses.

The courts have in practically every case held that advertising on street cars or buses would be of no value if they were not placed upon the thoroughfare and that it is really the thoroughfare that is being sold.

The matter of the use of public property for private purposes, such as advertising, has been well explained in a case which came up before the United States Supreme Court about 1911 or 1912. (Fifth Avenue Coach Co. versus City of New York.)

This case started in the New York courts about 1907 when an injunction was obtained by the City of New York against the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. against carrying outside signs on its equipment. Injunction was granted and the coach company carried the case all the way to the United States Supreme Court on the ground that it was being deprived of the use of its own property without due process of law.

When the United States Court upheld the State of New York it particularly referred to a case which had previously been decided in the Missouri Supreme Court. Belt, ex rel versus State of Missouri (or City of St. Louis).

About 30 years ago a man by the name of Belt made a contract with the city of St. Louis to furnish free trash boxes, and on the outside of these boxes, which were to be placed on street corners, Belt intended selling advertising signs, paying to the city a certain proportion of his receipts for the privilege. Belt tried to force the city to live up to its part of the contract and this case was the result. The Supreme Court decided that the city did not have any right to make such a contract as it was against public policy, and that the use of public property for such a purpose was contrary to State constitutional law, that is the use of public property for a private purpose and a private sale.

READER: (St. Louis has a city ordinance forbidding the placing of advertising on light standards—Editor's note.)

"Courage or Cowardice."

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: YOUR editorial entitled "Courage or Cowardice?" was timely and to the point. The Democratic party of Missouri faces defeat for failing to take a firm stand against prohibition. The Illinois Democratic party platform on the liquor question is sound to the core and James Hamilton Lewis will be elected United States Senator by the people this time. Ex-Senator James A. Reed of Missouri could be elected U. S. Senator once more, provided he is willing to make the race. Missouri is "wet" and will always remain "wet"—law or no law. A law is valuable only because it is law, but because there is right in it.

The Lowdown on Los Angeles Weather.

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I READ the letter signed by Los Angeles which you published recently. It's a masterpiece of impudent distortion of truth, of blatant dishonesty. Its implied commendation for the Middle Westerners and Easterners is typical of the Californians.

Los Angeles alleges that in Southern California there is "no rain in the spring, summer or autumn, and only a mild and occasional shower during the four winter months."

Mild and occasional shower! Why, these Los Angeles mild showers simply turn, within two hours, the whole business district into a new Venice! Broadway, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets, Santa Monica boulevard, Melrose avenue, etc., become raging rivers whose waters reach to the hubs of the automobiles and compel storekeepers to build levees with sand bags to save themselves from inundation.

Most surely Los Angeles had this picture in mind when he said: "Rain causes so much general inconvenience and damage, so much traffic delay and confusion."

During these "mild showers" hundreds of automobiles are stalled in the muddy water and no pedestrian can cross the streets on foot.

Do I know these "mild showers"? I lived in Los Angeles for five years and every winter I saw there the same flood. But leave it to the Californians to boost their despicable Southern California. Despicable, yes, because it's the land of the mendacious booster, of the fallacious part.

SHAMEFUL POLITICAL COWARDICE.

The issue between the Republicans and Democrats in Missouri elections this year is the capture of the offices. Both parties have followed expediency in their platforms and subordinated public to party interests to a shameful degree. Both exalted principles in the preamble and deserted them in the body of the platform.

The Democrats are worse than the Republicans. We have pointed out the shameful cowardice of the Republican convention in praising its official delinquents in connection with the Young scandal, and the scarcely less shameful evasion of the issue by the Democratic convention. Instead of denouncing the delinquents the Democrats mildly deprecated in general terms the offenses of the officials of its party opponents without mentioning names or the specific offenses. They tapped the offenders on the wrist.

We have pointed out the cowardice of both parties in utterly ignoring the biggest issue in the country, fraught with more evil consequences and menace to democratic institutions and orderly society than any other. The Republicans competed with the Democrats by evading the prohibition issue, but the Democrats added jackassinity to cowardice.

The prohibition issue is essentially a Democratic issue because it involves the principles of constitutional government, in defense of which the Democratic party was founded and upon which it has stood when it has stood for anything. It involves the principle of local self-government, state reserved powers and rights, individual liberty and the constitutional limitation of Federal power to restricted Federal jurisdiction.

When the Democratic party deserts these principles by ignoring them, thus practically countenancing and approving their violation by the Government, it has no further mission in American political life. It pulls down its standard and abandons constitutional free government to the attacks of its opponents. It sacrifices principles to expediency, to the mere competition for offices.

The Democratic party of Missouri is afraid to defend the constitutional guarantees of state and individual rights. It is afraid to defend local self-government, which is the bulwark of liberty. It is afraid to defend the rights of the states against Federal usurpation. It is afraid to defend the inherent and constitutional rights and liberties of individuals. It is afraid to denounce the violation of these principles. It is afraid to point out the disastrous consequences which have flowed from the violation of these principles and rights.

The Democratic party of the State is now not even an opposition party worthy of the name.

In bidding for the offices while ignoring the biggest issue and deserting Democratic principles, the Democrats have done the one thing that is likely to deprive them of success. They are depending upon hard times and unemployment to pull them through without taking a stand on any issue that might offend any voter. But in dodging the prohibition issue to avoid offense to the dregs, the Democrats are likely to offend the antiprohibition voters, whose support is necessary to Democratic success in the State. Their dodge is a fool's dodge.

The majority of Missouri voters are against prohibition. In the Literary Digest poll St. Louis voted eight to one against enforcement; that is, against the prohibition laws as they stand. The majority for repeal was nearly two to one against all other votes, both for modification and enforcement. In 27 cities of Missouri the antiprohibition vote was 73,417, against 20,008 for the enforcement of the laws as they stand. In Missouri as a whole only 45,011 voted for enforcement, while 34,609 voted for modification and 62,667 for repeal. The total repeal and modification vote was 97,276—more than two to one against the dry laws.

In order to assure success it is necessary for the Democrats to break down the Republican majority in St. Louis. This majority in normal times reaches from 40,000 to 45,000, enough to overcome the normal Democratic majority in the State. Senator Reed was elected by Republican antiprohibition votes, chiefly in St. Louis. Senator Hawes obtained his majority through the support of the Republican antiprohibition votes, also chiefly in St. Louis. There is not a plank in the Democratic platform which would attract the vote of any Republican.

The two major parties have earned the contempt of citizens. Neither offers them anything worth voting for. There is nothing left for the voters to do but support candidates whose convictions are in accord with their own, unless another ticket can be put into the field. That ought to be done.

THUS SAITH CALVIN.

The South is improving. If everyone now working will pay his bills and buy whatever he needs and can afford, the unemployment problem will be solved. The frontiers and back country of our nation have vanished. The right to vote is the very essence of the right to self-government. Brethren, let us stop finding fault. Our property must support our population. The founders of this country were concerned with things that are eternal. Too often outbreaks are accompanied by a confiscation of private property and much suffering by innocent persons. Education covers many subjects. We have prospered because we have been a peace loving, law abiding people. Evil practices should be prevented. The man who is right makes his own luck. What course our great financial and scientific resources will take in the next era of development we do not know. The clergy are too little appreciated. Good roads are a by-product of the automobile.

Here is one authorship that will never involve the critics in a Shakespeare-Bacon row.

Missouri Democrats thank the press for telling the truth about the Republicans, but we wonder if they will thank it for telling the truth about them?

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY DECREASES.

The report of the Juvenile Court for a five-year period is something in which St. Louis may well take pride. According to an analysis by Chief Probation Officer Jesse P. Smith there has been a steady decrease in the number of delinquent boys and girls who passed through the court each year since 1925. Five years ago the number was 1219, while by last year it had fallen to 749, a decrease of almost one-half. If the work of the police and court officials is as efficient as it was, and there is no reason to believe it isn't, then St. Louis is steadily becoming a better place for children of the less fortunate classes, as well. Not the least encouraging thing about the report is the fact that the probation officer doesn't mind compiling and publishing figures which show the work of his court is diminishing. Too often courts prefer to be known for their volume of business. That, of course, is an unfortunate view. Other things being equal, the court which has the fewest cases is doing the best job of administering justice.

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN LATIN AMERICA.

Inasmuch as economic conditions are blamed for the political ferment in Latin America, it is interesting to know what those conditions are. It is commonly supposed that economic conditions are worst in England, Germany, Australia and New Zealand. The absence of severe political reaction in any of those countries reflects the temperament of the people. The Latin Americans are not worse off; they are only more emotional.

Imports to the United States from South America for the six months ending June 1, 1929, were $666,149,366; for the same period in 1930 they were $482,378,463. Imports in the same period from Central America last year were $25,599,990, against $23,105,151 this year. The following comparative table of imports is furnished by the Department of Commerce:

	Six Months to June 1929.	Six Months to June 1930.
Mexico .....	$ 67,612,668	$ 51,523,352
Cuba .....	123,295,435	65,932,339
Dominican Republic .....	5,478,320	4,834,303

Uruguay .....	12,601,821	9,570,569
Venezuela .....	28,700,016	19,515,058

Exports from the United States to South America during the first six months of 1929 were $288,001,087; for the same period this year they were $185,187,801. To Central America in 1929 they were $44,234,091, against $38,380,078 this year. The department's export table shows the following:

	First Six Months 1929.	First Six Months 1930.
Mexico .....	$ 60,762,904	$ 55,082,407
Cuba .....	68,604,117	55,420,333

Uruguay .....	15,031,726	11,392,870
Venezuela .....	24,992,756	18,196,206

It may be seen from these figures that as the foreign country principally affecting Latin America we are still doing business with her upon a considerable scale. It is, truly, a greatly diminished business. It is also one immensely damaged by the excessive Hawley-Smoot tariff rates. Nevertheless Latin America still has a considerable market in the United States for her products, and the United States is still selling great quantities of her manufactured goods in Latin America. In the philosophy of our own tariff makers what we took away from the Latin Americans we were giving to ourselves. The fallacy of this argument is illustrated by the condition in both spheres. The Latin Americans are boiling, and the people in our own country who were to be benefited by the new tariff are either out of work or money or both.

THE SUN RISES IN THE WEST.

The nomination of "Sunny Jim" Rolph, perennial Mayor of San Francisco, for Governor by the Republicans over Gov. C. C. Young means things are looking up in the State of Mooney and Billings and Miss Whitney. Mayor Rolph has worn his high boots, cutaway coat and carnation, symbols of a departed day in California, but he has kept up with the times. He is known to be a liberal, so his nomination is generally considered a blow at political fanaticism. The dry organizations singled him out as the only one of the candidates which they would not endorse, and they usually know whether a man is for or against prohibition. Labor groups supported him. A wealthy man, he has from the outset of his career as Mayor 19 years ago, been able to stand apart from any accusation that he was deriving financial benefits from his office. Five consecutive terms of four years each constitute a long time for one man to be Mayor of a major city. Such a feat is usually not accomplished without the confidence of the popular will. It is only natural that on such a record California as a whole should claim him for larger service.

The League of Nations chose a rather inappropriate time to meet, with the National League still in session.

THE COVERED BRIDGE MYSTERY.

Henry Ford's interest in covered bridges, once common along country roads, has provoked considerable discussion in New England as to why the fast-disappearing structure was built with its sheltering top. Responses to the question as raised by the New York World have produced all sorts of conflicting explanations. Some said the cover was to prevent snow from breaking the bridge down. Others said it protected the nuts and bolts. To provide shelter from storms and to offer lovers of a generation ago a darkened place for spooning were among the other theories. These World dismisses on the ground that if they once were any good they still would be valid.

Taking up the discussion, the Christian Science Monitor, not without some justification, points out that any investigation must consider the country boy of the past who knew many reasons. The cover over a bridge kept the dust dry so it was soft to bare feet. It kept out rain and preserved circus posters, farm auction bills and poultry food placards from one season to the next. It made a fine place to rest the horses. It was a favorite spot of swallows. It was even better than the haymow for playing on rainy days. Late in the afternoon its shadows reached far up the stream and made an inviting retreat for fish.

Still, it doesn't seem likely that bridges would have been covered solely for the benefit of country boys. Bridge builders couldn't have been that obliging. There had to be other reasons. The middle West, particularly Missouri, Illinois and Wisconsin, like New England, had many covered bridges at one time. Surely someone knows why they were covered. What has been lost, anyway?

The two St. Louisans who went from Friedrichshafen to Moscow and back in an airship ought to add two more to the growing number of experts on Russian conditions.

THE RETURN FROM JEFFERSON CITY.

Americans in Foreign Armies

Military service of United States citizens for other flags long has troubled international relations; status of former British seamen the cause of the War of 1812; naturalization treaties have been concluded with nine European countries, but France and Italy as yet have not entered into such an agreement.

Carl L. W. Meyer in The American Mercury.

UNFORTUNATELY, the development of international law has been a rather slow process, far slower than that of municipal law. The cause of its languid growth may be sought mainly in the cultural and economic differences between nations. But there has also been an obstruction in the special interest of individuals or groups who prefer the gambles of diplomacy and war to the certainty of law. Thus we still have today, in the relationship between nation and nation, a certain no-man's-land known to American and English authors as the Conflict of Laws and to Continental writers as Private International Law.

One of the things which most often gives rise to controversies among nations is the question of nationality. As early as 1792 Mr. Jefferson, then Secretary of State, informed the British Government that it would be expedient "to form some arrangement for the protection of our seamen," who were in need of such protection because Great Britain claimed the right to impress as British citizens and sailors found on the high seas on board the vessels of other nations.

The ill-feeling aroused by this claim was greatly intensified by the coincident enforcement of the rule of indelible allegiance, under which a person who had formerly been a British subject, although he had acquired American citizenship, might still be recognized as a British seaman and treated accordingly. The ensuing War of 1812, which was fought chiefly because of Great Britain's continuance of this practice, did not finally settle the controversy, since no mention was made of it in the treaty of peace. However, it seems to possess at the present day only an historic interest.

In order to protect naturalized citizens traveling abroad, the United States has endeavored to conclude with other countries treaties which define their status and exempt them from military service. Treaties of this nature, which are generally referred to as naturalization treaties, have been concluded with Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Germany, Hungary, Norway, Portugal and Sweden. There are, however, a number of countries which thus far have not seen fit to enter into such agreements. Among them are France, Greece, Italy, Latvia, Netherlands, Persia, Poland, Rumania, Russia, Spain, Switzerland, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

The Department of State recently issued a "Notice to Bearers of Passports" warning naturalized American citizens of the surprises that may be in store for them upon visiting their old homes. In France, for instance, the Government, under Section 17 of the Civil Code, "will not recognize the naturalization of a Frenchman abroad if he is still subject to the obligations of military service in the active army, unless such naturalization has been authorized by the French Government." Furthermore, American citizens of French origin who visit France and who, under the French military service law, may be considered as deserters, will be dealt with accordingly.

The Greek Government refuses to recognize a change of nationality on the part of a former Greek if it was made after Jan. 15, 1914, and without the consent of the Greek Government. As a result, a Greek who has become an American citizen since that date, unless he has received permission from his former country to make the change, is liable to arrest and forced service in the Greek army or navy upon his return to Greece.

Italy has of late made certain concessions to American citizens of Italian origin visiting Italy during times of peace. It remains to be seen, however, how the new law will work out in practice. How carefully the Italian Government watches over her native sons may be gathered from the law which provides that "Italian citizenship is automatically reacquired after residence of two years in Italy."

The Polish law provides that persons who are liable to military service may acquire foreign citizenship only by permission of the Polish Government. If they do not get this permission they continue to be regarded as Polish citizens and remain liable to military service and to punishment for violation of the military service law.

Provisions similar to those cited above may be found also in the laws of Spain, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Switzerland and other countries. The official position of the United States in regard to all this has been declared by the Department of State to be as follows: "While this Government objects to the punishment of naturalized Americans by fines, forced military service, or imprisonment for unperformed military service which accrued after the entry of the naturalized citizen into the United States, it can give no assurance that any objections which it makes will result in a remission or release." Meanwhile, Section 2006 of the Revised Statutes of the United States reads as follows:

All naturalized citizens of the United States, while in foreign countries, are entitled to and shall receive from the government the same protection of persons and property which is accorded to native-born citizens.

The thought that any American citizen may be forced to serve against his will in the army or navy of a foreign country may not be a pleasing one. But, the Government has been loath to meddle in a preemptory manner with the laws and customs of other peoples because it realizes that other nations have a right to suit their own needs and that the fulfillment of obligations inherited, so to speak, by an individual prior to his coming to the United States is a matter which he must settle with the country of his origin. The plight of these naturalized citizens, regrettable though it may be, is of a nature for which there is no effective remedy in international law except through agreement by treaty.

DIG AT 1930 VINTAGE.

From the Louisville Times.

A to believe in prohibition as it is as a wet has to believe in the liquor as it is.

Red Baiting at Children's Camp

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

IT is to be expected that the legal staff of the American Civil Liberties Union will take up the defense of Aileen Hooper and Mabel Huss, the young women directors of the Communist summer camp at New York City boys and girls, in Massachusetts, who have been sentenced to the months in the penitentiary for insulting and desecrating the United States flag. This harsh sentence has the superficial aspects of a gross perversion of justice. It should be reviewed by a higher court than that of the Justice of the Peace of the town of Van Etten.

The alleged offense of the camp directors was evidently the result of the deliberate baiting of them by Ku Kluxers and other super-patriots in the vicinity. The defendants were ceremoniously offered the American flag for the camp by the visitors, and their refusal to accept it resulted in more or less dispute, different versions of which came from the complainants and the defendants. That the defendants were disparaging remarks about the American flag when it was presented to them was the testimony of the complainants, but was denied. If they did make insulting remarks it is fair to remember that they were long since ended in silence, and that there would have been no exhibition if they had been left alone.

There are all the signs of mob hysteria in this affair. One attempt had been made to burn the camp by the leaders of the raiders, but the police had gallantly saved the situation. The mob that harried the camp for at least a fortnight seemed wholly indifferent to the civil rights of a popular group whose ideas they abhorred. Undoubtedly, fanatical Communists can be exasperating at times; they are capable of fomenting disorders under trained leadership when the opportunities of industrial warfare or urban unemployment and discontent are within their reach.

But when two Communist women with children from the city streets bury themselves in a remote countryside to get away from the air and a few weeks of outdoor activity in forest, lake and field, why pursue and nag them in their retreat? The notion that this kind of treatment will extirpate radicalism is ill-founded.

Prophet Copeland

From the New York Times.

WHEN his audience laughed at Senator Copeland's prediction that good times in 1932 will be followed by the re-election of President Hoover, the Southwesterner claimed: "That's serious." It might be from another Democratic Senator. But this one has an engaging habit of not being bound one week or one year by what he has said the previous.

Only a while ago he was predicting a national scene of vast desolation. Now he sees the sun half-way over the horizon and Republican success assured. Mr. Copeland referred slightly to Alfred E. Smith, the "Venus de Milo" of party leaders, many months later he was bombarding state delegations and touring the land in behalf of the same Smith.

It seems to reform Senator Copeland's utter unexpected remarks like the Hoover prediction, and he appears to undergo a form of mental or moral indigestion.

THE QUATRAINS OF OMAR KHAYYAM. Translated with an introduction by Frederick Ross (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York City, $2.50.)

THEME years ago when the race of the visitor asked. Where a visitor at the home of a teacher of the old school noted in the study table a well-worn copy of Omar. The visitor expressed surprise, for it would be strange to find a man of Omar's stature in the most "wilderness." "Who in the house reads the pessimistic poetry of the pleasures of the earth?" the visitor asked. "The blameless man explained at length that when Omar used wine and advised the human race to get thoroughly plucked and remain so, because we never know when we come no further we go and all our worldly possessions are as wind grasped by the hand, he didn't mean fermented grape juice but he didn't mean drunkenness. He was talking about spiritual enlightenment and the importance of being dead to the pleasures of this world that might have joy everlasting. The explanation seemed a trifle odd, but it was not original with the minister. Much scholarship had already been squandered in the sense of the spiritual thesis, which no doubt had its mercurial since it must have enabled any Puritanical teetotalers to get severely delightful kick out of a serious indulgence of the ungenerous impulses that are said to lurk even in the soul of the purest holiness. There was another and larger school of Omar criticism—the literary—and they didn't hold their conventions in a time kiln. The controversy then raging between the vulgar and spiritual interpreters of the Persian tentmaker's son had long since ended in silence, and now that it doesn't matter anymore, it appears that the literary right—most of their company is "with yesterday's," and their children are put to find the "jug." ## LARGE INCREASE IN PRODUCTION OF FRUIT IN THE WEST

try a loss of corn almost bushel for bushel as large as the entire yield of wheat. On July 1, the crop reporting board forecast a corn crop of 2,825,000,000 bushels, 18,000,000 bushels more than the crop of 1929 and 103,000,000 bushels more than the five-year average. But, the blazing heat of July and August struck 220,000-000 bushels off the anticipated yield—just 17,000,000 bushels less than all the wheat the United States is expected to raise this year.

Because the country always feeds about as much corn as it usually grows, the Farm Board sees an opportunity for the wheat crop to be swallowed by the deficiency in corn. C. C. Teague, member representing fruits and vegetables, said yesterday he thought the low price of wheat is compared to corn would result in feeding of enough of it to livestock to end the national wheat surplus emergency, the solution of which was one of the chief endeavors of Congress during eight years work on farm relief legislation.

Corn Belt Deficiency.

The corn yield, as now indicated, is below the feed requirements of the corn belt proper and leaves nothing for distribution to the 20 states which always buy corn.

Compared with 1929, there is a deficiency of 26,000,000 bushels of corn in Iowa, 25,000,000 bushels in Illinois, 48,000,000 in Ohio, 44,000-000 in Missouri, 30,000,000 in Kansas, 25,000,000 in Indiana and 11-000,000 in Nebraska.

Of the feed crops, hay was second to corn as the chief drouth sufferer. The tame hay crop is 19,000,000 tons shorter than a year ago, Nebraska alone of the more important hay states showing an increase. There is an 28,000-ton reduction in wild hay, North Dakota showing the only noteworthy increase in harvest. Alfalfa hay is 2,000,000 tons short, Nebraska again showing the only increase in yield.

Oats was the spectacular crop of the year, the indicated production surpassing the 1929 yield by 157-000,000 bushels and the five-year average by 81,000,000. There were increased yields in all the big pro-
and Nebraska.

Durum Wheat Short.

Durum wheat was 2,000,000 bushels short of the 1929 harvest and 18,000,000 bushels short of the yearly average. Other spring wheat was 14,000,000 bushels larger than in 1929 but 24,000,000 bushels below the average.

Barley showed a gain of 19-000,000 bushels over the unusually large yield of 1929, Wisconsin, North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska accounting for 17,000,000 bushels of the increase.

North Dakota, largely substituting flax for wheat, hung up a record of 10,452,000 bushels of seed as compared with 6,876,000 last year.

Buckwheat production fell off 2,000,000 bushels, the two principal states, New York and New Jersey, sharing in the decrease.

The production of grain sor-ghums decreased 18,000,000 bushels, to which Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas contributed liberally.

Field beans declined 235,000 bushels, all bean states except Maine, Minnesota, Nebraska, Idaho, Colorado and California sharing the loss.

There is an indicated increase of 75,000 tons of beet sugar and a decrease of 14,000 tons of Louisiana cane sugar.

citizen. He has had a frightful corrupting influence upon our social, moral and political life.

"In view of the fact that this administration and the previous administrations have apparently been helpless in stamping out the evil I am reluctantly forced to the opinion that national prohibition is a failure and that each state should be left to regulate the liquor traffic as a majority of its citizens deem advisable."

Wheeler last February introduced a resolution asking for a Judiciary Committee investigation of enforcement. No action was taken.
Senator Wheeler, the Democratic colleague of Wheeler from Montana and a dry, said last spring he would be willing to submit a referendum to that State on prohibition and to "stand by the result." His attitude coincided with one expressed just previously by another of the strong Senate dries, Jones of Washington.

BLOCK OF CHESTNUT WIDENED

Paving Between Chestnut and Twelfth Cost $15,500.

Chestnut street, between Eleventh street and Twelfth boulevard, will be reopened to traffic late this afternoon. The block, widened to 100 feet, was closed early this week while a new asphalt surface was laid. The work cost $15,500.

Eleventh street between Chestnut and Market streets, is being widened to 100 feet. Completion of this work will center the new Civil Courthouse on the site it occupies.

GASOLINE

HARMFUL
GUM

GASOLINES that are carelessly refined and of inferior quality deposit a sticky, gummy, clinging substance on your valves. This causes delayed seating and, in some cases, complete sticking of intake valves. Faulty valve operation allows unburned gasoline to blow out through the exhaust—unused and wasted.

Koolmotor—the original high test, anti-knock green gas—protects you against this waste of fuel because it is free from harmful gum.

A special Cities Service process—the mini-gum process—has reduced the gum content in Koolmotor Gasoline to a harmless minimum. It keeps your valves clean and free-moving—always ready to do their best—unburdened with sticky, gummy deposits.

For a powerful and smooth-running motor and full mileage from your gasoline, keep your tank full of Koolmotor—the gas that is free from harmful gum.

RASKOB OFFERS PLAN TO PROTECT
DRY LAW STATES

Approving Repeal of 18th Amendment, Democratic Chairman Suggests U. S. Guard River Borders.

OUTLINES PROPOSAL TO GOV. ROOSEVELT

Says It Should Receive Great Applause From South as It Will Strengthen State Enforcement.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee yesterday, sent a telegram to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in which he said in part:

"Heartily congratulations on your clear statement regarding prohibition. You have struck a new note which I feel will place the Democratic party solidly behind the program to restore temperance and temperance living in our country. Your suggestion is admirable. It recognizes the principle of states rights or home rule through returning control of liquor to the states with provision that local option will maintain, thus giving every city, town and village in a wet state the right to prohibit liquor within its borders by local referendum. It also provides that it shall be the duty of the Federal Government to protect states which continue to prohibit liquor."

Protection of States.
"Amplifying this thought it would be my suggestion that the Federal Government recognize the sanctity of the sovereignty of each one of our 48 states, and every state retaining prohibition laws should have its navigable water boundaries protected by the Federal Government against liquor invasions and also every state should have the right to call on the Federal Government to help in the matter of giving similar protection to its other boundaries."

"This new thought should receive great applause from the southern members of our party because it at once restores respect for states rights and home rule, more able defenders of which principle never existed than in our southern states and statesmen, and it gives to our dry states not only all the Federal protection they enjoy today, but of vastly more importance is the fact that it will enable effectual enforcement of State prohibition laws because they will represent public opinion and will fit exactly the local condition."

Smith's Comment.
Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith said Gov. Roosevelt's pronouncement of prohibition "was exactly what was to be expected from him after the deep and careful consideration which he gave the entire subject."

"It is most gratifying to read Gov. Roosevelt's statement on prohibition," Smith said. "It is a straightforward presentation of his conclusions."

CREDIT CORPORATION URGED AS DROUTH AID

Bankers of 67 Missouri County Committees Called to Meeting Here.

Formation of one or more co-operative agricultural credit corporations to relieve the financial stringency caused by the drouth in Missouri will be considered at a meeting of banker members of the 67 county Relief Committees with the Missouri State Drouth Relief Committee here Sept. 22.

The State committee has requested the bankers from the affected counties to meet with it at the Missouri Pacific Building. At least one banker was named on each county group. The principal means of relief contemplated is through these co-operative fiscal agencies, which can get rediscounting rates greatly in excess of their capital from the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank.

Whether to form one large co-operative to serve the whole area in Missouri, several to serve smaller districts or one for each county, will be an important factor to be determined by the conference. The bankers were asked to act on this question, and also to state how much credit would be needed in each county, how much capital might be subscribed in each county for the co-operative plan and whether competent management for co-operatives would be available in each section of the State. It has been thought that the chief financing of the co-operative plan would come from St. Louis and Kansas City and possibly a few other centers.

THEATER MUSICIANS STRIKE IN PHILADELPHIA, DETROIT

Trouble in Pennsylvania City Due to Demand for Retention of Men Pending Arbitration.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—The management of the Stanley-Warner and Fox Moving Picture Theaters here announced today that they would continue unhampered, despite the strike of musicians employed by the companies called last night. The 200 musicians were ordered not to return to work today by the Musicians' Protective Association. The strike affects approximately 254 musicians, 210 of whom are employed in Stanley-Warner houses and the others in the Fox theaters.

The strike was called a short time after the managers refused to comply with the demand that all musicians be retained until Sept. 25, pending arbitration of the differences between the managements and the union.

The musicians are asking for a renewal of contracts already in existence, while the theater managements propose a reduction of 65 per cent in the orchestra staffs.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 12.—A strike of union musicians against Detroit theaters was voted here. Early statements of the officers of the local of the American Federation of Musicians and of theater owners were in conflict as to the number of men and theaters affected and as to one of the issues involved.

By the Associated Press. MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Musicians employed in four Montreal theaters controlled by the Famous Players of Canada Corporation, went on strike today, refusing to accept terms of a new contract.

BOYS AND GIRLS COMPETE TO ATTEND DAIRY SHOW

Radio Speaker Tells How 2500 Are Chosen to Represent 1,400,000.

The 1500 vocational agriculture students and 1000 4-H Club boys and girls who will compete in judging and demonstration contests at the National Dairy Exposition here Oct. 11-19, are selected from a group of 1,400,000 of their number throughout the country. C. W. McIntyre, assistant general manager of the National Dairy Association, said today in a radio address over station KMOX.

Each of the boys and girls entered in the contest here have won in State contests at fairs, shows and round-ups and represent a select group of "serious-minded, hard-working boys and girls," McIntyre said.

Five more service clubs have been formed to help sell 200,000 advance sale tickets for the show, it is announced.

Put your Radio on its Feet... then put it through its paces

LEARN how really fine your radio can be! There may be thrilling performance and beauty of tone in it that your ears have never heard. You can explore a new world of radio pleasure, if you release its true voice with a set of Eveready Raytheon 4-Pillar Tubes. They keep any radio giving its best!

Behind the breath-taking realism of Eveready Raytheon tone is an engineering principle new to radio-tubes. To be strong, rigid and stable, most structures need four points of support. Look at the piers of a suspension-bridge, a radio antenna-tower, or a water-tank on top of a building. To function perfectly, the elements in a radio-tube need a foundation just as firm!

Eveready Raytheon elements are anchored at four points, by the patented 4-Pillar construction which no other tube can use. It gives strength to resist jolts, and rigidity to withstand vibration from dynamic speakers.

Free demonstration offer
Try Eveready Raytheons in your radio... we've made it easy to do. Just call your radio dealer, and he will gladly give you a free demonstration in your own set, at home. Call him today... you need buy no tubes unless you want them!

The Eveready Hour, radio's oldest commercial feature, is broadcast every Tuesday evening at nine (New York time) from WEAF over a nation-wide N. B. C. network of 31 stations.

GAME PRESERVE TO ADJOIN STATE HOSPITAL AT ST. JOSEPH

Will Provide Recreation for Patients and Serve as Experiment Station.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 12.—Roy Monier, Jefferson City, president of the State Reformatory Board of Managers, announced here last night that a 10-acre game preserve would be established on a site adjoining the grounds of State Hospital No. 2. The board, which is co-operating with the State Fish and Game Commission on the project, will develop the site as a recreation park for patients of the hospital, and as an experiment station. Hospital patients probably will be employed in preparing the site, Monier said. Monier was here to choose a site for an employees' dormitory at the hospital.

SANTO DOMINGO WANTS LOAN OF $3,000,000

Must Obtain Consent of President Hoover Before Contracting Exterior Debt.

By the Associated Press.

SANTO DOMINGO, Sept. 12.—This republic's need for a loan to meet the emergency created by last week's hurricane will be put up to President Hoover, who will say whether the amount needed may be floated.

Under an agreement more than 25 years old, the Dominican republic may not increase its exterior indebtedness without consent of the United States, the treaty dating back to the time when Uncle Sam requested to intervene, arranged for consolidation and refunding of the entire Dominican debt with a customs receivership to guarantee payment.

Financially for more than a quarter of a century the arrangement has worked well. Service payments have been met regularly on the Dominican exterior indebtedness of $20,000,000, and President Trujillo has assured the United States Government that the next service fee, due Sept. 20, will be met as usual.

The Government is seeking a $3,000,000 loan, of which $1,000,000 will be used for Government public works and reconstruction, and $2,000,000 will be used for limited private loans to individuals on first mortgages at a small interest rate.

FORMER DRY ADMINISTRATOR ON STAND IN GRAFT TRIAL

Roy C. Lyle Says Senator Jones Was Consulted About Appointment of Liquor Agent.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 12.—Roy C. Lyle, former Northwest Prohibition Administrator, was recalled to the stand in his own defense in the prohibition bribery conspiracy trial here today.

Lyle accepted full responsibility for employing as a dry agent Alfred M. Hubbard, principal prosecution witness. Hubbard was employed, Lyle said, as an undercover agent to work with liquor runners. Senator Wesley L. Jones, whose name has been mentioned frequently in connection with Hubbard's employment, was consulted about the appointment only in an advisory capacity, Lyle said, because of the employment as agent of a person already involved in liquor charges.

Hubbard testified he acted as an intermediary between bootleggers and prohibition officials in the collection and distribution of protection money, allegations which the defense denies.

SUICIDE NOTES AND COAT FOUND ON RIVER BANK

Parcels Letters Signed by Raymond Mathews, 1504 St. Louis, and Poison Discovered.

Two suicide notes signed by Raymond Mathews, 22 years old, a magazine salesman, 1504 St. Louis avenue, were found yesterday on the bank of the Mississippi River near 10,000 Riverview drive. A top coat contained a partly filled box of poison and footprints led to the river.

One note, to his wife, Mrs. Florence Mathews, complained of ill health and inability to properly support her and their two children. The second note, addressed to his brother, George Mathews, 5625 Octavia avenue, Jennings, stated his spirit was broken and that he would rather die than accept charity.

The notes and coat were found by Ralph Morrow, North Ridge and West drives, Riverview Gardens. Mathews has not been seen by his family since Wednesday.

2. Two-spoke wheels, self-lubricating, steel.
3. Tires, non-slip, with rubber tread.
4. Legs, heavy channel, riveted, cross braced and rigid.
5. V-shaped pressed steel tray bottom.
6. Handles, maple, painted—or steel tubing.
7. Accident insurance, $1000.
8. Built for service, heavy wheeling and balancing.

NEWPORT CROWDS ARRIVE FOR YACHT RACE TOMORROW

Both Shamrock V and Enterprise Spread Sails After Overhauling for America Cup Contest.

BETTING IS LIGHT AND ABOUT EVEN

All Varieties of Craft in Harbor From Princely Schooners to Tiny Yawls Moored Side by Side.

By the Associated Press.
NEWPORT, Sept. 12.—Glistening in new paint and varnish, Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, and Enterprise, Harold S. Vanderbilt's defender in the America's cup series opening off here tomorrow, have returned to the water after their final overhauling in shipyards. Both almost immediately spread sail and it was evident there would be no let-down in activity during the 36 hours, or less, remaining before the starting signal is sounded nine miles southeast of Brenton reef lighthouse.

Both boats glided down marine railways on the morning tide, Sir Thomas' green sloop from a local boatyard, and Enterprise at the Bristol yard from which she was launched April 14, the same day Shamrock V took her initial dip at Gosport, England. Shamrock's crew got sail on "er and she was soon bowling along over the sparkling waters of Narragansett Bay, driven by a brisk southwest breeze.

Enterprise arrived at her mooring in Brenton Cove under her own canvas from Bristol. The two boats, Britain's hope of regaining yachting supremacy, bowed saucily to each other as they rose and fell with the motion of the water last night. Their moorings are close by, so close that each crew is aware of the other's activities.

Wagers Mostly Even.
While interest in the races was running high, there appears to be little betting and what wagers were made for the most part were at even money, or slightly in favor of Enterprise.

Vanderbilt, although not born here, is generally regarded as a Newport boy because of the many summers he has spent here. Selection of his boat could not have been more popular locally, but there is no denying that a large portion of the public's sympathy is with the 80-year-old Irish sportsman who for 30 years has kept the interest alive in the 100 guinea mug known as the America's cup.

Into Narragansett Bay there moved a princely flotilla of pleasure craft—schooners, sloops and power boats—come to carry their owners to the greatest spectacle that yachting has to offer. By sunrise nearly 300 boats were crowded into the narrow inlet, and more were coming all the time.

Little Boats There, Too.
Society was there—great names and vast fortunes—aboard yachts famous up and down the Atlantic seaboard. But not only society. Alongside Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt's Winchester, rode a little 28-foot yawl that had been sailing down from West Palm Beach, Mass., by four sunburnt youngsters in dirty white ducks. About George F. Baker's big white Viking clustered many smaller boats—little cruisers and sloops, some of them new, with shining black hulls, and some that looked as though they had been painted over many times.

While the harbor is crowded with yachts, however, many of the big estates have been closed for the season. The weather had turned cool and Bailey's Beach, "the most exclusive spot in America," was almost deserted yesterday. Entertainments in connection with the races will be for the most part small and informal.

Free State President Sends Lipton Message of Good Luck.

By the Associated Press.
BELFANT, Northern Ireland, Sept. 12.—A message of good luck to Sir Thomas Lipton in his attempt to bring back the America's Cup with his new yacht, Shamrock V, was sent today by President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State, through the Associated Press.

"All Irishmen without distinction of party are united in wishing Sir Thomas success in his great enterprise. He hails from Clones, which is in the Free State close to the border. His countrymen north of it, I have no doubt, are following his adventure with as great keenness and anxiety as we do, especially as his challenge is from a northern yacht club.

"No sportsman can fail to admire the spirit which Sir Thomas manifested in his repeated attempts to bring the cup to Ireland, and we trust as a result of the present series to be given the opportunity of welcoming thousands of Americans to our shores when the next contest takes place."

Police Asked to Find Boy.
Edward Whitworth, 4753 Greer avenue, has asked police to search for his 16-year-old son, Russell, who left home Wednesday. Whitworth said the boy had spoken of an intention to go to South America.

DEATHS FROM TUBERCULOSIS VACCINE UNEXPLAINED

German Health Board Says It Was Not Virulent When Received From Paris.

LUEBECK, Germany, Sept. 12.—

Dr. Albert Calmette's anti-tuberculosis treatment is cleared of blame for the death of 11 infants in an official report by the Reich's Health Department.

The report said the vaccines used on the children were received from Paris in good condition, and were at that time non-virulent. The report said further investigation would be necessary to determine how the vaccines became infected.

Dr. Calmette is director of the Pasteur Institute at Lille, and his vaccine for tuberculosis has long been a moot subject in medical circles. The rapidly increasing death toll in cases where the vaccines had been used since last May aroused great public feeling. Charges of negligence were made against doctors, but the report said it was impossible to say whether these charges were justified.

French Textile Strike Settled.

ROBAIX, France, Sept. 12.—A textile strike which at times has involved 20,000 workers during the last seven weeks was settled today. Work will be resumed in the factories on Monday.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept.

12.—Business and industry, swinging upward along the coast and indications are that times are getting better in the East, Senator Reed Smoot of Utah said upon his return home from the Hawaiian Islands yesterday.

BACON AND STRING BEANS

Ingredients needed are one cup finely diced bacon, three onions, six small potatoes, one quart string beans and salt and pepper to taste.

Cook diced bacon in skillet, add sliced onions and string beans and cook five minutes. Add one quart boiling water and cook until beans are half done, then add potatoes cut in halves. When potatoes and beans are done serve in vegetable dish with gravy.

Bacon and tomatoes offer an interesting suggestion for luncheon in particular when served with mushroom sauce.

WHIPPED EVAPORATED MILK

Evaporated milk that has been scalded and then chilled may be whipped to use with fresh fruit or desserts.

Put the can of milk in a saucepan and cover with boiling water. Boil for five minutes, then cool, chill and whip in the same way you would fresh cream.

Or the milk may be poured in the upper part of a double boiler and heated to the scalding point. When scalded, put the pan in a bowl of water then chill thoroughly.

Scalding the milk thickens it somewhat and makes it possible to whip it.

Better for baby

THE convenience and economy of Gerber's Strained Vegetables is obvious. The important thing is that they are better for baby.

The Gerber Products conserve rich mineral salt and vitamin values susceptible to destruction in open vessel cooking in the home. They substitute accuracy, uniformity, and regularity for the difficulties of home preparation.

The doctor's recommendation is based on his familiarity with the scientific importance of Gerber preparation methods. In buying for baby at your dealer's—look for the Gerber blue and white label with the A. B. C. Blocks. Insist on the genuine Gerber Product.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Modern Methods of Cooking Make These Dishes Easy of Preparation.

Sunday's roast of lamb is served with a plum sauce—just to make a change from the mint or apple sauce that is so frequently met with. Use the large red plums or damson plums. Cut in half, add a small amount of water—about one-half cupful to three or four cups of plums measured after cutting in half. Simmer until very soft, then rub through a coarse strainer. Sweeten the sauce, but be careful to keep it rather tart. The amount of sugar used depends on the kind of plums—damsons require considerable more than the sweet variety.

Reheated Lamb.
Cut cold lamb into thin slices or small pieces to make two cupfuls. Put one-fourth cup tarragon or elder vinegar in a shallow saucepan, add one-third cup currant jelly, one-half cup lamb gravy and one-third cup tomato catsup. Stir until hot, then add the lamb and cook very slowly for 20 minutes or until very hot. Serve with boiled rice or noodles.

Frozen Fruit Salad.
Mix one-fourth cup sugar with one tablespoon cornstarch and a few grains of salt, then stir in one cup pineapple juice and one-fourth cup each of lemon and orange juice. Stir over a slow fire until thickened, smooth and transparent. Remove from the fire and cool slightly. Beat two eggs until foamy and stir the hot liquid gradually into them. Cook five minutes over hot water, stirring constantly. Be sure to stir all the time or the "dressing may curdle."

Mix together one cup crushed, canned pineapple, one diced orange, one cup seedless white grapes, one-fourth cup chopped Maraschino cherries, one cup mashed ripe peaches and the juice of half a lemon.
Add this fruit mixture to the dressing and fold in one cup cream, whipped stiff. Freeze in an automatic refrigerator or pour into a quart mold, seal and bury in equal parts cracked ice and ice cream salt for three hours. Let stand to soften slightly before serving. Garnish with small lettuce leaves.

Coffee Cake.
Sift together two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder and three tablespoons sugar. Rub into this one-third cup shortening, either butter, lard or one of the vegetable fats. When the fat is well blended with the flour mixture add one-half cup seedless raisins and two tablespoons shredded citron. Beat one egg, add one-half cup milk and stir into the dry mixture, adding a little more milk if necessary to make a stiff batter. It should be just stiff enough to drop from the spoon.

Spread in a greased, rather shallow pan, brush with milk and sprinkle lightly with confectioner's sugar and cinnamon mixed together in equal proportions. Bake in a hot oven—400 degrees. Serve warm or cold.

APPETIZING MAIN DISHES FOR THE FAMILY BOARD

White a Little Out of the Ordinary.
Readily Prepared by Home Cooks.

At the far end of a season, family appetites need to be catered to through the preparation of dishes that are different. These receipts are for dishes of this type.

Washington Chicken Pie.
Boil a young chicken to tenderness, lift from the liquid and when the bird is slightly cool, remove the bones. Put the bones, a sliced onion, some celery and parsley into the broth and boil half an hour, strain, thicken and return the chicken to it. Add a half-pound of fresh mushrooms that have been sautéed in butter and season to taste.

Line a buttered pudding dish with biscuit dough rolled thin, put in chicken and as much gravy as it will hold; slice a hard-boiled egg thin over the top and put on the crust having a vent in it. Finish the edge and seal it with floured times of a fork. Bake until the crust is done and a warm brown.

Flanked Lamb Chops.
Select several good-sized rib lamb chops and have them frenched. Pound to a powder several slices of bacon cooked crisp, brush the chops lightly with bacon fat, then roll them in the powdered bacon and then in soft bread crumbs sifted.

Broil the chops first in a well-oiled broiler, leaving them rather under-done; then arrange on an oiled plank, a little space between the chops, and place under the broiler of the gas range until well browned.

Remove from the fire, set the plank on a tray or large platter and place spoonfuls of any prepared cooked vegetables between the chops.

Cold Chicken Soup.
This may be made from the bones and remnants of Sunday's chicken. Early in the morning put these in a saucepan with a sliced onion, a stalk of celery, a handful of parsley, two teaspoons salt and a dash of pepper. Cover closely and cook slowly for two hours. Then strain, add one teaspoon gelatin that has been soaked in one-fourth cup cold water for five minutes. Stir until the gelatin is dissolved and set aside to cool. When cold, put in the icebox to chill. Serve in cups and pass salted crackers with it.

SPICED INDIAN RELISH

Two dozen medium-sized tomatoes, six white onions, three sweet red peppers, three sweet green peppers, one pound seedless raisins, one cup finely cut celery, two quarts vinegar, one and one-quarter cups sugar, one tablespoon salt, one dozen firm tart apples.

Scald the tomatoes, drain, peel and chop. Remove seeds from the peppers, peel apples. Chop peppers, apples, celery and onions, and mix with the tomatoes. Add raisins, vinegar, sugar and salt. Cook slowly about forty minutes, or until the vegetables are tender and the mixture thick. Pour into sterilized jars and seal at once.

Let stand at least three weeks before using. This relish would make a pleasing accompaniment to any meat dish.

KROGER STORES

How to choose a grocery store...

ask any little tot where he likes to trade . . . . .

Happy youngster, hiking along with his new school books . . . gay little miss, starting off to the classroom. Ask them why they like to "run up to Kroger's." "Because Kroger's treats us like grown-ups," they'll tell you. Why shouldn't Kroger's "pay attention" to children? They're customers, aren't they? They're your boys and your girls—and they get the same friendly Kroger service you get. They deserve it—and they like it. Send them, as often as you wish, with your order. ## PLANNING MEALS FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

Careful Saturday Marketing Necessary to Take Care of the Week-End.

With Saturday making, every week a long week-end holiday in most communities, marketing will have to be planned well in advance. No one wants to spend a holiday in the kitchen, but meals have to be prepared and the ones planned for Sunday and Monday should give considerable freedom from the stove and yet provide appetizing and attractive meals. One—either lunch or supper—on Saturday may be planned as a picnic meal, whether it is eaten on the home porch or lawn or in some favorite picnic spot.

Sunday's roast will do for Monday's dinner also. The cold meat is sliced, and reheated in a savory gravy that utilizes leftover gravy from Sunday with currant jelly and catsup.

Cook enough potatoes on Sunday to make the purr for Monday night. It is made by mixing two cups mashed potatoes with two tablespoons melted butter, one-fourth cup milk, two egg yolks, salt and pepper to season and then folding in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a shallow, buttered dish, sprinkling a little grated cheese over the top. Cut in squares for serving.

A commercial ice cream may be substituted for the frozen fruit salad if it is too much bother making it. Serve the toasted sponge cake just the same. Cut home-made or baker's sponge cake in strips, sprinkle lightly with salt and toast to a delicate brown. This takes only a minute as the sugar in the cake makes it brown very quickly.

Sunday's Dessert.
Sunday's dessert is made by spreading a sheet of sponge cake with peach ice cream, rolling like a jelly roll and serving at once. Make the cake (for six servings) by heating three egg yolks with three tablespoons sugar until the mixture is very light and creamy. Then stir in three tablespoons flour sifted with one-half teaspoon baking powder. When mixed, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and spread in a large shallow baking pan. Bake eight minutes in a moderate oven. Invert to cool, remove from the pan when cold and turn upside down.

Spread a quart of slightly softened peach ice cream in a thick layer over the cake, roll and cut in slices for serving. The cake may be made the day before it is to be used.

Use canned or fresh crab flakes for the salad on Sunday night, mixing them with an equal amount of finely diced celery and mayonnaise to moisten. Garnish with segments of small firm tomatoes.

School Days Are Here.
School days are here again and bring up the question of school lunches. If a child has to carry his lunch, begin now to plan a series of adequate and attractive lunches that will keep up his interest in the lunch hour.

CORN AND CHEESE SOUFFLE
Make a cream sauce of the following: Three tablespoons of fat, three tablespoons flour, salt and pepper to taste and one cup milk. Mix one cup of corn pulp, one-half cup of grated cheese and the yolks of three eggs beaten until light and add to the cream sauce. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and turn into a greased baking dish.

Bake in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) until firm in the center.

CLEANS GARAGE FLOORS
DISSOLVE a can of Lewis' High-Test Lye in a gallon of water. Scrub your garage floor with an old broom. Grease and stains will disappear as if by magic. Ask your grocer.

HOME COOKS FIND MANY USES FOR COLD COOKED CORN

Quite an Easy Matter to Add Left-over Corn to Other Food Combinations.

As sweet corn becomes older it is more palatable to serve this vegetable in other ways than on the cob. Several tasty ways are suggested in the following recipes:

Corn Turnovers.
Roll very rich biscuit dough as thin as possible, cut in rounds and place in the center of each two tablespoons of the following mixture: Blend together one cup of seasoned cooked corn pulp with sufficient cream or butter to moisten slightly. Half a teaspoon of chopped pimientos and a teaspoon of shredded parsley gives flavor.

Turn the dough over in the shape of a turnover, brush with melted butter and bake until crisp and brown in a quick oven. Serve with a thick tomato sauce. These are also delicious with chicken fricassee.

Corn Muffins.
Leftover boiled corn-on-the-cob is delicious when cut from the cob and added to a plain wheat muffin mixture. Use anywhere from one-fourth to one cupful, according to the amount on hand.

Cooked corn is also delicious mixed in a vegetable salad, or used with mayonnaise as a filling for tomatoes in a stuffed tomato salad, or in the filling for baked stuffed peppers.

SEVERAL SUGGESTIONS FOR THE USE OF GREEN CORN

Appetizing Dishes Which Will Be Appreciated at the Family Table.

There are few better ways of serving fresh corn than simply boiled and on the cob, yet this recipe does provide variation and is very delicious.

Husk young, tender ears of corn and cut the kernels from the cob, using a sharp knife. Place the corn in a double boiler with just enough milk to cover and salt and pepper to season. Have the water in the lower part of the boiler boiling, cover the corn and cook for 15 to 20 minutes. Remember that foods cooked in a double boiler must always be timed from the time that the water in the lower compartment starts to boil.

Add a tablespoonful of butter for each two cups corn just before serving. If cooked too long the corn may toughen, so taste it at the end of 15 minutes.

Sautéed Corn.

Boiled corn on the cob is used for this. Plan to cook about six more ears than will be needed for on meal. Cool the extra, then cut from the cob using a sharp knife. Measure the corn and to two cups, measured by packing the corn down in the cup, add one shredded green pepper.

Melt two tablespoons butter in a heavy frying pan, add the corn and peppers, salt to season and three tablespoons cream or top milk. Cover the pan and cook slowly for five minutes. Then uncover and cook, stirring frequently, until the corn begins to brown slightly.

Turn out on a hot platter and for a hearty luncheon or supper dish, arrange poached eggs on the corn. The corn and peppers may be served as a vegetable with meats or fish.

Culinary Information.

Green vegetables such as spinach, peas, string beans, asparagus and chard will keep a bright fresh color if cooked in a small amount of water in an uncovered kettle. Add salt after the vegetable is cooked. Spinach and chard will cook in 15 minutes; asparagus in 20 minutes; peas and string beans in 25 to 30 minutes.

CHEESE AIDS NOURISHMENT TO VEGETABLE SCALLOPS

Foods of This Type Excellent Main Dishes for Luncheons and Dinners.

Vegetable scallops that contain cheese are excellent for vegetable dinners or luncheons, as they contain all the health value of the vegetables plus the body-building elements of the cheese. In addition, they are hearty and filling.

Use one or more vegetables—a mixture of lima beans, corn, carrots, diced celery and green peas is good—seasoned with a medium thick white sauce to which is added one-half cup finely cut or grated cheese.

Use three cups vegetables, one and one-half cups sauce and one-half cup cheese.

Put in a baking dish, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake for 15 minutes, or until the crumbs are brown and the sauce bubbling. The vegetables used are cooked and may be either fresh or canned.

DAINTY GREEN SALAD

Combines Watercress, Romaine, Lettuce and Celery.

This is new in the world of salads. The combined flavor of the greens is said to be most intriguing. This salad is being substituted for head lettuce salad at fashionable evening dinners at country clubs and other exclusive places.

Green salad requires head lettuce, watercress, celery and romaine. Wash the greens thoroughly; shred lettuce, cut celery in very small pieces; separate cress in small clusters of leaves; toss the greens lightly together with French dressing.

Serve on leaves of romaine with cucumber dressing.

ANOTHER MENU FOR A QUICK DINNER

Serve Corned Beef With Poached Eggs for the Main Course.

Here is another quickly prepared dinner menu for the "business housekeeper," or for those occasions when unexpected demands have pushed the preparation of this meal aside to the last minute.

One of the blessings of our day is the fact that so many last minute meals are possible with such a good variety of food. Busy housekeepers realize the convenience and advantage of canned foods, and they know that the use of the can opener no longer necessarily casts a slur on one's prowess as a cook.

The menu planned for today's hurry-up meal makes liberal use of ready-cooked or ready-made foods.

A hurry-up dinner:

Tomato juice cocktail

Canned corned beef hash with poached eggs

Shredded raw cabbage salad

Hot rolls (from the bakery)

Ice cream with fresh peach sauce

Coffee or Tea

Excellent tomato juice cocktails may be bought ready to serve, or if there is time to make them, use the canned tomato juice, for the purpose. For four servings, use one and a half cups of this tomato juice, the juice of one-half lemon, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon salt, a dash of cayenne and one-quarter teaspoon sugar. Mix well and add more salt if necessary. Chill thoroughly before serving. This may be mixed in the morning and put in the ice box until ready to use.

Corned Beef Hash.

Open the can of hash and mix it with one-half cup milk. A one-pound can of hash will be needed for four servings. If there are any cold potatoes in the ice box, one-half cup of finely cut ones may be added to the hash. Melt two tablespoons butter in a heavy frying pan, put in the hash, cover and cook slowly for 15 minutes or until brown on the bottom. Fold over onto a hot platter and place four poached eggs on the top.

Cabbage Salad.

Shred a small head of new cabbage and mix with a sour cream or French dressing. The former is most delicious and is made by mixing one-half cup thick sour cream with one tablespoon vinegar, one or two teaspoons sugar and one-half teaspoon prepared mustard. Serve the salad with the meat.

Peach Sauce.

Use fresh sliced or mashed peaches for the sauce, or make a sauce by mixing two cups mashed peaches with one-half cup sugar, one-half cup water and one teaspoon lemon juice and stewing gently for 20 minutes. Cool before serving.

Buy vanilla ice cream and pour the sauce over it before serving.

Order of Work.

1. Mix cocktails and put in ice box or in a pan of cracked ice to chill.

2. Make salad and put in ice box.

3. Prepare hash and put on to cook.

4. Heat water to poach eggs.

KIDNEYS AND MUSHROOMS

Dainty and Appetizing Combination for Luncheon.

Use either veal or lamb kidneys for this, or use some of each. For instance, a small veal kidney and three lamb kidneys will serve four. If veal kidneys alone are used two will be needed for four servings, or eight to 10 lamb kidneys.

Cut most of the fat away from the veal kidney, then slice it crosswise in slices about one-fourth inch thick. Split each lamb kidney and remove the core.

Cut six slices of bacon in half inch squares and peel and slice one-quarter pound mushrooms. Cook the bacon in a heavy frying pan until it begins to brown, then add the kidneys and mushrooms, cover the pan and cook over a moderate heat for eight minutes.

Turn the kidneys, cover and cook five minutes longer, then uncover and let the gravy cook down a little. Season with salt, pepper, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and a little lemon juice. Serve with boiled rice.

Watercress Sandwiches.

Wash and cream one-half cup butter. Gradually work in six tablespoons finely chopped watercress and one tablespoon lemon juice. Spread between thin slices of white or graham bread.

HELPING CHILDREN BUILD FOR HEALTH

Help Through Co-Operation With the Nutrition Programs of the School.

Every year an appalling number of children fail to keep up with their grades in school. Various causes are to blame for this, but one of the biggest is under-nourishment, and it is as prevalent among the children of the well-to-do as it is among the youngsters of the poor.

The child himself is not always to blame nor should he be considered in disgrace for something he cannot help. The physical condition of the child is largely a result of the food he eats, and it is the duty of the parent to see that the child gets the best of nutrition, should properly be blamed on the parents rather than the child.

Now that the school season is starting again, it seems a good time to urge parents to help their children by keeping tabs on their physical condition to a larger extent, and by co-operating with the efforts of the school and health authorities in carrying out their health programs.

The vacation period should have put youngsters in fine physical condition for the school year, and in most instances probably has done so. Now is the time to see that this is kept up.

Right food and plenty of it is essential to proper growth and development, but it is not the only requirement. Watch your child's weight, and watch as well his posture, the texture and color of his skin, his powers of co-ordination and his general spirits. Check up on his school marks from the beginning, and when he falls behind, before punishing him, be sure the fault is not a physical one. Inattention and carelessness are frequent among high spirited youngsters who are physically quite fit, and such habits result in low marks in school. With these we are at the moment not concerned. It is the large class of "below par" children that are in mind.

Most schools have some sort of health and nutrition program, but they must have the help and co-operation of the home if the program is to succeed. Nutritionists are pointing out the necessity for something besides food in a nutrition program.

In a more or less haphazard way mothers have been trying to keep their children well fed, to see that they go to bed early and that they follow the general rules of hygiene. It is in the correlation of these health rules that the final results of good nutrition are attained. The right kind of food is an important item. Happiness, or a good mental outlook, the formation of good health habits, plenty of the right kind of play, congenial companions—all these are parts of a child's welfare that need as careful attention as the selection of food.

Celery Sandwich.

One-half cup finely chopped celery; one-fourth cup finely chopped green pepper; sufficient boiled salad dressing to spread; one small can deviled ham.

Mix celery, pepper and ham thoroughly together, adding just enough dressing to spread easily. Spread one slice of bread with the mixture. Cover with slice of buttered bread.

CUCUMBERS NOW LISTED AS POPULAR VEGETABLES

Ways Have Been Evolved to Use Them in Combination With Other Foods.

While cucumbers used to have a bad name as being indigestible, they are really a valuable vegetable. Have them crisp and cold if they are to be served raw. They make a pretty salad when peeled, cut down in two-inch pieces that in turn are sliced so that the slices are not cut entirely apart but joined at the bottom.

Place a slice of radish, or a narrow strip of green pepper or a tiny piece of pimiento or tomato between each slice of cucumber; serve on lettuce or watercress with French dressing.

Do not make the mistake of soaking cucumbers in salt and water before serving them raw. If fresh they do not need it, and if not fresh, do not serve them unless cooked.

They may be baked, boiled or cut in thick slices, dipped in egg and bread crumbs and fried.

Add Cheese for Flavor.

Cheese flavors can be as varied as meat flavors for they range from the milk flavors in the cream cheeses, a medium flavor in the American cheese, Swiss, etc., to the pungent appetite creating flavor of Camembert, Edam and Roquefort cheeses. Cheeses often add tang to otherwise tasteless dishes.

one reason

WHY KELLOGG'S OUTSELL ALL OTHER CORN FLAKES COMBINED

That's because most people prefer the matchless Kellogg flavor and crispness.

Likewise, there's only one real reason why you should ask for Kellogg's—and that's because you'll like them better!

Of course there are other corn flakes. Every successful product is imitated.

But no other corn flakes have ever duplicated the famous Kellogg flavor. None have the same crisp, crackly flakes. No other can have the patented inner-seal waxtite wrapper that keeps Kellogg's always oven-fresh.

Prove it yourself. Try Kellogg's for breakfast. Serve them for lunch these warm days with cool milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Try them when you're hungry late at night.

Children prefer Kellogg's too. And they're fine for nursery suppers. Easy to digest—healthful. Cooling.

IMPORTANT: Some time you may be offered other corn flakes with the claim they are "just like Kellogg's"—or even that "they are made by Kellogg." Such statements are false. Kellogg makes only one brand of corn flakes. They are the most popular in the world because they are different, and better liked than any others! Look for the familiar red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A REAL PARTY

Before Hot Weather Passes Entertain the Small Boys and Girls.

Any gathering means a party to a child, providing there is something to eat. A little girl of four has beautiful parties all by herself entertaining her family of dolls. They all sit around the table with a tiny tea cup beside each one, and a little plate. Real milk, or lemonade or cocoa is in the cups and a wee, wee bread and buttered sandwich on each plate, and a delightful time is had by all, even if the hostess does eventually have to eat her guests' sandwiches, and drink their "tea."

Suppose a little brother or sister is about to have a birthday. Or perhaps you know some tot in the neighborhood whom you would like to give a party for. First of all invite a congenial group of children but be careful not to include more than can be taken care of easily. Eight, or even six makes a good number to begin with.

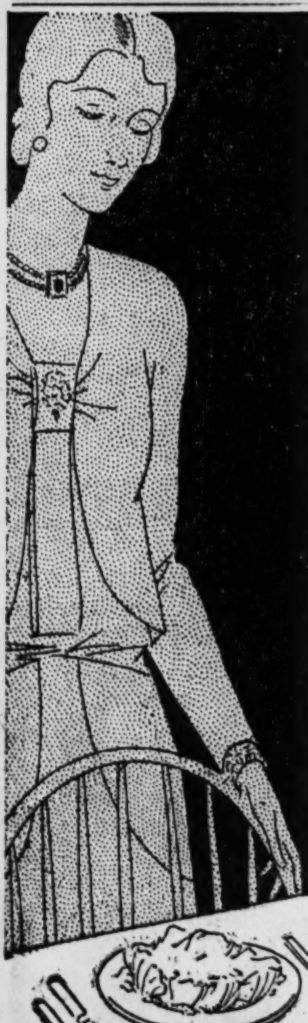

Next, or along with this, plan a time that will not seriously upset meal schedules. The best plan is to invite the children for late afternoon and let the "party" be

DAINTY SMALL CAKES ALWAYS IN DEMAND

Homemade Ones May Be Used to Supplement the Ready-Made Varieties.

Small cakes are popular because they are so easy to serve, and because they so often furnish just the finishing touch to frozen desserts, fruit desserts and fruit drinks—especially the ones that are so in demand this season of the year. There are a number of varieties that are simple to make at home and that keep well—providing you can hide them! There are also very delicious "ready-made" ones that may be bought at small cost and that are a great convenience, especially in emergency moments such as often arise in the life of housekeepers. It is a wise woman who keeps a few tins or packages of assorted cakes or crackers on her pantry shelf.

Cakes that are not too sweet, that are dainty in appearance, and that are rather crisp than soft, seem to "go" better with summer desserts and drinks.

Coconut Crisps.
Cream together one-quarter cup butter and three-quarter cup sugar. When smooth, add one egg and beat until creamy. Stir in two tablespoons milk and then one and one-half cups of pastry flour sifted with one teaspoon baking powder and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Flavor with one teaspoon grated lemon rind or one-quarter teaspoon each lemon and vanilla extract. Spread a thin layer of the batter evenly over the bottom of a well greased inverted baking pan, or on a greased cookie sheet. Sprinkle thickly with shredded coconut and bake in a moderate oven—375 degrees—for 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from the oven, cut at once into small squares or strips, and remove from the pans to a clean towel to cool. If they become crisp before you can get them out of the pans, put back in the oven for a minute.

Work together with the fingers one-third cup shortening and two-thirds cup flour. When the mixture is pasty, press it in a thin layer in the bottom of a square layer cake pan and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. While this is cooking, mix one cup light brown sugar with two well beaten eggs, one teaspoon grated lemon rind, juice one-half lemon, one tablespoon chopped preserved ginger, one-half cup chopped nut meats and one-half cup finely chopped dates. Spread this over the baked crust and put back in a slow oven—225 degrees—to bake for 15 minutes longer; or until firm and browned. When cold, cut in small squares and pack in a box lined with waxed paper. Makes about 15 small squares that are delicious with tart fruit drinks.

Ice Box Cookies.
Mix one cup of brown and granulated sugar and one and one-quarter cups shortening. Work to a smooth cream and then beat in three eggs. Sift three cups flour with one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon ground cloves, one-fourth teaspoon baking soda and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Stir into the egg and sugar mixture and then add one and one-fourth cups chopped nutmeats. Mix and then gradually add enough more flour to make a dough that can be handled without sticking to the fingers. Turn out on a lightly floured board and shape into a roll about three inches in diameter. Place this in the ice box overnight. In the morning cut it down in thin slices, place on a greased pan and bake eight to ten minutes in a hot oven—400 degrees. Makes four dozen cookies.

A mother's gift to her children

Pig-tailed little girls and freckle faced little boys were the inspiration of this old time, home-made mayonnaise. Ivanhoe is still the choicest mayonnaise that fussy mothers and particular hostesses can serve.

SLICED or UNSLICED

FIFTEEN years ago the typical American loaf was blown-up and puffy. When housewives bought bread, they accepted fluffiness without substance. Little was known about the kind of materials the baker was in the habit of using.

Then along came Bond Bread. It came with a guarantee that only the purest and best ingredients were used. Within the well-browned, crisp crust was texture that was even, close-knit, substantial. It was light, rather than fluffy, and amazingly tender. But beyond everything else Bond Bread had a flavor never before equalled by any loaf except the best home-baked bread.

Bond Bread can now be bought either in a sliced loaf or in an unsliced loaf, and sliced Bond Bread is now the choice of many who had been using other brands of sliced bread. They tell us there are two big reasons why they like Bond Bread better:

First—Bond Bread is so firm. Each slice is more substantial. Second—The flavor of sliced Bond Bread is better than the flavor of any other bread except Bond Bread in the uncut loaf. It is the same flavor that has made Bond Bread outsell all other loaves in the world. You may buy sliced bread for convenience, but you no longer need to put up with inferior flavor now that you can get sliced Bond Bread, as well as Bond Bread in the uncut loaf.

WHAT DOES YOUR MIRROR SAY?

To MANY WOMEN the mounting birthdays bring a little less beauty, a few more wrinkles, a complexion that has lost its youth and charm. Yet for others, Time seems to stand still.

The difference is often a matter of diet. So many foods lack sufficient roughage or bulk. Without it, constipation is inevitable. Its poisons spread over the whole system, causing ill health and loss of youth.

Today, you can prevent it easily by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In stubborn cases, eat ALL-BRAN with each meal. This is so much better than taking pills and drugs that may be harmful.

Advanced processes have improved Kellogg's ALL-BRAN both in texture and in the delicious, nut-like taste.

Delightful with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Use it for making fluffy breads, muffins, etc.

SALMON SALAD LOAF

May Be Served As the Main Dish at Family Meal.
Drain one can salmon, add four tablespoons vinegar, one teaspoon salt, dash of paprika and rub smooth with wooden spoon.
Put through grinder two hard-boiled eggs, nine large olives, one sweet pickle, half of salad dressing, two tablespoons chili sauce.
Soak two tablespoons gelatine in one-quarter cup of milk for 10 minutes.
Heat another one-quarter cup of milk to boiling point, add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Stir this into salad dressing and combine with salmon.

Pour into individual molds. Arrange on lettuce leaves, garnish with pickles and top with salad dressing, thinned with whipped cream.

Grape Juice Sauce.
Bring slowly to boiling point one-half pint grape juice. Add yolks of four eggs and one cup sugar. Whip it on the fire until in state of high froth and a little thick.

TEMPTING CAKE DESSERTS

Sometimes cake is cut in slices or squares and served with whipped cream. A cherry or lump of bright colored jelly makes the whole quite beautiful.

Dried fruit may be cooked to a thick sauce, then used as a dressing. A spoon of whipped cream improves the dish.
If leftover cake is steamed and a hot or cold sauce served over it, it makes an excellent dessert and there is no waste of leftover cake.

SANDWICH SUGGESTIONS

The picnic sandwiches will prove more interesting if a variety of breads is used in making them: white, wholewheat and nut bread are suggested with the fillings selected.

Rye, cheese bread or a homemade orange loaf offer other possibilities.
A loaf cake can be changed to appearance by cutting in thick slices and icing each slice all over with chocolate or orange icing.

ALIMONY

FAITH BALDWIN Who Wrote
"THE OFFICE WIFE"

CHAPTER XX.

IT WAS Charlotte who had forced them into friendship; Charlotte who had driven Stephen to Eve Harkness for companionship and understanding; Charlotte who, as far as Stephen was concerned, had implanted the suggestion which he consciously ignored but which subconsciously grew and would not be banished. It was Charlotte who had seen to it that he sacrifice himself for this girl—the innocent bystander—and no man having immolated himself in secret for a woman can look upon that woman with indifferent eyes. And now it was Charlotte who, altogether unknown, tore the veils from their mutually bewildered eyes.

She was living with Helene, keeping her end up as much as possible, spending every cent of her alimony in rent and food and clothes. And she was singing on the radio for extra money. She had begun to do so shortly after she left Stephen; she had become popular—people wrote in demanding whole programs. And she was making money.

The sense of her own independence thrilled her, but not enough to make her visualize a future in which she could support herself entirely. Even if she could—

"He owes me something," she convinced herself. "He married me—I lived with him five years. He owes me something."

More than her independence, the thought that Stoddard admired her, considered her gallant, misused, "plucky as the devil," irradiated her. She had a very flattering portrait of herself now. Stoddard had painted it for her, and she was trying to live up to it. Actually she was a very different woman from the woman who had been Mrs. Stephen Dane. She was softer, she was younger, prettier with happiness, both acknowledged and unacknowledged.

She was less carping, less malicious. Stoddard had said once, idly, that he was bored to death with women who "catted" incessantly. He had been thinking, reluctantly, of Stella when he said it. But Charlotte could not know that. She was making herself over for Stoddard because she was genuinely in love with him. And humble about her love, Stoddard knew so many people, went to so many places, was so in demand, was so attractive, why should he consider her seriously? She had never been humble with Stephen and humility, although closely and jealously hidden for her pride's sake, melted her, blurred all the hard, sharp contours of her mind.

IF she had unconsciously started Stoddard when her voice came to him there in Stella's apartment, if she had caused him to leave that apartment swearing—for the first time meaning it definitely—that he would break with Stella Bedford, no matter what it cost him in distaste and even decency, she startled Stephen no less—and by the same method.

Some one had brought a little radio to Eve's apartment. There had been a party there; they had used the set to dance by. And fellows, who owned it, had left it there. It was still there, tonight, a week after Stephen's last supper with Eve and her friends. Now they came home, after a motion picture, to make themselves a rarebit and talk, as they often did. Gertrude had promised to be in early and get things ready for them, but she had not been able to keep her word.

"Play with the radio," said Eve, taking off her things. "And I'll see what's in the kitchen."

She was busy with the little stove, setting out ingredients on the small white table, tying herself into an apron, when she heard bursts of jazz and Stephen's contented whistling. They had had such a nice evening. Yet there had been a certain awkwardness between them, a perfectly apparent and conscious striving for the most commonplace subjects of discussion. They hadn't had one of their usual hot arguments on life and death; they hadn't picked each other to pieces as they often did, half serious, half laughing. They'd kept to a dead level.

Suddenly a woman's voice floated out into the room, singing a saccharine and rather charming lullaby. Eve listened as she worked, with real pleasure.

"Am I getting sentimental," she asked herself, "or is my really good musical taste degenerating?"

It was a song she had often heard. She hummed it now as she teased the bread, melted the cheese, added the condiments. Stephen, she noticed, had stopped whistling. What babies then were, she thought, smiling. Give them a clinging sort of melody with a heartbeats in it and they were satisfied, lulled.

Presently she went into the living room and sat at the table. The woman was still singing—something gay this time—and Eve saw that Stephen neither moved at her approach nor spoke.

"What's the matter? Are you hypnotized or something?" she now she had her arms about him.

HE did not answer her; merely held up one hand for silence. Eve went and stood near him. The song had stopped. After a minute she heard the announcement.

"You are listening to Miss Charlotte Field. Her program will be continued in a moment. I have here a request from Miss Isabel Frank of Brooklyn, New York.... Miss Frank asks for the song 'Just a Memory.' This is station WMQ, New York City—Manners announcing."

Stephen put out his hand.... silenced the song.... "It was—Charlotte," he said hoarsely, and turned a strained, incredulous face toward Eve.

After a moment, she said, slowly:

"Your—wife? On the radio there?"

"Don't call her that!" he flung out savagely, and stumbled to his feet. Somewhere, in the studio, Charlotte was still singing into the microphone. Somewhere the unknown Isabel Frank was listening, flattered and admiring.

"Field?" asked Eve, doubtfully.

"Her maiden name, of course," he explained, as if astonished she hadn't known. Then he sighed, a long, stentorian breath like a man coming out of ether. "I knew her voice.... the moment...."

"But I didn't know.... she was singing.... on the radio...." Eve said, conscious of an ache at her heart, dull sickening. His face, suddenly so haggard; his eyes, which went from her, were veiled with memories.... "Just a Memory...."

"No! I. She wanted to, long ago. Spoke of it. I wouldn't let her, of course," he said, shortly. "What a fool he was! thought Eve, with the sudden hostility of her sex as opposed to his.... what a—dear fool."

His face, turned toward her now, was blank with shock. And she forgot her swift estrangement in pity for him.... and, she realized, for herself.

"Stephen!" It came from her lips like a cry. She could not withhold it. "Stephen—I'm so sorry—do you care so much—?"

Now his blindness altered and he saw her, her hand outstretched, her face quivering, her defenses down, in sympathy for him.

SOMEHOW he had drawn a step nearer to her. Somehow he had his arms about her, was clutching her to him, warm and yielding.

"Care—for her? I don't care a damn!" he denied, thickly. "It was only—shock. It.... made me sick.... when I thought.... of everything that had been. To turn a dial.... and hear her voice.... realize that I'd lived with her.... through the future. 'I must have known! Eve.... don't cry. Eve, it's you, you know—only you. It was because it's so much you that—that hearing her like that—damn near killed me. I can't endure," said Stephen, low, "I can't endure to have known another woman—ever. Eve, try to understand."

Now she had her arms about him. "I know—"

"You—do care a little—"

"So much—"

How PARIS Got Its NAME..

RIGARD, THE HISTORIAN, SAYS THAT A STENCH HAD SOMETHING TO DO WITH IT. PRIOR TO THE YEAR 1184 THE CITY WAS KNOWN AS LUTETIA. ONE DAY DURING THAT YEAR THE KING WAS STANDING AT A WINDOW OF HIS PALACE. THE STENCH FROM THE DIRT THROWN BY CARTS ANNOYED THE ROYAL OLFACTORY SENSES, AND HE RESOLVED THEN AND THERE TO REMEDY THE NUISANCE BY CAUSING THE STREETS TO BE PAVED. THE WORK WAS PERFORMED THAT YEAR. THE HISTORIAN WROTE: "THE NAME OF THE CITY WAS CHANGED FROM LUTETIA, BY WHICH IT WAS CALLED ON ACCOUNT OF ITS FILTHINESS, TO PARIS, RENOWNED FOR HIS STRENGTH AND BEAUTY."

"WINDFALL" SOME OF THE ENGLISH NOBILITY WERE FORBIDDEN TO CUT TREES IN THEIR FORESTS, THE TREES BEING PRESERVED FOR THE NAVY.... TREES THAT FELL WITHOUT CUTTING, HOWEVER, BELONGED TO THEM.... A TORNADO, THEREFORE, WAS A GODSEND TO OWNERS OF FORESTS, AND TIMBER BLOWN DOWN WAS "WINDFALL." GRADUALLY THE MEANING CHANGED TO DENOTE SUDDEN GOOD FORTUNE.

Politely Excusing Oneself

WHEN a boy takes a girl to a restaurant and he finishes what he has ordered and the girl hasn't should she finish her share?

2. How should one asked to be excused to go to the dressing room to apply powder when leaving a theater?

1. Yes, if she wishes. Unless they are rushing to go on to some other entertainment, there should be no sense of hurry about this dining.

2. It is easy to say, as you reach the lobby, "I'll meet you here in a few minutes."

Finnan-Haddie and Macaroni.

One finnan-haddie, two cups cooked macaroni, two cups milk, two tablespoons flour, three tablespoons butter, three-quarter cup grated cheese, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon salt. Nearly cover the fish with cold water and bake until tender. Make a white sauce of the butter, flour and milk and seasonings. Stir in cheese and cook until it melts. Remove flakes of fish from the skin and bones and arrange on a heated platter, surround with the macaroni and pour sauce over all.

Habits that jinx the nerves won't do. Trying to get along on Napoleon's well known quota of sleep, for example. Leading a strictly indoor life, for instance. Overindulgence in stimulating drinks, for another thing. Worrying about trifles. In fact, worrying.

There was a congenitally crotchety gentleman who, upon the advice of a friend, who happened also to be a physician, bestirred himself from his library, where he had been wont to do all his think-

A WAY TO ACHIEVE POISE

By Frances Olivier.

POISE, the magic something that gains for good-looking women the reputation of being beautiful.

Poise, so pleasing a thing that many call it charm. Certainly it is charming.

Poise, a power that gives its possessor tremendous advantage over other people and situations.

You cannot have poise if you are tense. You cannot have it if you are jumpy. You cannot have it if you are phlegmatic. For poise is but another way of saying "nerve control."

So, you see, to achieve poise, the stuff that makes masters of commoners, you must be master of your nerves. And to be master of your nerves you must live wholesomely.

What a sense of joy, not to speak of power, there is in being able to laugh at the things that other people worry about and to pooh-pooh petty annoyances out of existence. But only people possessed of poise can have that joy and that power.

Really, now, isn't it worth the price of going to bed an hour earlier than usual and getting up 30 minutes before the usual rising time (yes, for a brisk walk) and abstaining from that extra dose of whatever we think we need to "pull us together"—because it doesn't actually, it only hypnotizes us into thinking so.... ing, and did it while taking a morning walk.

The result of the newly acquired habit was to improve the thinking considerably and the disposition miraculously. The man who had been a terror to his housekeeper became a lamb whose housekeeper fetched and carried for—without pleasure.

Fresh air exercises a cure for "nerves." Didn't you know? Try it some time on a crabbed uncle or melancholy aunt, or well, anybody who fumes over nothing and fears everything—which is the way of nerve cases.

CHAPTER

W EALTHY Chinamen, I suppose Monte Carlo. But to me it was of China at its worst, with its brutality, its beautiful silks and opium.

We gave our show in the the Macao, and during the engagement to give a private performance at city. He would have a theater but purpose, of such proportions as I deem sary for the production of my illu booked to open shortly in Shanghai build a theater.

He said, "The theater will be ready for a performance tomorrow evening. May I count on you?"

Early the next morning I was rickshawed out to the Chinaman's house—a magnificent mansion set in the heart of a wonderful tropical garden—and for my surprise the place was alive with slaves of the lamp, toiling at my theater. When I carried my baggage out late that afternoon the temporary playhouse building with a seating capacity of 2000 and a stage large enough for my bulkiest mechanical effects.

The filthiest places in China are the theaters, and I believe the filthiest theater in the whole Celestial Kingdom was the Tai Ping Theater, on Queen's Central road, Hongkong, where I played a return engagement after visiting Macao, Fuchuan, Amoy and Shanghai. The theater was large enough to seat 4000 persons.

That first night at the Tai Ping Theater is a memorable event of my career. Who I stopped upon the wobbly bamboo stage before a packed audience composed wholly of Chinese, the vision that met my eyes was one that few white men have been privileged to behold. The theater was a vast hall, the floor was surrounded by Chinese gentlemen in rich silks of many colors, yellow and purple predominating. Some wore gorgeous uniforms, others wore simple, but all were dressed in colorful and sumptuous gowns, fitted in and out among the tables, pouring tea into rose-leaf cups or filling tiny silver pipes.

I OPENED the performance as usual, with card manipulations. As I plucked card after card out of the air, the vast audience was so quiet I feared they did not understand but when I began to vanish cards, and apparently pass them through various parts of my body, the galleries broke out into a violent chattering. Fanciful this was the method of showing appreciation. I smiled and bowed, but as my acknowledgment had no effect on the crowd I was nonplused. I couldn't go on amid that babble of voices, and I couldn't stand there doing nothing. So I nodded to Sid Watson and he struck into "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey." The fastidious ditty put a quietus on the conversation, and I began the informal side was over a Chinese gentleman at a table near the front stood up and said in English:

"Sir, pardon this intrusion, but I suggest that you do not perform your tricks so quietly. The spectators in the gallery complain that they cannot follow your motion. I also suggest that you allow a minute or two to elapse between each trick so that the audience may have an opportunity to discuss it."

I thanked the gentleman and did my next trick very deliberately. When it was over I walked off the stage, lit a little cigar, and sat down to smoke while the audience discussed the trick among themselves. When the chatter ceased I returned out on the stage, leisurely performed another trick, and then retired for another short smoke.

There were no further complaints about not understanding my tricks. The next engagement was in Kobe, Japan. The baggage was on the boat; and Mr. Tam had promised the money that morning. Blakey and I waited in his office. It was past 10; but when the clock struck 11 Blakey was sure the money would not come, especially as I had no written agreement with him. But I was not worried in the least.

Mr. Tam arrived with profuse apologies and the money in 20-pound stacks of English gold, and induced me to accept additional sums because the business had been better than expected.

I like the Chinese. Conditions in Japan, however, were different. And for the first time since my invasion of the Far East, I faced failure. On the opening night less than 100 Europeans were in the house. With the exception of two Japanese officials stationed at the door to collect 10 per cent of the receipts for the Government, there was not a Jap under the roof. At the European Club, after the performance, Mr. Cruthers, an English merchant, told me that since the war with Russia, the Japanese had boycotted

NOTHING Up My SLEEVE

By Howard Thurston

WEALTHY Chinamen, I suppose, look upon Macao as a second Monte Carlo. But to me it will always exist as a microcosm of China at its worst, with its filth, poverty, wealth, its crime and brutality, its beautiful silks and its foul cotton rags, its fish and opium.

We gave our show in the theater of the Portuguese Club in Macao, and during the engagement a wealthy Chinaman requested me to give a private performance at his home in the suburbs of the city. He would have a theater built of bamboo for this special purpose, of such proportions as I desired, with every appliance necessary for the production of my illusions. I replied that as I was booked to open shortly in Shanghai, there would not be time to build a theater.

He said, "The theater will be ready for a performance tomorrow evening. May I count on you?"

Early the next morning I was released out to the Chinaman's house—a magnificent mansion set in the heart of a wonderful tropical garden—and to my surprise the place was alive with slaves of the lamp, toiling at my theater. When I carried my baggage out late that afternoon the temporary playhouse was completed—a substantial building with a seating capacity of 500 and a stage large enough for my highest mechanical effects.

The filthiest places in China are the theaters, and I believe the filthiest theater in the whole Celestial Kingdom was the Tai Ping Theater, near Queen's Central road, Hong Kong, where I played a return engagement after visiting Macao, Fuzhou, Amoy and Shanghai. The theater was large enough to seat 500 persons.

That first night at the Tai Ping Theater is a memorable event of my career. When I stepped upon the stage, surrounded by Chinese gentlemen in rich silks of many colors, yellow and purple predominating. Some wore gorgeous mandarin hats. Pretty little silken girls, dressed as humming birds, fitted in and out among the tables, pouring tea into rose-leaf cups or filling tiny silver pipes.

I opened the performance as usual, with card manipulations. As I plucked cards after card out of the air, the vast audience was so quiet I feared they did not understand but when I began to vanish cards and apparently pass them through various parts of my body, the galleries broke out into a violent cheering. Fancifully this was their method of showing appreciation.

Next I vanished a box of cards, and as I acknowledged had no effect on the crowd I was nonplused. I could go on and talk of bubble of soap and I couldn't stand there dumbly. So I nodded to Sid Watson and he struck into "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey?" The racket didn't put a quiver on the diversion, and when the intermission came the Chinese gentleman at a table near the front stood up and said in English:

"Sir, pardon this intrusion, but I suggest that you do not perform the tricks on such a night. The theater is in the gallery complain that they cannot follow your motion. I suggest that you allow a minute or two to elapse between each trick so that the audience may have an opportunity to discuss it."

I thanked the gentleman and did not trick very deliberately. When it was over I walked off the stage in a little cigar, and sat down to smoke while the audience discussed the trick among themselves. When the chatter ceased I returned on the stage, leisurely performed another trick, and then retired for another short smoke.

There were no further complaints about not understanding my tricks. The next engagement was in Kowloon, Japan. The baggage was on the boat, and Mr. Tan had promised the money that morning. Bucky and I waited in his office. It was past 10; but when the clock struck 11 Bucky was sure that Mr. Tan would not come, especially as I had no written agreement with him. But I was not worried in the least.

Mr. Tan arrived with profuse apologies and counted the money in 25-pound stacks of English gold, and induced me to accept additional sums because the business had been better than expected.

I like the Chinese, however, very different. And for the first time since my invasion of the Far East I faced failure. On the opening night less than 100 Europeans were in the house. With the exception of two Japanese officials stationed at the door to collect 10 percent of the receipts for the Government, there was not a Japanese in the room. At the European Club after the performance, Mr. Tan, an English merchant, told me that since the war with Russia, the Japanese had boycotted all foreign enterprises, and many established firms in Kowloon had found it impossible to continue their business.

My plan was to remain two months in Japan, but as there was no prospect of business, we packed our baggage and hauled it to the wharf. That morning I got into conversation with the captain of a tramp steamer, and learned that he was leaving that same night for Saigon, Cochinchina. The word "Saigon" recalled to my mind what Daddy Lyons had said about the beautiful theater costing 2,000,000 francs, which the French Government had erected in that out-of-the-way corner of the world. Each year the Government sends a company of French players to Saigon for the entertainment of the Frenchmen who are obliged to live there. We sailed that night on the tramp steamer for Cochinchina.

We played five nights in Saigon, and as we did not have to pay for the use of the Government theater the engagement was very profitable. Now the newspapers charge us for advertising, and even the landlord of the hotel did not want us to pay for board and lodging. Indeed everything seemed delighted that we had stopped at their little settlement.

Our next stand was Java, and we changed boats at Singapore for Batavia. Going into Singapore we had left the Chinese, the Japs, the French and the Portuguese behind us, and now the Malay and the East Indian predominated.

Singapore is the most cosmopolitan of all cities of the Orient, and is divided into sections for the various nationalities.

We had booked the Schemberg Theater in Batavia, and gave the show in German. The audience was delighted, and we played to capacity business the rest of the week. We gave a performance for children Saturday morning, as the weather was too hot for the usual afternoon performance.

AT SURABAYA, the native capital of Java, where the Sultan lives, we gave three performances in a pretty little theater. On the third night the Sultan and his court attended the performance.

Early that afternoon a retinue of servants brought to the theater many cartloads of beautiful silk carpets, rugs and richly colored bunting. They draped the front of the theater with the bunting and laid the silken rugs on the sidewalk. They decorated the inside

WITH THE WOMEN CHAMPIONS

The Second of a Series of Interviews.
By MARGUERITE MARTYN

LOCAL sport annals present no more picturesque and inspiring situation than that which has existed for some years in the women's golf contests. For nine years two young women, Audrey Faust Wallace and Virginia Pepp, singly or together, have figured in the finals of the Women's District Golf tournaments. Only one year has the championship passed from the grasp of both. That was when Mrs. I. S. Hynes won it in 1929. Four times the contest has been between the two players, and each other. Twice Mrs. Wallace has won the title from Miss Pepp. And this year Miss Pepp evened the score.

Fairly matched in skill and sportsmanship, though so differently situated in worldly estate—Miss Pepp is a girl who is employed at earning her living eight hours of the day; Mrs. Wallace is the daughter of Edw. J. A. Faust, granddaughter of the late Adolphus Busch and niece-in-law of Robert Brookings, capitalist, reared in luxury and to all the advantages of wealth—their annual battles have inspired also a rare quality of sportsmanship in their gallery of spectators. With the contests taking place on exclusive club courses and galleries recruited chiefly from among men—era, be it said to the credit of these that there always is as much of that restrained applause permitted a golf gallery for the little "ladies" outside when she makes one of her masterly strokes as for the one of their own elect when she makes one of her brilliant plays.

"This because," says Champion Pepp loyally, "golf produces better sportsmanship than any other game. I have played other games. I bowl, play tennis, swim. In none of these other sports do I find women so little given to jealousy, back biting, unfairness as in golf. Something I can't stand," she added with emphasis, "is hearing women talk about each other. The fact that golf produces a better spirit of sportsmanship is accounted for, I think, by the fact that women golfers, as a rule, come from the more cultured classes. Having social position, ease, background, they have not so much to lose when a game goes against you. Audrey Wallace is the fairest, most unselfish, most sportsmanlike woman I have ever played against."

IT is duly appreciated that Mrs. Wallace, amidst all the alluring interests and distractions with which she is surrounded deserves as much credit for the downright golfing as she receives for the required to make a good partner as does Miss Pepp for managing to perfect her game against obstacles more unyielding and distractions more compelling. But, with wealth and opportunities unequally distributed as they are, I believe Miss Pepp's example and experience will prove more inspiring to the many. Asked to tell from her experience how she became the champion, she is, her first response was rather disconcerting.

"I believe it is a gift. Of course, in beginning young I had an advantage. But the first time I ever had a club in my hands I swung it exactly as I do now. I've never had lessons and I don't practice all the time as some players do. I thought it a tournament I do a little training, go out and shoot 30 balls or so, when I have the time. But there are months at a time when I don't have a club in my hand.

"However, this may prove simply that my system is better than some others. I really believe that too much instruction and too much analysis of strokes, confuse a player. And that too much practice is bad and the wrong kind of practice is worse. What good does it do to spend a lot of time on the practice tees when every lie of your ball on the real course presents a different problem? I have observed that players who have taken a great deal of instruction in all the different shots become all the more bewildered when confronted with difficult situations on the actual course.

"YOU'VE got to have a sense of co-ordination. The swing and the timing are the fundamental principles of golf," she continued. "I hear pros talking about holding your club at a certain angle. Breaking your wrists. Keeping the weight on the left foot so that the right hip doesn't come in too soon, and so forth. Why, all you've got to do is pick up the club with the left hand, slowly, and swing it with the right hand, fast, in the most natural position possible. Muscular strength comes with playing, but you don't need a great deal of strength. I have seen women"—she paused, giving the matter due reflection—"yes, I have seen women who can give as far as a man with as little effort."

"They tell me my stroke is like a man's, whereas there is a typical feminine stroke that gets some very spectacular effects. A stroke with a hook which gives your ball a spin and greater momentum so that it runs after it lands. My ball goes straight and falls dead. Not so brilliant, perhaps, but more reliable. In the Trans-Mississippi semifinals at Tulsa recently I put out the three-time champion of Texas and the pro remarked that I had a swing that would wear any woman golfer out. However, I did not make the finals in that tournament. I found those big league players shot a stiffer game than any competitors I had known around here."

As has been told many times, Virginia as a child of 15 became possessed of two bags of golf clubs. Her brothers, who had become proficient golfers while caddyding, left them when they went to war. She took them, trudged out to the Municipal links and tried them out all by herself. Her first championship, that of the Municipal League, was won that same year, 1929. Her name was first engraved on the St. Louis women's district trophy, the most coveted prize locally, when she was 17. That first cup offered by the Men's District Association, is now hers for keeps. It was in competition 14 years, going to the permanent holder after winning it three times, and she now has "one leg" on the new trophy. She has in her career won every local honor and with Elliot Whitbread won the two-ball mixed foursomes in the national tournament played here. She has about 18 silver cups along with numerous other prizes packed away. "They look too junky scattered about the house. I want to get a case which will contain them all together," she observed.

SHE lives with four sisters in a flat on a pleasant block just off O'Fallon Park at 4568A Clarence avenue. Her mother, a widow since the children were little things, died four years ago. The family name is Peplausky, the father having been of Polish descent, though the mother's name was McIntyre, which may account for the "gift." The nickname attached itself to the boys when they were familiar figures on the golf course and now the whole family has adopted the shorter version as more convenient.

In the evening, after she had finished her clerical work at Rice-O'Neill Shoe Co. for the day, I found her, a brown-skinned, earnest, thoughtful, even stolid little girl. She is a graduate of St. Marks' parochial school. "A little shy, she was much embarrassed at having to talk about myself," but willing to tell anything that would arouse added interest in golf. "There isn't anything I like better than coaching young people," she said. "Of course, I can't do it professionally and keep my amateur standing, but my sister Lucille and I have several proteges.

"I think the new miniature golf establishments are doing to be just fine for the children.

"How do you find time for a sport that requires so much time when you are employed?" I asked. "My employers are very lenient about letting me off," she said. "I have every Monday off in summer for the club team tournaments, though, of course, for the long furloughs I take during the big tournaments I have to lose my salary." She is a member and represents Midland Valley Country Club in the tournaments.

"But golf is not the only diversion I find time for. I play tennis and swim and I do social work at Mullany Hospital and Guardian Angel Settlement. I don't think that is so exceptional," she protested when I expressed wonderment at her wanting to give time for dancing, reading, going to picture shows. I like to read, but I like people better. I like studying those I meet at the country clubs and in the settlements and public recreation centers, and seeing the same human traits crops out in all of them. I like to read on sociological and psychological subjects. And let me tell you all the knowledge you get of psychology you can put to good use in winning golf games as well as in meeting the emergencies of life." About her system of perfecting her game she said:

"I DO not allow myself to practice too much. I think you get over-golfed if you play every day. When I do practice I develop your timing swing, rhythm.

Rarest Stamp in World Costs Collector $32,500

THE world's rarest stamp and probably one of the most valuable is owned by Arthur Hind of Utica, N. Y., who paid $32,500 for it.

It is the only known specimen of this stamp, a one-cent issue of British Guiana, dated 1856. The stamp depicts a girl in a blue dress and with the aid of a local printer a temporary stamp was designed and printed there.

Sixty years later only one remained. It was bought by a German Count, whose valuable collection was seized by the French during the war. Sale of that collection netted France $2,000,000 and at that time Hind bought the Guiana stamp.

MISS VIRGINIA PEPP

better than with a wooden club. The mashie-niblick is a good practice club, too. Too much putting, though, overstrains your arm. I think, is bad. You can look at one ball until you get so dizzy you don't get over it for hours.

"Diet is an important aid to golfing. When training and playing in tournaments I am careful to eat only easily digested foods—chicken, bacon, ice cream, no starches, nothing that will make you stodgy. You need to have a clear head and steady nerves. Then sleep is necessary. I am naturally a great sleeper. It is not unusual for me to go to bed at half past eight. Avoid getting nervous and excited about anything. Do your very best and don't worry afterward if you have failed. Remember, it is only a game. If you take it too seriously, you are just ruining it and it is just a waste of time and energy."

"I am not through with amateur golf yet. I want to go on trying for the bigger titles. But in the meantime I want to try aviation. It is only a dream thus far, but I'd like to get hold of a secondhand plane and see if I can't learn to fly it."

Monday—Miss Martyn will interview the St. Louis swimming champions in this section of the Post-Dispatch.

Brief articles prepared by experts Edited by Dr. Iago Goldston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

The Sick Bed

The person "flat on his back" because of illness, his bed may be a rack of torture or a haven of comfort.

The proper care and arrangement of the sick bed therefore may contribute much to the patient's comfort, and the longer the illness the more important the bed becomes.

The sick person usually is best off in a single bed. It is easier to handle the patient in a bed not too wide, and it is easier to move the bed about from place to place. In making up the bed, thought should be given to the condition of the patient and to the probable services he will need. This is particularly important in the nursing of infants and children.

Where there is a risk of the mattress being soiled, it is advisable to place a rubber sheet over it. Oilcloth may be used where rubber sheeting is not available. This, as well as the rubber sheet, should be firmly fixed to the mattress to prevent shifting and wrinkling. The number of sheets and blankets that will be required for the comfort of the patient depends on the nature of the patient's disease and the season of the year.

In general, no more covering should be placed on the patient than is absolutely necessary to keep him warm and comfortable. The usual tendency is to over-heat the patient through too much covering.

The bed should be taken care of so that pillows, blankets, sheets and the mattress covers are smooth, straight and comfortable. In keeping the bed in order, the patient should be bothered as little as possible. It is possible, as you properly trained nurse can demonstrate in a jiffy, to remake a bed without turning the patient more than from one side to the other.

A tablespoon of cornstarch will often take the place of an egg in a recipe.

How Do Shoes Fit?

ARE you wondering why your feet are hurting you so much? Perhaps your shoes are at fault. They may be the right size and shape for your foot, but perhaps they are not properly fastened at the instep, which is the case with many of the new shoes.

If your shoes are not held in place at the instep, which is the point of control, every time you put your four foot down in walking it pushes toward the toe of your shoe. This continual slipping causes friction on certain parts of the foot and in time will cause inflammation and possibly soreness and this may be on the sole of the foot, the back of the heel, the big or little toe point, the tips of the toes or on the inner side of toes.

Wherever it is, it is extremely painful, and if you are thus troubled it is better to discard the shoes and cling to the stray type or the oxfords that give ample support to the foot at the instep, for improperly fitting shoes not only cause suffering to the foot but they affect the entire nervous system and often disturb the general health.

Public Demand for Securities Still Is Lacking—
News From Business World Continues to Show a Cheerful Tone.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Share prices dipped further, then rebounded, in today's stock market, about 10 minutes after opening. Closing prices were unchanged to a point higher, in prominent issues.
Trading was fairly active, aggregating 1,000,000 shares for the two-hour session, but remained almost entirely professional. A downturn during the first hour gave the bears a chance to cover without canceling the declines of the previous session, but a fairly brisk rally developed which erased most of the declines of 1 to 6 points recorded during the first hour.
Bulls evidently were willing to let bears take another flag. In view of the scant following which had been attracted on the upside, feeling that bears would have little better luck and incidentally improve the market's technical position. Bears found offerings scant when they attempted to cover their short sales before the close, but were not pressed very hard by the bull crowd.
Some Shares Close Higher.
United States Steel and General Motors were unchanged from the previous closing price at the finish, although the former had dipped 2 points earlier. Steels generally were ready to firm. Bethlehem, New York, and National Steel gained about a point each. Other shares closing a point or so higher included McKeesport, Gillette, Autostop, International Harvester and Loew's. American Water Works was a buoyant feature, closing with a net gain of 4. Radio finished fractionally lower, and Columbian carillon was off 3. International Business Machines, which has fluctuated erratically of late, was down 6.
Bulls were encouraged by the fact that the short selling yesterday and the short selling yesterday, a negligible amount of real liquidation of long holdings. Professional efforts on the short side of the market have had to face the same problem that the bull campaign has; that is, general speculative apathy on the part of the public.
Trade Reports Cheerful.
Business reports appearing at the end of the week were still in the more cheerful vein notable since the middle of August, but were evidently not decisive enough to encourage any general buying of stocks. Some commission houses have reported a slight increase in public buying this week but others have noticed no change.
Weekend reports from the steel industry indicated slight change in operations during the next few days. Youngstown Sheet and Tube plans to keep its mills working at this week's rate during the next week. The recent spurt in Newton Steel stock was explained by a report that negotiations for a merger with Corcoran McKimney Steel Co. were under way. Such a transaction would bring Newton into the Eaton-Mather group. The smaller units may be merged as a result of the depression, for the larger organizations have shown greater stability.
Banking interest will be turned to the Sept. 15 income tax collections and Treasury financing next week. The Government is expected to make its customary overdraft of some $200,000,000 at the Federal Reserve in anticipation of the tax collections. Last March, the overdraft resulted in a flood of funds being thrown on to the money market, but banking circles expect means will be employed to prevent such a development next week, although extremely plentiful money is expected for a few days.
Closing stock prices will be found on pages 7A, 8A and 9A.
